NEGROES FORCE COLOR LINE ISSUE ON THE JITNEYS

Five Invade Machine and Refuse to Get Out Till Taken to Police Station.

SERVICE TO CLAYTON

Line From the De Balliviere Car Sheds to County Has Been Established.

Whether negroes have a right to ride in the jitney automobiles was brought to a direct issue this morning when six negro men were arrested after entering one of the machines at Fourth street and Washington avenue and refusing to get out when the driver declined to carry them as passengers.

In the end the negroes got a free ride in the jitney car, but the terminus was Central District Police Station, and they were put in holdover cells on peace disturbance charges preferred by John J. Hickey of 1009 Blendon place, owner of the jitney car.

Hickey's touring car was standing at Fourth street and Washington avenue about 8 a. m. He left the corner for a few minutes and when he returned he found six negro men in the machine. He ordered them to get out and one of the negroes replied: "This is a public conveyance. We've got jitneys to pay for a ride and you've got to carry us."

Won't Haul Negroes.

"This is my own private car," said Hickey and I won't let negroes ride in it. I have a right to say who shall ride. There are lots of white people I wouldn't carry. I wouldn't carry a drunken man or anyone who didn't behave himself."

"Well, we're sober and we're citizens and we demand the right to ride," said the negro.

Hickey called a policeman. The negroes remained firm in their determination to ride and according to the policeman's report Hickey said to them:

"I'll tell what I'll do. If you'll each give me $5 I'll carry you to Grand avenue."

No, sir," said the spokesman for the negroes. "We're going to stay in this machine till we get a ride."

The policeman climbed into the car and ordered Hickey to drive to Central Station. On the way the negroes were in jubilant mood and the one who had done most of the talking said: "I told you we'[illegible] get a ride, and we're sure getting it."

[illegible]nted Driver Arrested.

Whe[illegible] Hickey formally charged the negro[illegible] with disturbing his peace they insist[illegible] that he be arrested for refusing to c[illegible]y them in a public conveyance, but [illegible] was not held.

The negroes gave the names of William Goodson, 3436 Lawton avenue; Eugene Woods, 2616 Lawton avenue; Charles Cross, 2322 Pine street; James Scott, 2628 Lawton avenue, and John Ford, 3217 Lawton avenue, and Peter Hardin of 2722 Lawton avenue. Hardin got out of the machine after parleying and was standing on the sidewalk when arrested.

In the organized jitney service this morning 17 touring cars and two motor busses were running, and an almost equal number of independent cars were being operated. There were not enough machines to handle the traffic.

Six of the touring cars of the Motors Service Co. were operating along the route of the Wellston line from Taylor and Easton avenues to Broadway and Washington avenue, and independent cars were being run from Marcus and Easton avenues.

The jitney has now invaded St. Louis County. As if "adding insult to injury," it has its eastern terminal directly in front of the United Railways division headquarters and sheds at Delmar and De Balliviere avenues. The one machine in the county service runs from this point to Clayton, making the round trip in 25 minutes, as against a 40-minute street car schedule.

TWO TRIALS IN REVOLVING DOOR CASES ARE CONTINUED

Judge Hogan Suggests Public Safety Director Be Summoned as a Witness.

Weston E. Browne, manager of a restaurant at 604 Market street, and George Turner, manager of a restaurant at 517 Market street, were tried in police court before Judge Hogan today on the charge of violating the ordinance which requires that doors open outward.

The testimony against them was that revolving doors are maintained by them. It was contended by John Bocock, representing the city, that revolving doors did not swing outward within the meaning of the ordinance.

A model of a revolving door was exhibited by Alexander Galt in behalf of the defendants. Experiments were made which showed that under strong pressure from the inside the four wings of the door collapsed into one, leaving a passage of 22 inches in width on both sides. Judge Hogan suggested that Director of Public Safety Swingley be summoned as a witness and continued the cases to March 2.

Boy Knocked Down by a Car.

Henry Hirchbock, 6 years old, of 3853 Garfield avenue, when crossing Easton avenue, near Vandeventer avenue, yesterday afternoon, was struck by a Wellston car and knocked down, but was only bruised.

The Post-Dispatch Scores a Notable News Achievement

IN giving to its readers, in its Home Edition, Thursday, the practically complete text of the German reply to the American protest against interference with our shipping, several hours in advance of all other St. Louis afternoon papers and in advance even of its receipt by the American State Department, the Post-Dispatch added another triumph in vigilant news gathering to its record.

To the alertness of the Associated Press Bureau in Berlin is due this feat in journalism. It procured the text in advance of its transmission to the State Department at Washington and rushed it by cablegram to all its subscribers.

Not all of the text had arrived in the Post-Dispatch office when the Home Edition was sent to press, about 400 words being omitted, but it was all in for the Night Edition two hours later.

The State Department at Washington received its first information of the contents of this extraordinary diplomatic document from the Associated Press report.

The Post-Dispatch is the only St. Louis afternoon newspaper that receives the Associated Press dispatches.

AMATEUR ACTORS IN ARTISTIC ROW, PLAY CALLED OFF

Director's Notice to 250 Members of The Players Sarcastic Toward Four of Them.

PROTEST OVER TELEPHONE

Mrs. Everett Pattison Said to Have Severely Arraigned Tyrell Williams.

Artistic dissensions in the ranks of The Players, an amateur organization containing a number of persons well-known in social and literary circles, have been revealed by the announcement that Shakspeare's "A Winter Tale," which was scheduled for production at the Victoria Theater, Feb. 9, and was later postponed until after Lent, will not be produced at all.

A protest against the production of the play was signed by Montgomery Schuyler, George Blackman, Miss Thekla Bernays, Mrs. Everett Pattison, Mrs. William Flewellyn Saunders, Miss Zoe Akins and several other members. A reply to the protest, in the form of an open letter, signed by Tyrrell Williams, a member of the law faculty of Washington University, and one of the directors of The Players, was sent last week to each of the 250 members of the organization.

Letter Is Sarcastic.

The letter was sarcastic in tone, and was addressed to four of the protestors, Blackman, Mrs. Pattison and Misses Akins and Bernays. Mrs. Pattison and Miss Akins are said to have taken the view that the letter should not have been sent to all the members, and to have told Williams so, Miss Akins in a letter and Mrs. Pattison in a telephone message. The tone of this discussion is said to have become severe, and some friends of Williams say he was told by Mrs. Pattison that the statements in his letter were "wholly inaccurate."

The Players have been producing two or thre plays a season, since the organization was formed three years ago. Plans were begun last November for the performance of "A Winter's Tale," and the role of Queen Hermione was assigned to Mrs. George E. Norton, wife of the rector of the Episcopal Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Melville Burke, a Yeatman High School teacher, was chosen stage manager, and Mrs. Norton was to share his work in directing the production.

A cast of nearly 40 is required for "A Winter's Tale," and it proved difficult to get the selected members of the cast to attend rehearsals. Some of the members began to complain that the work was dragging, and that, at that rate not more than one play could be produced in the season. After the postponement from Feb. 9 was announced, the protest was signed by a number of members, and was sent to the board of directors, of which Clarence Stratton is chairman. The directors decided to call the play off.

Last Saturday Blackman, Mrs. Pattison and Misses Bernays and Akins received Williams' letter. All the other members of The Players got copies of the leter in Monday's mail. The letter, in part, read:

"You are the dominant figures in a systematic effort to bring about the non-production of 'A Winter's Tale' by The Players. Your effort has been entirely successful. 'A Winter's Tale' will not be produced.

"The executive board is unwilling to permit any group of normally minded amateurs to produce any play in the face of studied and confederated hostility. If all the factions in the club cannot acquiesce in letting the club be managed as the constitution provides, no more plays will be staged this year."

"AMERICA UEBER ALLES," BARTHOLDT SAYS IN FAREWELL

St. Louis Congressman Declares German-Americans in U. S. Are Patriots First.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Representative Bartholdt of Missouri made his farewell speech in the House today, denouncing "the newspapers against Germany." He declared Americans of German descent are, with all other true Americans, "for America first, last and always," and protested against American shipments of arms to the allies.

"In our present demand against England," he said, "our only alternative is either to give in or to declare war. The threat of an embargo on arms, however, would quickly bring the mistress of the seas to terms without war."

Portraying the "steadfast devotion of citizens of German blood to American ideals and the flag" Bartholdt declared:

"If unfortunately the United States should ever again be embroiled in war, which Heaven forbid, the Germans of this country would again as loyally rally around the Stars and Stripes. The Germans of this country are for America against England, for America against Germany, for America against the world They will never waver for one second in their allegiance to their adopted land."

Bartholdt said Americans of German descendent had been openly accused of divided allegiance and downright disloyalty, and that while they know that "this wanton insult emanated from English and French press agents, and they treat it with contempt, they resent that, in the face of our own history, the American press should have opened its columns to such calumnies."

"The war," he said, "was started with a monstrous lie, and to support it, a thousand lies had to be told. The Germans were denounced as ravishers and plunderers, and worse. The struggle is a warfare of falsehood against truth."

Colorado Strike Benefits Stop.

WIFE'S PHONE BILL DISCLOSED "OTHER MAN" TO HUSBAND

J. F. Lloyd, Sued for Abandonment, Asserts She Met H. J. Goebbels in Terminal Hotel.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Mrs. Aurora Agnes Lloyd, daughter of A. J. O'Brien, a St. Louis inventor, is suing Joseph F. Lloyd for wife abandonment before Judge Sabath in the Court of Domestic Relations here.

In the testimony given, references were made to a $50,000 suit filed in St. Louis, the former home of the Lloyds, by Lloyd against Harry J. Goebbels, president of the St. Louis House Furnishing Co., for the alienation of Mrs. Lloyd's affections. Lloyd testified he left his wife and his home in this city after he had seen her enter a room in the Terminal Hotel, St. Louis, with Goebbels, on the morning of Dec. 16.

Mrs. Lloyd testified that she had gone to St. Louis Dec. 16 at the request of William T. von Plank, a friend of her husband, who, she says, told her to go to St. Louis and make Goebbels believe that she needed money to fight suits which her husband was about to bring against her.

"Make him think this suit which your husband is about to bring is terrible," she said Von Plank told her, "and whatever money you get from Goebbels we will split 50—50."

"I first heard of my wife's relations with Goebbels when I went to pay a telephone bill which should have been 45 cents, about the first of December," the defendant testified. "The bill was $2.95 and upon inquiry I found that $2.50 of that amount was for a long distance call made by my wife to Goebbels in St. Louis.

"Von Plank, who lived in the same apartment with me, told me that he had overheard the conversation over the telephone between my wife and Goebbels. He said that he had heard my wife promise to meet Goebbels in St. Louis Dec. 16. She told me that she wanted to visit her mother there and for that reason, I gave her the money to make the trip."

Lloyd said he arrived in St. Louis on another train a half hour before his wife and saw her go into a hotel room with Goebbels.

When questioned about her acquaintance with Goebbels, Mrs. Lloyd wiped tears from her eyes. She said she met Goebbels about three years ago while purchasing furniture from his firm in St. Louis.

Lloyd later in the day filed suit for divorce, naming Goebbels as corespondent.

DOYLE IS GRIEVED THAT GERMANS USE HIS SEA WAR PLAN

Author Says Its Painful to Think What He Wrote Is Turned Against His Country.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1915, by Press Pub. Co.)

LONDON, Feb. 19.—"Neutral Observer's" statement in the London Times yesterday that, according to well-informed Germans, the idea of the submarine blockade of England was borrowed by their Government from Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's story, "Danger," published last spring, has grieved the author.

The story set up the mythical country of Norland, which reduced England to starvation by just such a system of submarine attacks as is now proposed.

Situation Painful to Author.

"I need hardly say that it is very painful to me to think that anything I have written should be turned against my own country," said Sir Arthur today. "The object of the story was to warn the public of a possible danger which I saw overhanging this country and to show how to avoid that danger.

"I pointed out in the story three different methods by which the danger might be avoided, but war has come upon us so rapidly that none of these methods could be adopted.

"No Serious Effects on War."

"My reason was, that, after studying the subject, I concluded that the submarine at present was not capable of the results which I depicted, but it still is my opinion that, if this war had been delayed five years and if the submarine, during that time, had gone on improving as rapidly as it has done in the past, England would have been placed in a most serious position, exactly as outlined in the story.

"I am quite sure in the present circumstances that, although we may possibly lose more ships, the German blockade can have no serious effects on the war."

The thre different methods which the author pointed out for avoiding the "Danger" for which he named his story, and which he said could not be adopted because of the sudden oncoming of the war, were: The growing of enough supplies in Great Britain to feed her people; the building of a tunnel under the channel containing two double-track railways for the transportation of food, and the construction of large fleets of merchant submarines to carry foodstuffs.

"Danger" was printed in the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine in October last.

German Submarine Torpedoes a French Steamship Without Warning Off Dieppe.

ZEPPELINS IN NORTH SEA; ONE OF THEM STOPS SHIP

Administration at Washington Has No Fear That Germans Will Destroy American Ships —Cabinet Informally Discusses Situation, Awaiting Official Text.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—All travel between England and the Continent of Europe has been suspended by the British Admiralty until further notice, according to advices received today at the State Department.

Some State Department officials interpreted the suspension of "travel" as referring to passengers until there could be some rearrangement of ship schedules with protection of convoys, but other officials thought it might temporarily include all commercial intercourse across the English Channel. The suspension by the British Admiralty will affect transatlantic traffic considerably.

DIEPPE, France, Feb. 19.—A German submarine torpedoed this morning without warning the French steamer Dinorah, from Havre for Dunkirk, at a point 16 miles off Dieppe. The Dinorah did not sink, but was towed into Dieppe. No mention is made of the loss of any of the crew.

A plate on the port side of the steamer below the water line was stove in by the torpedo. Nevertheless the Dinorah managed to keep afloat by hard pumping. Word of the occurrence was taken into Dieppe by fishing boats and assistance for the Dinorah promptly was sent out. She was towed into port and her cargo will be discharged here.

The presence of a German submarine off Cape Ailly was reported four days ago.

The daily steam traffic service between Dieppe and England has been suspended.

Tank Steamer Strikes Mine Off Dover And Is Beached.

DOVER, Feb. 19.—The Norwegian tank steamship Belridge, which sailed from New Orleans Jan. 28 and Newport News Feb. 5 for Amsterdam, struck a mine today off Dover.

The vessel has been beached at Walmer. Her forepeak and her forehold are water-logged, and her foredeck is awash. The pilot on board and 18 men of her crew have been landed.

Liner Delays Sailing to Wait for Americans Marooned in Paris.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—About 100 Americans are marooned in Paris and unable to cross the English Channel because of the cancellation of sailings due to the German submarine blockade. They have communciated their plight to Ambassador Page, through the embassy at Paris, and Page has arranged with the American line to hold the steamer New York, due to sail Saturday from Liverpool, until Sunday. The marooned Americans in the French capital have made arrangements to cross from Havre and the day's delay in the sailing of the New York will permit them to make their connections with the liner.

ZEPPELIN FLEET OVER NORTH SEA

Airship Trains Guns on Dutch Steamer—Whole Force Said to Be Patrolling Waters.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The activity of Zeppelin airships over the North Sea continues, telegraphs the correspondent at Copenhagen of the London Star, and this in spite of the fact that two airships recently have been lost. Gaps in the fleet caused by disaster are being filled by Zeppelins drawn from the airship stations in Western Germany.

A dispatch from Copenhagen last night described the loss of two German airships in the North Sea. The Zeppelin L3 exploded on Fance Island Wednesday and another such airship, commanded by Capt. Count Platen, sank 10 miles north of Jutland yesterday and four of the crew were drowned and others were injured. It has been asserted that the entire Zeppelin fleet is patrolling the North Sea just outside of English waters. Zeppelin No. 3 is believed to be the flagship.

A dispatch from Rotterdam says the Dutch steamer Helena was overhauled in the North Sea last Sunday by the Zeppelin L5, which trained her guns on the steamer and ordered her to heave to. When satisfied as to the Helena's identity the Captain of the Zeppelin apologized and reascended with his craft.

Kaiser, Prince Henry and Von Tirpitz Go to Western Naval Stations.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Copenhagen, dated Thursday, says:

"Emperor William, with his brother, Admiral Prince Henry of Prussia, and Admiral von Tirpitz, the Minister of Marine, and their staffs, left Berlin today for Wilhelmshaven, Helgoland and other naval stations to direct the arrangements for blockading England.

"It is reported that the Germans have built 120 big mine-laying submarines during the last six months, each with a carrying capacity of over 100 mines."

A Rotterdam dispatch to the Daily Mail says that after working day and night for months, the Germans have almost completed 20 new forts at Wilhelmshaven. A number of foreign workmen who were employed in this work are now being dismissed.

Germans Told Not to Expect Early News From Submarines

BERLIN, via LONDON, Feb. 19.

NO immediate news from the submarine campaign against Great Britain is expected in naval circles here because several days must elapse before the submarine fleet can return to its base and report the result of operations. No news is expected from England regarding the destruction of ships.

Semi-official announcement was made here that it probably will be some days, possibly 10 to 15, before news is received in Germany of the actual beginning or marine operations in British waters yesterday. This announcement, it was said, should serve as a warning not to believe rumors and to await the publication of official reports.

Administration Has No Fear That Germans Will Sink American Ships

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The German reply to the American note of warning against damage to American ships in the naval war zone was discussed informally today at the meeting of the Cabinet with President Wilson, and after the meeting it was said that it was considered that the situation was not at all threatening and the administration had no fear that any American ship would be sunk. The reply was discussed only in an informal way because the official text of the German communication has not been received in Washington.

Citizens Fleeing From Most Populous Section of Russia as Germans Drive Muscovites Back — Railroads Invaders' Goal.

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 19, by wireless to Sayville).—That the Germans are continuing their successes against the Russians beyond the East Prussian frontier is disclosed in the official statement given out today by army headquarters, which says:

"The Germans yesterday occupied Tauroggen (in the Russian Province of Kovno).

"The engagements of the pursuing Germans with the retreating Russians to the northwest of Grodno and to the north of Auchswola are nearing their end. The battle to the northwest of Kolno still continues. South of Mysyniec the Germans drove the Russians out of several villages.

"To the north of the Vistula in Poland, minor engagements are taking place on both sides of the River Wkra to the east of Racionz.

"In the western theater of the war: On the road to Arras and Lille the French have been thrown out of the section of the German trench which was occupied by them on Feb. 16.

"In the Champagne district renewed attacks made by strong French forces broke down completely under German fire. One hundred additional prisoners fell into German hands. Short sections of the German trenches which were taken by the Rrench on Feb. 16 we partly reconquered.

"In the reported French attack on Boureuilles and Vauquois five officers and 479 uninjured men were captured

"To the east of Verdun, near Combres, the French, after a shortlived success under heavy losses, were repulsed.

"In the Vosges the Germans stormed 'Height 600' to the south of Lusse and took two machine guns."

French Drive Germans Out of Norroy; Maintain Other Gains.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—The official communication issued last night said:

"Near Roclincourt the Germans delivered five counter attacks, with the object of retaking the trenches, which had been occupied by us Feb. 17. These were all repulsed and several hundred dead were left on the ground, among them several officers.

"In Champagne, in the region of Souain, Perthes and Beausejour, the enemy delivered, first, in the night of Feb. 17-18, then on the morning of the 18th, two very violent counter attacks along the whole front for the purpose of recapturing the trenches lost by him on the 16th and 17th. These two counter attacks were completely repulsed, our troops driving back their assailants at the point of bayonets.

"In maintaining these gains we have taken three machine guns and several hundred prisoners. According to the declaration of these prisoners the German regiments suffered very heavy losses, reaching in some cases one in four and in other cases one-half of their effectives.

"On the heights of the Meuse, in the vicinity of Eparges, where, on Feb. 17, we gained some ground, this ground has been retained notwithstanding a counter attack by the enemy.

"In Lorraine, in the region of Xon, we delivered an attack which enabled us to capture the village of Norroy and occupy the whole position. It is untrue that the Germans have, as announced in their communication, evacuated Norroy. They have been driven out of it.

"In Alsace supplementary details show that the southern peak of the Sudel farm, conquered by us on Wednesday, constituted a formidably organized redoubt. There we took a bomb thrower, five machine guns, some hundreds of rifles, shields, bombs, utensils, barbed wire entanglements, telephone apparatus and thousands of cartridges and sacks for holding earth."

Russians Admit Retirement in Bukowina; Warsaw Roads Menaced.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 19.—The following official communication from the headquarters of the Commander in Chief of the Russian forces was issued last night:

"The fighting on the front between the Niemen and the Vistula continued Feb. 17, reaching the climax of stubbornness in the region of Augustowo and also on the roads from Cierpec to Plonsk.

"On the left bank of the Vistula there was no fighting.

"In the Carpathians we repulsed a series of obstinate attacks by the Austrians on the front from Svidnik to the upper San. In the regions of Kozlouwka, Toukolka, Senetchouw, Wyszkow and Klaousee we made several successful counter attacks while we also continued to repulse the continous general attacks.

"In Bukowina our columns have fallen back beyond the River Pruth.

The German advance from East Prussia upon the towns of Kovno and Grodno appears designed to cut the railroad communication to Warsaw, rather than to an effort to take the Russian fortified positions in that territory.

Along the line from Plock to the Niemen, which is a little short of 200 miles in length, there has been intermittent fighting. From all the towns in this district, the most populous of the empire, the civil population is fleeing, thronging the highways and railroads.

The German advance guards are reported to have proceeded from Augustowo toward the railroad between Grodno and Bialystok and to have reached within 12 miles of the former place, where they are said to have been checked by the Russians.

Traffic on the Petrograd-Warsaw line through Vilna had temporarily suspended for military purposes.

The Germans also are reported to be attempting to break through between Kovno and Grodno, taking advantage of the frozen Augustowo marshes and Niemen River, and facing the possibility of an early thaw which might leave them at the mercy of the Russians as developed during a previous similar advance in the early fall, when the swamp made the country impassable.

The line to the north of Warsaw of Blonsk, Nowo-Gorgiewsk, and Serock is well defended.

Austrians Occupy Czernowitz and Drive Russians Beyond Pruth.

VIENNA, via Amsterdam, Feb. 19.—Yesterday's official statement said:

"On the Carpathian front the situation generally is unchanged, although there was heavy fighting yesterday almost verywhere. Numerous attacks of the Russians were repulsed with heavy losses to them and 320 Russians were taken prisoners.

"By our occupation of Kolomea, the Russians lost an important point in East Galicia, south of the Dniester River.

"From the direction of Stanislau hostile reinforcements led to new and important fighting north of Nadworna and northeast of Kolomea, which still is proceeding.

"In Bukowina the enemy has been driven beyond the Pruth and Czernowitz has been occupied by our troops. Wednesday afternoon the Russians retreated in the direction of Nowosielitza."

AN enterprising French housewife opened a little coffee house along one of the routes of march through France to the front and served hot tea and coffee to the soldiers and inhabitants of the district at 10 centimes (2 cents) a cup. She had a head for business for she named her little inn "The Hearty Welcome" to attract the British troops of the region. Three English soldiers in their sheepskins are seen here taking some steaming coffee while their French comrade is awaiting his turn.

be found for identifying and safeguarding American ships venturing into the war zone was understood to have been taken up. It was agreed, however, that the American Government had no authority to order ships to adopt such measures as were taken in Holland and the Scandinavian countries, which include the painting of the nationality of the ship in large letters on each side. Ships of these nationalities now in American ports are having this painting done.

It was understood, however, that inquiries would be sent to maritime insurance companies to learn if any measures were contemplated for identifying neutral ships.

Official Text on the Way.

There have been no advices from Ambassador Gerard that the German reply has been delivered to him, although officials know from other sources that the German note has been delivered to the American Ambassador and is on its way to America.

Officials explained the delay by pointing out that the Ambassador has been using the cable which comes from Rome and goes over a circuitous route with numerous relays, while the unofficial information about the correspondence has been sent from Berlin to London through neutral countries and then has taken the direct cable to the United States.

That other neutral countries, especially Holland and the Scandinavian countries, also are apprehensive concerning the situation and have consulted the United States, became known today. While there is no understanding implying joint action if any neutral vessels are sunk, the Washington Government has made it plain that it is in accord with the steps already taken by other neutral Powers, copies of their notes and representations having been furnished to officials here.

That the United States is looking for a removal of some of the causes of the present complication in the forthcoming answer from England to the American note concerning the misuse of flags, was intimated in some official quarters.

It was pointed out that if categorical assurances were given by Great Britain and her allies that none of their vessels would be permitted to fly the American or other neutral flags, the safety of American vessels in the war zones would be guaranteed, and German submarines would be obliged to visit and search neutral vessels for contraband before destroying them as prizes. In this case, then, it was added, the dangers for neutral vessels laden with noncontraband cargoes would be confined only to mines, the indiscriminate laying of which on the high seas would be a subject of protest by the United States unless pilots or safe channels were given.

Warship Convoy Impracticable.

The suggestion in the German note that convoys of American warships should accompany American merchant men was looked upon by officials as impractical, because it imposes an obligation on the United States to guarantee the character of cargoes of outgoing vessels, a requirement not covered by any domestic law. Moreover, if mines were laid as Germany announces her intention of doing, convoys, in the opinion of American officials, would still be endangered by mines and public opinion in the United States might be much more seriously aroused by the destruction of a warship than by a merchantman. In fact, the disposition was to regard the sowing of mines in large sea areas as creating a greater menace than submarine warfare.

In German official quarters here the possibility of complications with neutrals over the war-zone decree was not regarded as likely to occur because it was pointed out that Germany's campaign was aimed at steamers carrying cargoes of contraband and not vessels devoted entirely to passenger traffic. There would be no object, it was said, in destroying even enemy passenger ships, although they might be captured and diverted from their courses.

Every Precaution for Defense Taken by The Netherlands.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 19.—The critical situation brought about by the German naval demonstration which it was announced would begin yesterday has greatly impressed governmental circles here. A reply to the Dutch protest against the proposed submarine blockade has not yet been received, but is expected momentarily.

Work was continued in all Government offices until late last evening and several conferences were held between ministers. No real uneasiness is felt as to Holland's position, but every precaution has been taken by all branches of the defensive forces in view of possible eventualities.

Considerable troop movements are reported along the frontier facing Germany. The water defenses are understood to be ready for any emergency. Recruits for the army reached their training depots yesterday and more will arrive today.

Many Dutch vessels are in British waters on their way to or from ports in Holland. Some apprehension is felt in shipping circles, but it is pointed out that these merchantmen are easily distinguishable and consequently it is hoped there will be no untoward happenings. The reported encounters of the Dutch steamer Helena with a Zeppelin airship in the North Sea, and the fact that the vessel was not harmed is regarded as indicating that Germany does not intend to attack neutrals.

An official statement issued by the Government gives the contents of the note of protest sent to Germany. The note declares that the Netherlands has pursued a strictly neutral attitude to both Great Britain and Germany and protests against Germany declaring as a theater of war such an enormous stretch of water which peaceful neutral vessels may not safely enter or cross. It adds that the sinking of merchantmen on suspicion, without arrest or search, would contravene international law and that if a Dutch ship were thus sunk, the Netherlands would hold Germany responsible.

EASTERN PAPERS SAY GERMAN NOTE MAKES WEAK CASE

"STRICT ACCOUNTABILITY"

First and Last Word of U. S. Government; "No Toleration of Maritime Lynch Law."

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—All the New York papers in their editorial comment on the German note take the view that the Kaiser's Ministers have made out a weak case indeed, and the World is already looking to the day of Germany's defeat. Boston and Philadelphia papers are emphatic in upholding the stand of the United States.

The New York Times finds some value in the German hint that the United States put an embargo on the shipment of munitions of war, saying this suggestion might be kept in mind against the time when we may find a retaliatory measure valuable in dealing with England's interference with our trade. The editorials in the New York papers follow:

WORLD: Under caption "Strict Accountability":

The German reply to the American note is a paraphrase and amplification of the original war-zone proclamation

No attempt is made to square German policy with any established rule of international law. On the contrary, Germany asserts in effect that when the law of nations and the rights of neutrals interfere with the military purposes of the German Government the decrees of autocracy are the supreme law.

The threat against neutral vessels which may enter this paper war zone which Germany undertakes to create is emphasized and elaborated in the note made public yesterday. Berlin says:

> Neutral vessels which, despite this ample notice which greatly affects the achievement of our aims in our war against Great Britain, enter these closed waters will themselves bear the responsibility for any unfortunate accidents that may occur. Germany disclaims all responsibility for such accidents and their consequences.

The answer to this is to be found in the President's note of Feb. 10:

> If such a deplorable situation should arise the Imperial German Government can readily appreciate that the Government of the United States would be constrained to hold the Imperial German Government to a strict accountability for such acts of their naval authorities, and to take any steps it might be necessary to take to safeguard American lives and property, and to secure to American citizens the full enjoyment of their acknowledged rights on the high seas.

"Strict accountability" is the first and the last word of the United States Government on this question. What Germany says about this matter is not highly important. The President has made it plain that the United States will tolerate no policy of maritime lynch law in respect to the lives and property of its citizens. On that issue the American people stand united.

It is not our affair that British sea power is slowly crushing Germany under its weight of guns and armor plate. It is not our affair that the German navy is afraid to risk a decisive battle with the British navy for the military mastery of the sea in this conflict. It is not our affair that Great Britain can obtain food and munitions of war from neutral states and Germany cannot. When Germany invaded Belgium and brought Great Britain into the war, she assumed all the disadvantages as well as the advantages of that undertaking. The United States will not submit to have the lives and property of its citizens snuffed out in a desperate attempt on the part of Germany to overcome at the expense of neutrals the superiority of British sea power, which holds her in a grip of steel.

American Case Fairly Stated.

The American case has been fairly stated by the President. There is nothing that can be added to it. Unless Germany is determined to isolate herself from all the world except her Turkish and her Austrian allies, unless she is resolved to strip herself of every friend, unless it is her purpose to become the outlaw of the nations, with her hand raised against every man and every man's hand raised against her, she will abide by the kindly and courteous warning which she has already received from President Wilson. This is not a question of alienating the United States alone. It is a question of alienating all neutral nations whose ships sail the seas. What will be the ultimate fate of Germany, if when the final day of reckoning comes, she has not a single friend in court to plead for mercy or consideration in her behalf?

"Proposal to Run Amuck."

MORNING SUN: In a few words this amazing note means that Germany does not intend to be governed by the rules of civilized warfare in the extensive "zone" she has proclaimed, and that she will acknowledge no responsibility if neutral ships that fail to keep away are torpedoed and destroyed.

If the design is to frighten neutral shipping, it may succeed with weak nations, but the United States would be untrue to its traditions and in the sight of all nations it would show the white feather if it did not enter a spirited, vigorous and emphatic protest against the proposal of Germany to "run amuck" in British waters and blindly strike at friends found in her pathway as well as at the armed enemy.

"An Appeal to Neutrals."

TRIBUNE: The whole German argument is simply an appeal to neutral nations to help her to overcome the military disadvantage under which she labors from the inability of her fleets to keep the sea. If she had the naval resources to carry through the ambitious program of starving out Great Britain her admiralty has announced, she would not bother to complain of failure of neutral commerce to maintain its rights on the high seas.

The fact that supplies, including munitions of war, do not move freely into Germany and do move freely into the countries with which she is at war creates no moral or legal obligation on the part of neutrals to redress that balance.

U. S. Might Use Arms Embargo if Needed to Retaliate Against England.

TIMES: A blockade to be binding must be effective and Germany cannot pretend that she can make this blockade effective by force sufficient really to prevent access to the enemies' coast line. She transcends her rights, therefore, when she assumes to warn neutral shipping that it will enter the war zone at its peril and that for such "accidents" Germany disclaims all responsibility. That disclaimer we have in advance rejected. If Germany could belt the British Islands with war ships sufficient in power to establish a lawful and binding blockade, then our ships would indeed be without recourse if they attempted to run the blockade. What the note has to say about our traffic in arms and munitions of war with the allies is little more than the expression of a wish. The note admits the entire lawfulness of that traffic, but with a delicacy that is a pathetic evidence of the straits to which Germany has been reduced in the war, hints that we might refuse to ship arms as a retaliation for interference by the allies with our commerce to Germany. The hint may be taken under advisement when interference goes so far as to justify retaliatory measures.

Boston Paper's Opinion.

The Boston Transcript sees in the German reply a purpose to make the United States a cat's paw.

TRANSCRIPT: The German response is disappointing because it gives no effective guarantees for the protection of our vessels and reiterates the pretension that a blockade can be made by proclamation without a visible supporting fleet. It also suggests we afford naval convoy to our shipping in the threatened waters, which, in effect, is to put upon our shoulders obligations of protection and precaution which Germany ought to assume. Throughout Germany's reply runs the purpose to make the United States the cat's paw in drawing German food supplies out of the fire.

Comment in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia papers in their comment are emphatic in upholding American rights and criticise the German attitude severely. Editorials from them follow:

RECORD: What neutrals should be concerned with is their own rights and, if they should confine their efforts to maintaining those rights, the difficulties of the situation would be reduced more than one-half. Neutrals have the right to carry on trade in nonmilitary foodstuffs and in the raw materials of peaceful industry with belligerents; and Germany admits this, while Great Britain denies it. Evidently the interests in common of all neutrals would be served by inducing Great Britain to recede from her position; and this truth is emphasized by the offer of Germany to "draw conclusions from the new situations that would result from the success of such efforts."

PRESS: Germany undertakes to place upon Great Britain the blame for a policy which proposes to ignore the rights of neutrals on the high seas. She even suggests that we shall bring pressure to bear upon Great Britain to alter her policy concerning neutral ships carrying supplies to Germany. Both are questions which we cannot enter into. Great Britain is equally emphatic in blaming Germany for the present situation. We are in no sense called upon to decide between these two belligerents in a war in which we have no part.

Can we protect our commerce and remain at peace? The situation is a most difficult one. The American position thus far seems to be to receive an abundance of friendly words and very few concessions to what we believe to be American and neutral rights on the high seas.

Terms of Declaration of London and the Stipulation of Paris

ADMIRAL VON BEHNCKE, in his interview with an Associated Press correspondent Wednesday, declared that it was Germany's wish to wage the war by sea in accordance with the "Declaration of London" and the "Stipulation of Paris," though Germany had never ratified the former. The attitude of England, however, in endeavoring to "starve the civilian population of Germany," had made it necessary for Germany to take drastic measures to shut off England's food supply, he said.

THE "Declaration of London" was issued by a conference participated in by the leading Powers of the world in London, Oct. 18, 1909. This conference was called as a result of a controversy over absolute contraband and conditional contraband, growing out of shipments from England to Japan, seized by the Russian Government during the Japanese War. Both Governments acknowledged that international law left the mercantile marine of the world in much uncertainty in time of war and that the time had come to clear up the fog and definitely define the rights of neutrals and of the civil population of belligerent nations.

The first pronouncement of this conference was to reaffirm in the same language the "Stipulation of Paris" as to blockades—that is, that a blockade, to command recognition, must be so effective that it could not be penetrated and that it must be confined to the ports and coast waters of the Power against which it was being waged. Neither in the "Declaration of London" nor in the "Stipulation of Paris" is the right of a belligerent Power to declare a war zone of any area of the high seas recognized.

The remainder of the "Declaration of London" is devoted to a definition of absolute and conditional contraband. Only material of a character that marks it definitely for military use or material and foodstuffs shipped directly to the troops of a belligerent can be classed as absolute contraband. The declaration says specifically that all other matter either is conditional or noncontraband and traffic in it is not to be impeded when it is shown conclusively that it is for civilan use. Of course, this rule is abrogated when an effective blockade exists. In that case, the purpose of the blackade is to cut off trade completely, and the right of a belligerent to do this is expressly recognized.

The "Stipulation of Paris" was adopted in Paris in 1856 by the Powers of Europe to eliminate privateering, which was classed as piracy by that convention. All the Powers of Europe ratified it but the United States refused to accept it on the ground that to do so would put it at the mercy of the European Governments, all of which had large navies while this country had only a small one. The United States continued to sanction privateers during the Civil War, as did the Confederate Government, but in the war with Spain in 1898, this country announced that it would conduct its blockade of Cuban ports in accordance with the "Stipulation of Paris," thus belatedly ratifying that agreement.

The only countries that formally accept the "Declaration of London' were Great Britain and the United States. The mater was still dragging in the chancelleries of the other Powers when the war started. The United States suggested that all the belligerents conform to the Declaration, but the suggestion was not received with favor in England with regard to Germany which had not yet ratified it, and, therefore, was in no position to claim its benefits. Germany was ready to accept the American position, but England, which foresaw the good it would do Germany by keeping neutral trade open, except in case of blockade, repudiated it. Thereupon the United States announced that it would withdraw also from the convention. The "Stipulation of Paris" thus becomes the prevailing rule of international law governing maritime commerce in war.

LONDON PAPERS CALL GERMAN NOTE UNPRECEDENTED

"Indigestible Propositions Set Before a Proud Nation," Declares the Post.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The London morning newspapers comment in strong terms on Germany's reply to the note of the United States concerning Germany's sea war zone.

They especially resent Germany's claim that the United States Government should not permit American arms and ammunition to reach the allies. They contend, in answer to Germany's suggestion that American warships convoy American food ships to Germany, that such convoys would not safeguard the vessels from striking mines.

The Morning Post, in an editorial, says these are somewhat indigestible propositions to set before a proud and great nation.

The Daily Chronicle, asserting that no country in the last 40 years has indulged in supplying arms to belligerents more than Germany herself and instancing as cases in point the Russo-Japanese and Balkan wars, says:

"Indeed, the substance of the German note is a pretty open demand that America shall take sides with Germany. Such a demand, accompanied as it is by threats, has seldom, if ever before, been publicly served by one great Power on another."

"We may safely guess," says the Daily News, "that America will see in the strange diplomatic effort of the German note no reason for changing its opinion that the destruction of American ships or citizens would be an outrage involving the greatest peril to peaceful relations between America and Germany. If Germany is prepared to run the risk, that is her concern."

The Times says: "The German reply will hardly help to restore the sadly damaged reputation of Teutonic diplomacy. Germany tells President Wilson and the American people that she will pay no attention to their remonstrances. We cannot remember anything quite like it in the history of recent diplomacy."

"Drone" Students Dismissed.

URBANA, Ill., Feb. 19.—War on drones was declared at the University of Illinois yesterday, when 22 students were dismissed and 200 more placed on probation.

DON'T WASH YOUR HAIR WITH SOAP

When you wash your hair, don't use soap. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified coconut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—ADV.

GARDEN SAGE DARKENS GRAY HAIR SO NATURALLY THAT NOBODY CAN TELL

Quickly Restores its Beauty and Lustre, Prevents Scalp Itching, Removes Dandruff and Stops Falling Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. While it is a mussy, tedious task it well repays those whose hair is turning gray, faded and streaked.

Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and luster of your hair and is the best thing known to remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody chooses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time which requires but a few moments. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair has disappeared and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. It certainly helps folks look years younger and twice as attractive, says a well-known downtown druggist. —ADV.

JAPAN EXPECTED TO MAKE DEMANDS ON CHINA CLEAR

Washington Officials Look for Voluntary Explanation Showing Which of Two Versions Should Be Accepted as Present Negotiation Basis.

INQUIRY BY U. S. IS NOT PROBABLE

Memorandum From Tokio Government Believed by American Authorities to Be Correct List of Present Demands.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—China has instructed her Ministers in the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia to deliver to these Powers a memorandum of the demands originally made by Japan for concessions and privileges in return for the restoration of territory of Kiauchau to China.

Kal Fu Shah, the Chinese Minister here, has just presented the memorandum to the State Department. This, on comparison with the memorandum which the Japanese Foreign Office on Feb. 9 gave to the diplomatic representatives of Great Britain, France, Russia and the United States, contains several other demands, about seven or eight in number.

Officials of the American Government had under consideration directing an informal inquiry to the American Ambassador at Tokio and the Minister at Pekin to learn which of the two versions was the present basis of negotiation. This plan, it was believed, would not be carried out because of the expectation that with the publicity already given to the Japanese demands, a voluntary explanation of the differences in the two versions probably would be forthcoming.

Standard Oil Co. Makes Inquiry.

Counsel for the Standard Oil Co. today made inquiry at the State Department as to the probable effect on the company's valuable Chinese concessions of the negotiations now in progress at Pekin and Tokio regarding Japanese spheres of influence in China.

They were informed that so far as the State Department officials knew, the negotiations did not relate to Szechuan Province, where the Standard is developing vast oil fields in return for large loans made to the Chinese Government.

Representative Ainey, Republican, of Pennsylvania, paid a tribute in the House today to Japan and the Japanese people. He praised Count Okuma and declared that sentiment in both Japan and the United States had been subject to some serious instances of misrepresentation. He said there were no more patriotic people in the world than the Japanese.

Japan's problem, he contended, was not the United States but China.

"It is a matter of self-preservation of Japan," he said, "that some line of action should be taken with respect to the future of China." He counseled against American entanglements in the far East.

Bryan Refuses to Give Opinion.

High officials here were disinclined to discuss the various demands, Secretary Bryan announcing that while the State Department had the matter "under consideration," no opinion could be given at this time. He denied published reports that a note had been sent to Japan, however, and it was stated authoritatively late yesterday that the American Government had not since the beginning of the negotiations made any representations or taken any diplomatic steps beyond keeping itself informed along with the other Powers.

The belief prevailed in official quarters that inasmuch as the Chinese memorandum antedated considerably the statement given the Powers by Japan, the latter document probably constituted the present basis of negotiations and signified either that the original demands were only tentative and orally made, or that they had been abandoned now altogether by Japan.

The Japanese version published yesterday, confining Japan's requests to privileges and concessions in Southern Manchuria, inner Mongolia and Shantung, does not, so far as competent American observers now are informed, conflict with the two policies to which the United States has been committed—the principle of maintaining the integrity of China and the "open door" for commercial opportunity.

As for the original version now given out by the Chinese Government, while officials and diplomats alike guarded its details with the utmost secrecy, there was a belief in some quarters, usually well informed, that the Japanese also had asked for privileges in certain localities, as the provinces of Fukien and Kiangsi, with new railway concessions and control of mining. Obligations requiring the consent of Japan before choosing political, financial or military advisers or the floating of loans were thought here, too, to have referred only to these provinces and not to the republic of China, although there are persistent reports that China as a whole was affected by the first set of requests.

According to the Japanese version, as given in Japan's memorandum to the powers, her demands are restricted to the territory within her spheres of influence, in China. They are summarized as follows:

In Shantung, China is not to alienate or lease to another power part of the Shangtung coast or islands; also Japan is to build a spur of railway from the main line back to Kiauchow, up to Chefoo.

In Manchuria and Mongolia: Lease of the railways acquired from Russia is to be extended; also four requests as to Japanese advisers investment of capital, foreign concessions, etc., in these regions.

In Fukien—as this is the province on the mainland of China, lying opposite to the Japanese Island of Formosa, China is not to cede or lease any port or bay in this locality.

It was pointed out in some quarters that it was to prevent discrimination against foreigners in these very spheres of influence that the "open-door" agreement between the Powers was brought about by the United States.

Secretary Hay's note to Japan on Nov. 13, 1899, said: "It has seemed to this Government highly desirable that the various Powers claiming 'spheres of influence' in China should give formal assurances: First, they will in no way interfere with any treaty port or any vested interest within any so-called sphere of interest or leased territory they may have in China."

Two other requests were that the Powers should supply the Chinese customs tariff to such regions, and that no higher harbor duties or railroad charges should be paid than by their own nationals in these respective spheres.

Japan's reply, given by Viscount Aoki, Minister of Foreign Affairs said, "The imperial Government will have no hesitation to give their assent to so just and fair a proposal of the United States."

WOMAN'S MIND DERANGED BY DEATH OF SON UNDER CAR

Mrs. William Heine, Taken to Hospital, Refuses to Believe That Boy Is Dead.

Mrs. William Heine of 3506 Hartford street, whose 5-year-old son, William, was run down and killed at noon yesterday by a Tower Grove street car, was sent to the Mullanphy Hospital today, suffering from temporary mental derangement. Her physician, Dr. G. Y. Briggs, said that she was in a serious condition.

Mrs. Heine arrived at the scene of the accident before the body of the child was taken from under the car. She became hysterical, and had to be taken home in an ambulance. Her physician said that in her temporary derangement she refused to believe that the boy was dead.

Boy Who Will Be Buried in His Police Zouave Uniform

THOMAS ROSSER ROEMER JR.

BOY, 7, MASCOT OF THE POLICE ZOUAVES, DIES

Son of Capt. Thomas R. Roemer Often Appeared in Drills on Field Days.

Thomas Rosser Roemer Jr., 7-year-old son of Capt. Roemer, drillmaster of the Police Department, known as the mascot of the Metropolitan Zouaves, died yesterday afternoon at the Roemer home, 3868 Shaw avenue. Heart weakness, following tonsilitis, was given as the cause by the attending physician.

The boy had been sick a week, but seemed to be recovering. His condition rapidly became worse yesterday, and at 1:30 Mrs. Roemer summoned her husband. The doctor injected anti-toxin serum at 2 o'clock, but an hour later the patient died.

The boy had been trained in the zouave manual and maneuvers by his father, and appeared on field days in a zouave uniform with the Metropolitan Zouaves, made up of policemen. Moving pictures showing him leading the company in a drill had been widely exhibited.

The funeral will take place at 9 o'clock Saturday morning froom the residence to Calvary Cemetery. The boy will be buried in his zouave uniform. Sergts. Smith, Kirk, Crone and Dalton will be the pallbearers.

TRAVELING MAN TELLS HOW HE FLOORED 'COUNT'

Six-Foot Guest at the Jefferson Says He Knocked Leschinsky Down Three Times.

ENCOUNTER WAS EXCITING

Incident in Lobby of Hostelry Followed Disappearance of Trade Sign From Door.

"Count" Leon J. Leschinsky collided with a six-foot Oklahoman in the Hotel Jefferson lobby yesterday afternoon, and although the Count was not saying anything about it this morning, the Oklahoman volubly explained the resultant damage was that he had floored the Count three times and was about to repeat when other guests separated them.

T. M. Binnion was the voluble one. In telling how it came about, he said that his room on the seventh floor was opposite that occupied by the Count and his wealthy bride, formerly the Baroness von Schrader. Binnion, like a number of other salesmen temporarily occupying rooms on that floor, tacked on his door a sign, stating his name and business. He sells women's wear for a New York concern, but his home is at Pauls Valley, Ok.

Binnion's Sleep Disturbed.

The salesman thinks the esthetic tastes of the Count and Countess were not in harmony with the mercantile atmosphere thus temporarily created. The Leschinskys, he explained, have been entertaining considerably, and their parties have not broken up until about 2 o'clock in the morning, so that Binnion has not been able to sleep much.

Binnion said he was awakened at 2 a. m. yesterday by loud talking in the hall, and immediately surmised the Leschinskys were bidding guests good-night. When the guests had departed and things had quieted a bit, Binnion heard someone pulling on his door.

Jumping out of bed the salesman opened the door suddenly and saw the Count and Countess hurriedly entering their room. Binnion noted his sign had been torn from his door.

Binnion was angry. When he next saw the Count, at noon in the hall outside their rooms, he told the Count what he thought of him, and added that although he "cussed out" the Count, no demonstration was then offered.

Says "Count" Bumped Him.

Four hours later Binnion was standing in the lobby, near the elevators, talking with a friend. An elevator came down and the Count stepped out. Binnion ignored him. The Count, he said, holding his head higher, started toward the clerk's desk, apparently unaware of Binnion's presence. But suddenly the Count bumped into him, Binnion said, with such force that he fell against a woman standing nearby. He had to hold on to the woman, Binnion said, to keep from falling.

Recovering his balance, Binnion explained, he struck the Count and floored him. The Count got up and rushed at him, meeting a fist that again floored him. But the Count got up and tried it again, with the same result. Ang again the Count regained his feet, Binnion said, renewing his effort to land a blow, when a number of men separated them. Binnion did not know what became of the Count, and he has not seen or heard of him since.

When a Post-Dispatch reporter, talking over the hotel telephone, told the Count's wife he wanted to hear the Count's version, she said her husband did not wish to discuss it.

Second Fight in Six Weeks.

This is the second fist fight the Count has had in six weeks, the previous encounter, which landed him in police court, having been in the Shubert Theater lobby after the night performance, Jan. 4, when he "mixed with" Arthur K. Snowden, an attorney, of 535 Clara avenue, whom he accused of having made "nasty remarks" in passing him and his bride.

Binnion is powerfully built, being a few inches taller and considerably more muscular than the Count.

UGH! NOT CALOMEL, OIL OR SALTS, DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS" IS BEST.

A harmless cure for sick headache, biliousness, sour stomach, constipation, indigestion, coated tongue, sallowness—take "California Syrup of Figs." For the cause of all such misery comes from a torpid liver and sluggish bowels.

A tablespoonful tonight means all constipation poison, waste matter, fermenting food and sour bile gently moved out of your system by morning without griping. Please don't think of "California Syrup of Figs" as a physic. Don't think you are drugging yourself or your children, because this delicious fruit laxative cannot cause injury. Even the most delicate child can take it as safely as a robust man. It is the most harmless, effective stomach, liver and bowel cleanser, regulator and tonic ever devised.

Your only difficulty may be in getting the genuine, so ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." This city has many counterfeit "fig syrups," so watch out.—ADV.

Germans to Fight With All Recklessness, Says Berlin Newspaper

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 19.

A DISPATCH received here from Berlin quotes the Vossische Zeitung on the latest German communication to the United States as follows:

"The new German measures at sea are directed against two of the allies of Great Britain. One is the American traffic in arms and the other is starvation. We need no American arms; we shall make the struggle with the starvation in the firm consciousness that we will pull through, even if not one single grain of wheat reaches us. Great Britain, as a result of our blockade, must experience severe damage."

The Lokal Anzeizer says:

"Feb. 18 was the beginning of a defensive fight of a people threatened with starvation, a people which must fight for its existence and which in this fight for its life must and will push aside all considerations for third parties. Consideration of others toward us already has been eliminated. The fight we enter upon Feb. 18 must be fought with all recklessness or not at all, and we Germans have resolved to fight without regard for the consequences."

GIVES SKIN SECOND TIME

St. Louis Boy Submits to New Grafting Operation to Help Alton Man.

John de Lorme, a St. Louis boy now employed as cabin boy upon the Huntress, the naval reserve training ship at Alton, gave a portion of his skin yesterday for the second time to help John Kelley, who was severely bruised while leaving a moving train in Alton recently. Kelly's right arm was severely bruised. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital and the physicians decided that it would be necessary to graft skin upon the wound. Kelley was widely known among the men upon the training ship and several volunteered to give skin, but were prevented from doing so by the regulations. De Lorme, however, did not come under the rules and one week ago he gave up a piece of skin 2 by 3 inches from his left arm, and yesterday gave up a similar portion of skin.

CHILD HURT ALIGHTING FROM CAR

Pauline Zabick, 5 years old, of 3811 Texas avenue, was injured seriously at 10:15 this morning when stepping from a Cherokee car at Wilcox and Gravois avenues with her stepfather, Joseph Mueller.

Mueller had already got off the car, when the girl started to alight. The car gave a sudden lurch and she fell to the street. The girl landed on her feet, but lost her balance and fell on her head. She was taken to her home, where a doctor said she had concussion of the brain.

LAST FUGITIVE IN "TIMES" DYNAMITE CASE IS CAUGHT

David Caplan, Captured on Chicken Ranch in Washington Admits Identity.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 19.—David Caplan, last of the men wanted in Los Angeles in connection with the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times in the fall of 1910, was arrested last night on his chicken ranch, two miles inland from Rolling Bay, Bainbridge Island, 12 miles from Seattle.

Caplan, according to Walter R. Thayer, manager of the Seattle branch of the William J. Burns Detective Agency, admitted his identity and expressed a willingness to return to Los Angeles for trial. He was taken to Port Orchard, county seat of Kitsap County, where he was placed in jail.

According to Thayer, documents alleged to implicate "several prominent San Francisco labor leaders" in the so-called dynamite conspiracy were in Caplan's possession.

For two years he had been living under the name of Frank Moller on a small chicken ranch. He also conducted a barber shop in Rolling Bay. He was found, Thayer said, through information gathered by William J. Burns after the arrest of M. A. Schmidt last Saturday in New York.

Caplan was in bed when the officers burst into his cabin and told him that he was recognized as David Caplan.

"That's me; I'm glad its over," Caplan said, according to a statement Thayer made here today.

"We found much valuable evidence in Caplan's cabin," said Thayer. "Besides several letters and other documents implicating several San Francisco labor leaders in Caplan's activities, we found three sticks of 80 per cent dynamite similar to that bought near Richmond, Cal., and used to destroy the Times.

"Caplan had a loaded pistol under his pillow, but three of our men burst into the room and overpowered him before he could offer resistance. He was suffering severely from toothache and was in no mood to make trouble.

"Caplan has aged somewhat since we lost track of him four years ago. His hair has turned gray, but he looked to be in good health. From papers found in Caplan's cabin we learned that he has a wife, Mrs. Florence Caplan, and two children living in Chicago.

"Caplan said that for two years before buying his property at Rolling Bay he had been roaming about the world, having gone to London, Paris and other European cities. He also admitted having lived in an anarchist colony near Tacoma. We traced him there once, but lost the trail and were unable to pick it up again until after the arrest of Schmidt in New York.

"Caplan's bank book shows that he has been well supplied with money from outside sources. Valuable evidence connecting these sources with the dynamite conspiracy was found among Caplan's papers.

"Our New York office has also discovered evidence connecting J. B. McNamara, Caplan and Schmidt with the explosion which damaged the Lyon Building in Seattle in 1910, just before the Times explosion. The three men, according to the evidence we have gathered, were sitting in the railway station in Seattle, waiting for a train at the hour the explosion occurred."

EMBEZZLER'S WIFE AND RIVAL WHOM SHE AIDED

MRS. WARD NEWSOME.

MISS EDNA FISHER.

SHARED FOOD WITH WOMAN FOR WHOM HUSBAND LEFT HER

Mrs. Newsome, Embezzler's Wife, and Rival Both Are Now in Need.

"If thine enemy hunger, feed him," was a biblical command literally obeyed by Mrs. Ward D. Newsome of 3715 St. Louis avenue, when she shared the food which she and her seven children needed with Edna M. Fisher, for love of whom Newsome abandoned his family last fall. Newsome is now facing a two years' penitentiary sentence for embezzlement, which will be pronounced a week hence. In the meantime he is permitted to settle his business affairs as well as he can while in jail.

Mrs. Newsome and Miss Fisher are working together in an effort to obtain a parole for the imprisoned architect, promoter and "high flyer." Even if they should succeed he would have to stand trial on an indictment returned in the Federal Court, charging him with violating the Mann act by taking Miss Fisher about the country with him.

The wife expresses only the kindest feelings toward the other and younger woman, who, she believes, did not know Newsome was married at the time when she entered into a "trial marriage" with him. When, after Newsome's arrest, Miss Fisher had to leave her Olive street boarding place and had no place to which to turn for shelter, Mrs. Newsome took her into her home and fed her. The young woman left only when supplies began to run low. Now the Newsome family is out of food and is dependent on charity, and Miss Fisher, who is staying at 2324 Olive street, is little better off.

Passenger Ship Loses Rudder.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The United fruit steamer Santa Marta, from Port Lymon, with passengers and mails for New York, reported by wireless early today that she had lost her rudder in the vicinity of Cape Hatteras, and asked that a coast guard cutter be sent to her assistance. The position of the Santa Marta was given as 35:29 north latitude, 74:35 west longitude and steering west in a heavy northerly gale."

Five Buried When Wall Is Pulled In.

DANVILLE, Ill., Feb. 19.—Five men were buried in the elevator shaft of the fire-wrecked Odd Fellows' temple this morning when the walls were being pulled in. An unexpected movement of a huge I-beam knocked the pillars from under the floor of a corridor and precipitated the men from the fourth floor. All were dug out alive but Solomon Harmon, 42, and Williams Strawser Jr., 28, will probably die.

BISHOP TUTTLE SENDS HIS HEARERS TO THE DICTIONARY

They Learn That "Dichotomize," Used in Lenten Sermon, Means to Cut in Two Parts.

Bishop Tuttle, in his sermon at the noon Lenten service at the Columbia Theater yesterday, made such liberal use of the word, "dichotomize," that a number of his hearers later looked at the dictionary, and found this definition:

"DI-CHOT-O-MIZE—To cut or part in two sections; subdivide and classify by pairs.

"We don't dichotomize when we read the Bible," the Bishop said. "We don't classify as human the animals and chronologies, and call divine those majestic utterances about the future and the prophesies.

"Nor do we dichotomize with the person of our divine Lord, saying that part of Him was man that ate the broiled fish and the honeycomb, and that part of Him was divine that gave his sublime utterances. No more do we dichotomize of the world, and say part of it is God's world, and part of it not God's world."

GIRL JUMPS FROM SPEEDING AUTO TO STREET AT CLAYTON

Says Men Took Her and Companion to County Instead of Home.

A 20-year-old girl jumped from a speeding automobile, at Forsyth boulevard and Central avenue, Clayton, at 7 o'clock last night and rolled over and over in the dust and dirt of the road to the gutter. She escaped with bruises and went in a taxi to Lindell boulevard and Grand avenue, accompanied by another girl who had been with her.

The automobile from which she jumped was going west on Forsyth avenue. It ran a block after she jumped out. The occupants, the other girl and three men, did not look back. They went to a cafe. The girl who had jumped was picked up by F. H. Hosecan and taken to the cafe. She said she jumped because the men in the machine, instead of taking her and her friend home, as they had promised, had taken them to the county.

The other girl addressed her as Jennie and reproved her for making a fool of herself. One of the men was addressed as Charlie. Charles Autenrieth of Clayton said he recognized the girls as belonging to good families but did not know their names.

EARLY RETURNS INDICATE REGISTRATION OF 8000 VOTERS

That Many Names May Be Stricken From Books Before Primary Day, However.

A registration of 8000 voters yesterday was indicated by the early precinct returns today. Election officials say an equal number of names may be stricken from the registration lists on revision, making the registration for the primary March 12 and the first aldermanic election April 6, about the same as at the general election last November. At that election 154,127 names were on the books.

An average of 20 registrations to the precinct was indicated by the first books returned today, and there are 474 precincts. The election clerks are conducting a canvass today and will check all names that are to be stricken from the books on revision.

Absentees and invalids, who were unable to register yesterday, may register March 31, and those who change their residence after yesterday may be transferred on the books by applying at the city hall offices between March 15 and 31.

1 quart warm potato water
2 heaping tablespoons sugar
1 heaping tablespoon lard
1 level tablespoon salt
½ cake compressed yeast
3 quarts Aristos Flour

Process

Dissolve yeast, sugar and salt in water. Add lard to Aristos Flour. Make into a dough, and after greasing dough on top, put aside and let stand for five hours, (which is termed proofing). Then press dough down and let stand again from one-half to one hour, according to temperature. Now fold dough into loaves without kneading, and let them stand three-fourths to one hour before baking. It will usually take one hour for this size loaves to bake—four loaves being what this amount of dough will make.

ORGANIZATION TO DEVELOP RIVER TERMINALS URGED

Permanent Body to Conduct Educational Campaign Proposed at Conference.

WOULD WORK ALL YEAR

Construction and Operation Along Mississippi and Tributaries Is Plan.

A permanent organization to conduct a campaign of education for the construction and operation of river terminals in the development of water transportation on the Mississippi River and its tributaries was recommended to the River Terminals Conference at the Planters Hotel today by the Committee on Resolutions.

It was proposed that the organization should be under the control of an executive committee comprised of two representatives from each river state, with former Gov. Eberhart of Minnesota as chairman. Two members of the Resolutions Committee, C. F. Perry of Quincy and William Torrance of La Crosse opposed the plan of immediate organization, but suggested the appointment of a committee to report next year on whether it was advisable to form a permanent organization.

Number Favor the Plan.

The other members of the committee, I. R. Kelsoe of St. Louis, chairman; C. F. McFarland of Keokuk, I. D. Moore of New Orleans, J. H. Roshenberger of Evansville and John W. Gamble of Omaha took the view that if the conference was to be of any permanent value in the accomplishment of results it must be a permanent organization, to work the entire year, instead of one or two days a year.

Emil Weil of Evansville Chamber of Commerce described the Ohio River terminals and shipping facilties. He said that 90 per cent of the traffic on the lower Mississippi River was furnished by the Ohio River, and that within the next 10 years, if Congress continued its appropriations, there would be a permanent nine-foot channel from Pittsburg to Cairo.

Weil, who is a native of Germany, created some enthusiasm in the meeting by declaring that only the foreign-born people of this country could appreciate, especially at this time, what a God-given privilege it was to live under the Stars and Stripes.

Much Work Being Done.

The work of the conference will be completed this afternoon. The reports of the delegates indicates that there is much work being done in both the Upper and Lower Mississippi River towns toward the construction of terminal facilities for handling river traffic.

The shipping rates from New York to San Francisco, by way of the Panama Canal, being lower than the rates from St. Louis, Chicago and St. Paul to the Pacific Coast seems to have aroused a real interest among the delegates in favor of the immediate utilization of the Mississippi River and its tributaries for the transportation of commerce.

The conference yesterday and last night developed the fact that nearly all the smaller river towns, as well as the cities, are showing an active interest in river terminals. The Mayors of Muscatine, Io., and of Baton Rouge, La., as well as the Mayors of many other cities, explained what they had been doing to build up river traffic. Nearly every Iowa town on the Mississippi River is connecting up its river front by railway terminals to afford quick transfer of goods from trains to boats. Even Des Moines, an inland city, has reserved river front land on the Des Moines River in anticipation of its being reopened to navigation.

Peoria, Ill., sent 10 delegates to the conference. Chicago is also represented by a delegation of fifteen or twenty. A Chicago delegates said he expected that the State of Illinois would build an eight-foot channel in the Illinois River, connecting it with the drainage canal. That would give Chicago an outlet direct to the Gulf of Mexico.

Ship Canal Planned.

In addition, he said, Chicago had under consideration a proposition to build a ship-canal to Toledo. If that should be done the water route would be greatly shortened, and shipments could be made direct from the Atlantic seaboard to Chicago and St. Louis by all-water route, thus cutting down the rail rates.

The delegates were much interested in the Kansas City barge line operating to St. Louis. They asked many questions relative to the operation of the line. The company which operates the barge line is preparing to resume traffic for the spring season March 1, and has barges at the East St. Louis dock being loaded with goods. The water rate between St. Louis and Kansas City is 20 per cent cheaper than the rail rate. Nearly every Kansas City business firm is a stockholder in the barge line, and they are supporting it liberally.

25 Million Miles of Road

The test of the road is the only true test. Only a few motor-car buyers can afford to experiment with novelties. The average man shows his wisdom by choosing a car that has already "made good." The Hudson Light Six-40 is now in use in the hands of ten thousand private owners. At a low average of 2500 miles per car it has covered over 25 million miles of average roads. This test is worth more to you than an engineer's hope or a designer's dream. It proves the Hudson to be an attained success—not an experiment.

WALSH DENIES HE WRONGLY QUOTED ROCKEFELLER JR.

Industrial Relations Chairman Says Others Told of Strike-Breaking Possibilities.

CRITICISES IVY L. LEE

Accused of Writing Untrue Pamphlets About Colorado Strike and Receiving Reward.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 19.—Frank P. Walsh last night gave out a statement in which he replied to John D. Rockefeller Jr., who charged him with distorting testimony offered in the New York hearings before the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations. The statement in part follows:

"Last Monday I gave an interview to the press which contained some purely personal comment upon the New York hearings. The interview as printed contained the statement that John D. Rockefeller Jr. had testified that the funds of the Rockefeller Foundation could be used to establish a strike-breaking agency. This was erroneous, so far as imputing the statement to Mr. Rockefeller was concerned.

Statement Credited to Lawyer.

"I stated that testimony establishing this fact had been made during the course of the New York hearings, which was entirely correct. Dr. George W. Kirchway, one of the ablest lawyers in the United States, and for 10 years dean of Columbia University Law School, testified upon the witness stand that under the broad powers of the foundation its funds might be used for advocating and assisting in the employment of strike breakers.

"The Rockefeller group has a publicity bureau presided over by one Ivy L. Lee. Mr. Lee was the writer of the now notorious series of bulletins entitled "Facts in Regard to the Colorado Strike."

"These bulletins were proved by the confessions of Lee, President Wellbourne of Colorado Fuel and Iron Co. and others, to have been untruthful and misleading. For this work Mr. Lee received $6000 from the personal account of John D. Rockefeller Sr. After the untruthful nature of the bulletins were fully exposed, Mr. Lee was appointed to the personal staff of John D. Rockefeller Sr. and elected a director in the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co.

"Mr. Rockefeller's arraignment of me for daring to meet the expectations of the American public in wanting to know what was being brought out at these hearings, would indicate that he thought this was simply a matter between himself and me.

Inquiry Is Far-Reaching.

"He failed to recognize the fact that the inquiry in New York reached far beyond persons or particular institutions, but directly and fundamentally affected the lives and happiness of millions of people.

"What made Mr. Rockefeller and his group stand out in bold relief is the unexampled extent of their potential power over the workers in industry. If I had violated the canons of good taste, which I deny, in thus discussing these great underlying questions, Mr. Rockefeller is the last man in the world from whom I should receive rebuke."

PRESIDENT WITNESSES MOVING PICTURES IN THE WHITE HOUSE

Performance of "A Birth of a Nation," Based on Thomas Dixon's "Clansman," Given in East Room.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The east room of the White House last night looked like a miniature moving picture theater when President Wilson, Miss Wilson and a few members of the Cabinet with their families saw a performance of "A Birth of a Nation."

The famous movie is based on Thomas Dixon's "Clansman." Dixon was one of the President's classmates. It is understood that the President evinced a desire to see the great spectacular show after he had heard it highly praised. Miss Wilson immediately made the arrangements to satisfy the President's wishes in the privacy of the White House.

Because the White House is in mourning only a few of the President's most intimate associates were invited to the show. The pictures were thrown on the white panels of the east room wall.

Polar Wave Has a New Scheme for Housewives.

The Polar Wave Ice Co. has issued a pamphlet telling consumers not to pay cash for their ice—to use the coupon books that the company furnishes. The company advises that each consumer keeps a book at all times. The booklet that the Polar Wave Co. puts out is entitled, "Ice in Winter." And then it tells all about what it means to have "Ice in Summer." It says: "Keep a book at all times."

METCALF'S COMET REAPPEARS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 19.—The reappearance of Metcalf's comet, discovered in 1906 by the clergyman-astronomer of that name, is announced at the Harvard College observatory.

The comet was found by Miss H. S. Leavitt on photographs made at the observatory with the 16-inch Metcalf telescope. Miss Leavitt was aided in her search by the epheremis of the comet's probable course around the sun computed by Bianchi, an Italian astronomer. The observatory bulletin gives the exact position (epoch 1875) of the comet as follows:

Feb. 9, 6:33 Greenwich mean time: right ascension, 8 hours 23 minutes 36.2 seconds; declination minus 1 degree 30 minutes 41 seconds.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

PURITY AND HEALTH

The majority of diseases are the result of malnutrition, or poorly fed bodies, caused by the stomach improperly performing its duties; hence the system does not derive the full benefit it should from the food taken by the individual.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey being an all liquid food, distilled absolutely from malted grain, containing nothing but the very soul of the grain, is ideal for the purpose of rebuilding the system. Taken in tablespoon doses in an equal amount of water just before meals, it assists in keeping healthy the essential function of digestion because it induces activity in the flow of gastric juices so the food you eat will digest naturally, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a dependable medicine for emergencies and should be in every home. Get it today.

"Get Duffy's and Keep Well"

Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY. Beware of imitations.

NOTE← Get Duffy's from your local druggist, grocer or dealer, $1.00 per bottle. If he cannot supply you, write us we will tell you where to get it. Medical booklet free.

Society

THE College Club of St. Louis will give its annual scholarship benefit again this year at the Olympic Theater on March 29, when "Grumpy," with Cyril Maude and his daughter, in the leading roles, will be the attraction. It always is a gala occasion, with the house crowded from pit to gallery with representatives of nearly every college in the country, and is one of the important social events of the year.

Cards announcing the marriage of Miss Charlotte Garvey and Alfred Bancroft have been received by friends in St. Louis. The wedding took place in Chicago Saturday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Garvey, 4349 Ellis avenue. The bride is a niece of Chris Garvey of St. Louis and resided here until about three years ago.

Miss Violet Bullock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Bullock of 16 Kingsbury place, one of the debutantes of the season, has gone to Palm Beach, Fla., to spend several weeks.

Mrs. Molly Smith of 4553 Delmar boulevard departed last Monday for a two weeks' stay with her mother at Petersburg, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Morrison of 5553 Maple avenue and their daughter, Miss Florence Morrison, are at the Arlington Hotel in Hot Springs, Ark., for a fortnight's stay.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brown of 4112 North Newstead avenue entertained Saturday evening in honor of their twentieth wedding anniversary. Among those present were: Messrs. and Mmes. Albert Hunt, Ed Holshausen, A. J. Moffett, H. G. Patterson, Louis Bader, F. de Lisle, John J. Delahunt, L. E. Jerome and Misses Frances and Julia Patterson and Genevieve Holshausen.

Mrs. Robert Lee Morton of Webster Groves, who has been ill at St. Luke's Hospital, is stopping for a few days with Mrs. Warwick M. Hough of 5286 Washington boulevard before returning home.

Moolah Temple will celebrate Washington's birthday on Saturday with a mask ball at Moolah's Temple. The hall will be decorated with United States flags and palms. Masks will be removed at 11:30, after which supper will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Pingree of 42 Washington terrace and their daughter, Miss Grace Pingree, are among the St. Louisians spending the late winter in Palm Beach, Fla.

Golf Players—Attention!

Saturday—Amateur Open Competition on Our Indoor "Palm Beach" Golf Course

On Saturday afternoon we shall have a special Amateur Open Competition, FOR MEN ONLY, on our Palm Beach Indoor Golf Course.

The event will be an 18-hole match played against par.

An entrance fee of 25c will be charged each person, and four prizes—golf supplies—will be given—valued at $5.00, $3.00, $2.00 and $1.00 respectively.

Play will start at 1:30 p. m., and all entries will close at 4:00 p. m.

The players may use their own clubs and balls, if so desired, although we will gladly furnish them without charge.

This competition will be in charge of Mr. James Foulis Jr., which assures its success in every way.

Men's New Furnishings

Our Spring purchases for our Men's Furnishing Department are fast arriving, and if you are in need of Shirts, Neckwear, Hosiery, Belts, Garters, Handkerchiefs, Collars, or any other accessories, you will find us well prepared to supply your needs.

New Dress Shirts

One of the latest arrivals in Dress Shirts, is the silk cross-tucked Shirt, which we have priced at $5.00

25c to 35c Hose, 15c

We have about 1000 pairs of Men's Half-hose—from one of the leading makers of guaranteed hosiery in the United States—which, on account of slight imperfections (which, however, will in no way impair their wearing qualities), were sold to us at a decided reduction in price.

Most of these are black, although there are a few tans, grays and navy blues, and all are sizes 9½ to 11½.

These would ordinarily sell at 25c to 35c a pair, but we will offer them, while they last 15c

Men's Underwear for Early Spring

Those who will require new Underwear for early Spring will find our stock in excellent condition, as we are showing Two-piece Suits of cotton, lisle, light-weight wool, wool mixtures and silk, at, the garment 50c to $4.00

Also Union Suits in the various fabrics in light and medium weights, at, the suit $1.00 to $10.00

We have about 100 Silk-lisle Union Suits which ordinarily sell at $2.00 to $2.50 a suit, but, on account of having only broken sizes, we will offer them, while they last, at $1.15

In addition, we shall also offer about 125 Two-piece Suits of Underwear—odds and ends—at prices that have been greatly reduced.
First Floor.

The Newest and Most Becoming Fashions for Misses, Small Women and Juniors

Parents who wish to buy new Spring garments for their daughters will find it a treat to make selections at Vandervoort's. Here you may choose from an unusually broad collection of Dresses, Suits and Coats in styles which have received dame fashion's approval for Spring wear.

Come in tomorrow and see these, as well as the other new Spring garments now on display.

Misses' Spring Dresses

Misses' Dresses of taffeta, silk faille and charmeuse are shown in "sand," navy, Belgian blue and gray and also in black, in sizes 14 to 18 years. These are priced from $17.50 to $39.50

The Dress shown in the illustration is of Belgian blue silk and is beautifully trimmed with hand-work in self-colors; size 16 years. Price $37.50

Children's Spring Frocks

Children's Frocks of gingham, linen, pique and lingerie cloths are offered in a most extensive variety of models. These dresses are trimmed with hand-embroidery, buttons, belts, etc., and are shown in all-white and all colors; sizes 6 to 14 years. Prices $1.90 to $13.75

Misses' Spring Suits

For small women, as well as for misses, we have a splendid line of Spring Suits made of gabardine, covert cloth, checks and silk in both the more elaborate and tailored styles. They include many belted effects with flaring or plaited skirts. Prices range from $19.75 to $65.00

The Suit shown in the sketch is a copy of a very popular imported model and is made of navy blue gabardine with a flaring skirt and a double flared skirt and is trimmed with shawl fringe. Size 16 years. Price $35.00

Misses' Top Coats for Spring

Top Coats, made of covert cloth, gabardine, diagonals, golfine and checked materials. Sizes 14 to 18 years. Prices $15.00 to $37.50
Third Floor.

WASHING WON'T RID HEAD OF DANDRUFF

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandduff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—ADV.

REPORTS 2 FAKE ROBBERIES, FOUND TO BE EX-CONVICT

Thomas J. McDermott Says He Has Lived Straight Since Release From Prison.

Thomas J. McDermott, a roofer, 41 years old, living with his wife and child at 3750 Easton avenue, after reporting two fake robberies within a few weeks, admitted to the police this morning that he had a past including two penitentiary sentences. For five years, he said, he had been living here in peace, his record a secret known only to his wife and himself. Drink, he said, had caused him to create the imaginary robberies and betray himself.

Two weeks ago McDermott informed the police he had been robbed of $185. He told so many conflicting stories that he was doubted. He finally admitted the robbery was a myth and excused his conduct by saying he had been drinking.

A few days ago he reported that three men had robbed him of his watch and $1956 and went so far as to identify a young man as one of the robbers. He was recognized by detectives who interviewed him on the previous occasion and confessed that the second robbery yarn also was a fake.

Suspecting that McDermott might have a sinister motive in reporting fake robberies, the police began looking up his record. Although it had not even been hinted that he was an ex-convict, the records of the Identification Bureau were consulted and his picture was found in the rogues' gallery. The records showed he had been sentenced twice to the penitentiary at Michigan City, Ind., for crimes committed in Indianapolis. Sept. 4, 1906, he was paroled after being sentenced for embezzlement and a short time later began serving four years for receiving stolen goods.

McDermott wept when he admitted the record was his. He said he had been living "straight" since that time, but when in his cups he "acted foolish."

MUCH ADO, PERIODICAL NAMES CITY'S CLEVEREST WOMAN

arry Turner's Twice-a-Month Paper Gives Title to Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert.

"Much Ado," a fortnightly publication of which Harry Turner is editor, made its first appearance in today's mail. It is announced that "Much Ado" will not be on sale at the newsstands, as it is intended for the consumption of annual subscribers rather than of casual purchasers. The place of publication is given as the "Turner Building, 5029 Delmar boulevard."

The paper is attractively printed and has abundant editorial comment. Col. Fred D. Gardner's candidacy for Governor receives favorable mention, and the Central Parkway is assailed as "a fantastic fake," while Isaac H. Lionberger, its leading opponent, is praised as a Jack, the Giant Killer. Verses, essays, musical and dramatic reviews compose the remainder of the contents.

"The Bores and the Bored, by One of the Bored," is the heading over a page of sprightly society gossip. By way of establishing standards for future articles, it is stated that Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert is the cleverest woman in St. Louis society; that Helen Davis (Mrs. Dwight F. Davis) is St. Louis' most brilliant woman, and that Jim Drummond is the most popular man in society.

MAN CHOKES TO DEATH IN BED

Butcher Dies Before His Wife Can Call Physician.

Adolph Jost, a butcher, 39 years old, of 1125 South Sixth street, was seized with a choking spell shortly after he retired at 10:30 o'clock last night, and died before his wife, Mrs. Marie Jost, could summon a physician. He had visited the city hospital earlier in the evening to see his son, a patient there, and when he returned home at 8 p. m. was in high spirit because of the son's improved condition.

He apparently was in good health when he retired. An autopsy will be necessary to determine the exact cause of death.

WOUNDED MAN TAKEN OFF TRAIN

Tells Springfield (Mo.) Police He Was Shot in St. Louis.

The police of Springfield, Mo., are holding a man giving his name as Charles Todd. He was taken off a Frisco train which left St. Louis at 8:52 o'clock last night. He was suffering from a bullet wound in the leg, and told the Springfield authorities he had been shot in the railroad yards near Union Station at St. Louis.

The police here made inquiry, but failed to get any information about a shooting in the neighborhood of Union Station. Todd was riding the bumpers when arrested. The St. Louis police requested he be held for further investigation.

FAVORS PRIVATE ARMS PLANTS

Navy Secretary Tells Women He Opposes Nationalization of Manufacture.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Secretary Garrison today told a delegation of the women's peace party, headed by Mrs. Robert M. La Follette, wife of the Wisconsin Senator, that he was opposed to their plan for nationalization of the manufacture of armament.

Garrison stated that as different nations had unequal facilities for manufacture of arms, the result might easily be that the United States would find itself at a great disadvantage if thrust into war, unless there was private manufacturing

WOMAN COMES TO URGE AMERICANS TO SAVE FINLAND

Mme. Malmberg Says Privileges of Her Land Are Again Imperiled by Russia.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Mme. Aino Malmberg, one of the foremost leaders in the Finnish patriotic movement, has arrived in the United States to plead the cause of her native Finland to the American people.

"Mine is an old story," she said. "It is the old, old story of Russian oppression. Russia has always wanted to crush Finland and we have struggled so bitterly to uphold the constitution of our little country. But now that the eyes of the world are turned on the war, it seems that the Czar is about to accomplish his desire. Our press has been suppressed and the few privileges we have struggled to maintain are imperiled.

"I have come to appeal to my American sisters to help save Finland. Of course, it must come through the women. Nothing can be done without the aid of women. The Finns found that out before the larger nations did, and now the women are the backbone of Finland."

Mme. Malmberg, who is in middle age, looks as if she had never stirred beyond the walls of a comfortable home, and yet she has been the heart of the patriotic movement in Finland.

She has been in prison in St. Petersburg because her activities were disliked by the Russian Government. And now she has ben exiled from Russia, and through secret channels warned not to return to her beloved country.

Three years ago she made a tour of America in behalf of the English suffrage movement. She spoke in St. Louis at that time.

"Men Would Go to Pieces."

"The women of Finland have been the most unselfish patriots, and it was through their efforts that our poor country enjoyed a short respite," Mme. Malmberg said. "They undertook the extremely dangerous work for freedom, work that meant imprisonment and death and exile to Siberia if they were caught by the Russian Government. You see," and she smiled and half shut her eyes, "men are no good at the crucial point. Then it is that women rise to the occasion. They are calm and suppressed, and entirely self-possessed, and they smile above it all—just smile. The men would go to pieces."

The Finnish people, according to their champion, are a strong, intelligent race. They are artistic and music-loving and exceptionally kind.

"The women are especially independent and capable," continued Mme. Malmberg. "Those opposed to suffrage should visit our country. They will see how splendidly women respond to the needs of their country. Our Diet, which is elected by the people, is composed of men and women. Twenty-one women now hold seats in this great legislative body. And the excellent thing about it is that the men are so ready to admit that woman suffrage is a great thing for the country.

Dream of Every Finn.

"A statement was taken recently from the men who represented each party in Finland, from the most conservative to the most radical Socialists. They were unanimous in their opinion that woman suffrage had benefited the country, and that they would not have it otherwise. But, you see, they have had a chance to find out what we could do."

Mme. Malmberg's dream of a national Finland is the dream of every Finn. "We never lose hope," she said. "Through all these long years of oppression we have persisted in our dream, and sometimes it seemed that it could never be more than that. But it can't be possible to destroy a nation of such patriots. I feel sure that a Finnish republic will come. It is because I have so much faith in my country that I have come to ask your women to help."

PANAMA CANAL TOLLS TOTAL $2,000,000 FIRST SIX MONTHS

Total of 2,196,856 Tons of Cargo Had Passed Through the Big Waterway Up to Feb. 1.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Up to Feb. 2, after the Panama Canal had been in operation just 13 days short of six months, the total amount of tolls received passed the $2,000,000 mark.

Interference by the European war with the expected flow of business through the canal was indicated by the fact that during January 98 vessels passed through, being one less than during December. It happened, however, that owing to the large tonnage of the ships the quantity of cargo carried exceeded all previous months.

The total amount of cargo transported in January was 445,957 tons, making a total of 2,192,865 passing through the canal from the date of its opening up to Feb. 1. The trade between South America and the United States and Europe was the largest item, amounting to 112,686 tons, and the next was westward-bound coastwise traffic amounting to 108,600 tons.

Fights With Negro Neighbors.

Thomas Fagan, a switchman, 50 years old, of 404 North Eleventh street, quarreled with his negro neighbors at that address last night and cut Charles Young and the later's wife, Mrs. Carrie Young, on the face and hands. The Youngs were taken to the city hospital and Fagan was arrested.

RUB BACKACHE OR LUMBAGO AWAY

Don't Drug Kidneys! Get Instant Relief by Rubbing St. Jacobs Oil.

When your back is sore and lame, or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into your back and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled. This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly and surely. It never disappoints.—ADV.

REDFIELD SENDS LETTER FROM KING OF SPAIN TO SENATE

Secretary Had Referred to Trade Notes in Speech Without Telling Who They Were From.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Secretary Redfield sent to the Senate in response to a resolution by Senator Smith of Michigan, a copy of a letter sent to him by the King of Spain through Ambassador Willard, and a copy of another letter sent by the Argentine Minister of Foreign Affairs through Ambassador Naon, expressing a desire for closer commercial relations with the United States.

Secretary Redfield alluded to these letters without saying where they were from in a recent address before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Senator Smith said he wanted to know what foreign Powers Secretary Redfield was conducting negotiations with. Secretary Redfield said in his communication today that the letters had been made public last October and he was surprised, under the circumstances, that they had been called for.

Estate of Joseph F. Wangler.

An inventory of the estate of Joseph F. Wangler, late president of the Wangler Boiler Works, was filed yesterday. It shows personal property appraised at $165,466, realty at 2241 St. Louis avenue, where he lived, and mining property in Colorado.

EXPLORER WHO TELLS OF ANTARCTIC TRIP

Explorer Describes Hardship After Companions Died and He Was Left Alone.

A thrilling tale of adventure, artlessly told, and the best polar region pictures and films ever shown in St. Louis made Sir Douglas Mawson's lecture at the Odeon last night a rare treat for an audience that almost filled the house.

Mawson, a college professor of Adelaide, Australia, was the leader of the Austrialian Antarctic expedition of 1911-1914, which set out from Hobart, Tasmania, to explore the coast line of the Antarctic Ocean and gather new and valuable scientific data.

On this expedition two of Mawson's companions lost their lives, leaving him alone to fight the antarctic blizzards for 31 days on his journey back to his base of supplies.

Mawson modestly told his audience that the pictures would tell the greater part of his story, but superb as these pictures were the real thrill came when the lights were turned on after the audience had sat in darkness more than an hour and Mawson told of the death of his two companions, Lieut. Ninnis and Dr. Mertz, and of his subsequent hardships in an effort to reach his camp.

As a crowning disappointment he found that the ship on which he had expected to return to civilization had steamed away. This meant he must remain another year in the land of the blizzard, where the average velocity of the wind is 50 miles an hour.

The pictures, showing every phase of antarctic life, caused bursts of applause at frequent intervals. Among them were many views and moving pictures showing the bird and animal life in the far south, where there are no polar bears but millions of seals and penguins.

CURSE PRONOUNCED ON WOMAN; HER THREE CHILDREN ARE BLIND

Physicians at Hearing of Husband for Desertion, Say Worry of Mother Had Prenatal Influence.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 19.—After a curse pronounced on his wife had been followed by blindness of his three children, George Yusko, a decorator of Mount Pleasant, left his wife and children, it is alleged, refusing to longer support them. Yusko was arrested on a charge of desertion and nonsupport, and at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Rhodes, gave $500 bail for his appearance in court.

In the office of the Justice, Yusko told an amazing story of a battle of wills between his wife and himself in which he lost. When a girl-wife of 16, Mrs. Annie Yusko, it was said, put out the eyes of seven ducks owned by a neighbor, using a wire to perform the act. Finding her blind ducks, the enraged neighbor hurled maledictions on the girl, expressing the hope that God would punish her likewise. Mr. and Mrs. Yusko are the parents of three children, each of them being almost totally blind.

Physicians present at the hearing said that the curse had preyed so upon Mrs Yusko's mind that her children were influenced prenatally and blindness resulted.

C. R. Erwin Joins a New Advertising Agency.

Announcement is made that C. R. Erwin has resigned from the Lord & Thomas Advertising Agency of Chicago to become president of the Erwin, Wasey & Jefferson Advertising Agency. Erwin was president of the Lord & Thomas firm. He is said to have been the highest paid advertising man in the foreign field. The firm with which he has affiliated himself is a new one and was started under the firm name of Wasey & Jefferson, in Chicago.

The new firm of Erwin, Wasey & Jefferson announces it will have an unusually effective organization in every department of its business.

SHIP BILL PUT ASIDE FOR APPROPRIATION MEASURES

It Will Remain in Conference Until Feb. 27; Extra Session Not Now Expected.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The Senate today began consideration of the appropriation bills, the Government ship purchase bill having gone to conference, there to remain until Feb. 27. In the meantime, in accordance with the agreement between the Senate Democratic leaders and the Republicans, the big supply measures are to be taken up and pressed to passage in order to avoid an extra session of Congress. The Republicans have given assurances that they will not filibuster against the appropriation measures.

Formal notice went to the House today from the Senate of its action in disagreeing to the amended shipping bill and asking for the appointment of conferees on the part of the House. Senate conferees already have been appointed.

In the event that the shipping bill, when it emerges from conference, is still unsatisfactory to the Republicans, they probably will renew their filibuster and kill the measure. The Republicans now insist that the bill is dead. Leaders believe there will be no extra session of Congress.

PASTOR LOSES IN DEBATE AT I. W. W. MEETING

Harsh Word Absent as Minister and Organizer Discuss Church and Workers.

All was seeming peace and happiness at the Open Forum at Wash and Seventeenth streets last evening while about 150 men and women listened to a debate between Forrest Edwards, an I. W. W. organizer, and the Rev. L. M. Birkhead, pastor of the Wagoner Memorial Church. There were no harsh words spoken and the more ardent I. W. W.'s in the audience likened the affair to a pink tea. The subject of debate was, "Resolved that the social creed of the church does not offer help for the working classes." At the conclusion of the speaking, the audience, by rising vote, showed approval of Edwards' arguments over those of the minister.

Edwards said that the working classes should always beware of reformers, whether they came in the guise of politicians or preachers. He said the one object of reformers is to try to promise the workingmen something that will keep them quiet.

The Rev. Mr. Birkhead admitted that churches have made many mistakes in the past, but said that today ministers are preaching in their pulpits much the same doctrine that the I. W. W. organizers are advocating from street corners. Education, he said, will prove the one solution of the social troubles.

SENATOR DENOUNCES EXPOSURE OF PRISON BILL'S PURPOSE

Criticises Post-Dispatch After It Reveals That Board Would Be Political.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 19.—Senator Charles P. Hawkins rose to a question of personal privilege when the Senate convened Friday morning to denounce the exposure by the Post-Dispatch of his so-called bi-partisan prison board bill.

The Post-Dispatch exposed the real purpose of the bill by showing that instead of being a bi-partisan board of four members, three members of the four would be of the same political faith as the Governor and directly under his control.

The bill provides that of three members of the board of managers for the prison, to be appointed by the Governor, two shall belong to the same political party as the Governor and one of the opposite party. The other member of the board is to be appointed by the State Board of Charities and Corrections, every member of which is also appointed by the Governor.

Senator Hawkins did not deny these facts, but said the insinuation that the bill was drawn in favor of the Governor was false.

"I want my wife to sue me for divorce, and my children to disown me, if the statement in that paper is true," he said. "The man who worte this article will not tell me that to my face.

"A man who will take advantage of the fact he is a newspaper man to publish statements like that, is as dirty as hell. The paper ought to be placed in the same category with the Sunday Sun of Kansas City, which was barred from the mails.

"I wish you wouldn't disgrace yourself by reading the dirty sheet; its stock in trade is for the assassination of good citizens. This is an insult to the Governor of this Commonwealth and is a dirty contemptible insult that no man can make to my face."

A Home for You—It's There—Look for It.

If it's to let, and is a bargain, or it's for sale, and is a "good buy," you will find it advertised in the Post-Dispatch Real Estate Columns—the big house, home and real estate directory of St. Louis.

POLICEMAN IS SUSPENDED FOR FAILURE TO REPORT ROBBERY

Woman Says She Waited a Week for Patrolman to Send Detectives to Her Home.

Edward S. Williams, a patrolman of the Soulard District, has been summoned to appear before the Police Board this afternoon to answer the charge of neglect of duty for failure to report a robbery.

Mrs. Joseph Foster of 2327 Geyer avenue informed Police Headquarters that a week ago she called Williams at 8 p. m. from his beat as he was passing and told him a man who had rented a room at her home that day had robbed her of $37.50 and disappeared. At 10 p. m., the same night, she said, Williams dropped in for further particulars. She said she gave him a description of the man and that Williams assured her detectives would be on the scene at once.

Williams was relieved from his beat at 11 p. m. by another patrolman who was called to Mrs. Foster's home at midnight. He found her still waiting for the detectives.

The Captain of the Soulard Street Station was notified and patrolmen who were sent to Williams' home found him asleep. When they asked him about Mrs. Foster's complaint, according to their report, he said:

"Oh, yes, I'll report that case when I go on shift at 3 o'clock tomorrow."

Arrival of the British Troops in France!

COLUMBIA DOUBLE-DISC RECORD—10-inch—Parts I and II—No. A1672, 65 CENTS.

This wonderfully descriptive record was made in London, and in the perfection of its details is one of the most striking performances ever issued in record form. All you need do is shut your eyes to imagine you are actually on the landing stage greeting the "Tommies" as they come off the transport.

Every step in the transportation of a regiment from England to France is depicted. We hear the address of the colonel to his regiment, the rousing cheers and songs of both soldiers and sailors, and the thousand and one other characteristic sounds. Ask your dealer to play it.

"When You Wore a Tulip and I Wore a Big Red Rose" and on the reverse side
"Sweet Kentucky Lady"

Here are two of the biggest of the new song hits now being sung and whistled everywhere. You'll want this record once you hear it. The first is sung in wonderful style by the Stellar Quartette and the second is a tenor and baritone duet that's a sure winner. Ask your dealer to play this record for you.

ROBBERS ROLL SAFE FROM TRAIN

Stolen Strong Box of Express Car Is Declared to Be Empty.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The Jacksonville express of the Seaboard Air Line Railway was boarded last night at Alexandria, Va., by two robbers, who, after binding and gagging two express messengers, rolled the safe off the train at Franconia, three miles beyond, and escaped. Express company officials here declared there was nothing in the safe.

The robbers went stright to the express car when they boarded the train. Failing to open the safe, they pushed it out of the door and leaped from the train at the next grade crossing. The express messengers, still bound and gagged, were discovered when the train reached Richmond.

Slayer of Girl Convicted.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 19.—David Fountain, a church janitor, who confessed to the murder of Margaret Milling, 10 years old, in the German Lutheran Church of this city last December, was found guilty late yesterday of murder in the first degree. He probably will be sentenced to death Tuesday. W. F. Milling, father of the girl, has asked permission to witness the hanging.

Views of Frederick the Great in His Purported 'Confessions'

His 'Seven Mornings' in New Book

Life of the Great Prussian King by Treitschke Combined in Volume Declared to Contain Key to Policy of German Empire Today

THE CONFESSIONS OF FREDERICK THE GREAT, KING OF PRUSSIA," is the striking name given to a book which has just been issued by the Putnam publishing house. The book comprises the seven "Mornings," purporting to have been written by Frederick, and embodying his principles and policies. This work has been published before in English, but not in a form accessible to most modern readers.

With these "Mornings," or confessions, is printed Heinrich von Treitschke's "Life of Frederick the Great," now translated for the first time into English.

THIS combination, with a preface by Douglas Sladen of London, a foreword by George Haven Putnam of New York, and an introduction by Sladen, is issued as an anti-German "war book," an addition to the great mass of controversial literature which is coming from British and American presses. Sladen is author of "The Real Truth About Germany."

"Gospel of Inhumanity."

What Frederick the Great, who died in 1786, may have said about himself, or what Herr Prof. Treitschke, of largely posthumous fame, said about him, might seem to be a matter of no vast import at present—particularly when living men, thoroughly conversant with the facts about this war, are saying so much. But Messrs. Putnam and Sladen assure the reader, in their introductory matter, that these "confessions" contain the key to the entire policy of Prussia, and of the German Empire, since Frederick's day. Treitschke's importance, as the teacher and forerunner of Bernhardi, is also dwelt upon.

"The origin of Von Bernhardi's Gospel of Inhumanity" is one of the phrases with which the publisher describes the contents of the book. In his foreword, Putnam writes:

"When it is possible to make clear that the germ of the teachings of Treitschke, Nietzsche and Bernhardi is to be found in the recorded utterances of the greatest of the Hohenzollerns and when the Hohenzollern of today says frankly that he is doing what he can to carry out the ideals of the King who made Prussia a European power, it is not inaccurate to contend that the spirit and principles of Frederick, Treitschke, Nietzsche and Bernhardi are expressed by the policies and enforced by the military power of William II."

Letters to Frederick's Nephew.

The "Mornings," or confessions, it is stated in Sladen's introduction, were first published in 1766, in Frederick's lifetime, and were never disowned by him. Their genuineness, it is declared, has never been seriously disputed. They are a series of letters to Frederick's nephew, who was his successor, Frederick William II. All were written in French, with German words pressed into service where Frederick's French failed him.

"Morning the Second" is a discussion of the topic of religion and is Machiavelian in tone.

"Religion," writes Frederick, "is absolutely necessary to a state. But it would not be very wise in a King to have any religion himself. Mark well, my dear nephew, what I here say to you; there is nothing that tyrannizes more over the head and heart than religion; because it neither agrees with our passions nor with those gerat political views which a monarch ought to have. The true religion of a Prince is his interest and his glory. He ought, by his royal station, to be dispensed from having any other. He may, indeed, preserve outwardly a fair occasional appearance, for the sake of amusing those who are about him, or who watch his motions or character.

View on the Fear of God.

"If he fears God, or, to speak as the priests and women do, if he fears hell, like Louis XIV in his old age, he is apt to become timorous, childish and fit for nothing but to be a capuchin. If the point is to avail himself of a favorable moment for seizing a province, an army of devils, to defend it, present themselves to his imagination; we are, on that supposition, weak enough to think it an injustice, and we proportion, in our conscience, the punishment to the crime.

"Should it be necessary to make a treaty with other Powers, if we remember that we are Christians, we are undone; all would be over with us; we should be constantly bubbles. As to war, it is a trade, in which the least scruple would spoil everything, and, indeed, what man of honor would ever make war if he had not the right to make rules that should authorize plunder, fire and carnage?"

"Scrap of Paper" Theory.

The editors of the work comment on these paragraphs as the original of the "scrap of paper" theory, as applied to treaties. Frederick, it is noted, applied the principles which are here expressed, in his seizure of Silesia, and in the partition of Poland.

The subject of justice is treated in "Morning the Third." Here Frederick writes, "To our subjects we owe justice, as they owe respect to us. By this I mean, dear nephew, that we must do justice to all men, and especially to our subjects, when it does not overset our own rights, or wound cur own authority; for there ought to be no sort of equality between the right of the monarch and the right of the subject or slave. But we must be firmly impartial and just when the point is to settle a matter of right between one subject, whoever he may be, and another. This is an act which is alone enough to make us adored."

In the same chapter, discussing parliaments and representative assemblies, he writes: "I am even ready to believe that the crown is the safer on a King's head for its having been given, or for its being preserved, to him by such a body; but he must be strictly an honest man, and made up of good principles, to permit his actions to stand every day its scrutiny or examination. When one has ambition, one must renounce that plan; I should never have done anything if I had been cramped. Perhaps I might have attained the character of a just King, but I should have missed that of a hero."

On the Word "Politics."

"Morning the Fourth" is on politics. On this fruitful theme, Frederick writes: "Since it has been agreed among men that to cheat or deceive one's fellow creatures is a mean and criminal action, there has been sought for, and invented, a term that might soften the appellation of the thing, and the word which has been chosen for the purpose is 'Politics.' Now the word has only been found out in favor of sovereigns, because we cannot quite so decently be called rogues and rascals.

"But, be that as it may, this is what I think as to politics. I understand then, by this word, dear nephew, that we are ever to try to cheat others. It is the way to have the advantage, or at least, to be on a footing with the rest of mankind. For you may rest persuaded that all the states of the world run the same career. Now this principle being once settled, never be ashamed of making alliances, and of being yourself the only party that draws advantage from them. Do not commit that stupid fault of not abandoning them whenever it is to your interest to do so; and especially maintain vigorously this maxim, that, stripping your neighbors is only to take away from them the means of doing you a mischief."

A lengthy discussion of private behavior, dress and pleasures follows, and the "Morning" concludes with "Have you a mind to pass for a hero? Make boldly your approaches to crimes. Would you like to be thought virtuous? Learn to appear artfully what you are not."

Politics of the State.

The same theme, under the head, "Politics of the State," is continued in "Morning the Fifth." He says that, having developed a superior army, he had nothing to do but to "examine what pretensions it was possible for me to form upon different provinces." He fixed on Silesia, he relates, as offering the best opportunity.

"I will not entetr," he writes, "on a demonstration to you of the vilidity of my pretensions on Silesia. I took care to have it established by my orators. The empress-queen (Maria Theresa of Austria) opposed hers to them, and the cause was pleaded and decided by great guns, small arms and sabres. * *

"There are certain small politicians who pretend that, when a state is arrived at a certain point, it ought not to think of aggrandizement, because the system of the balance of power has limited each state to a certain fixed extent. * * The balance is no more than a bare word, an empty sound; for Europe is a family in which there are too many bad brokers and quarrelsome relations. It is by the contempt of this system that one must come at anything that is great. Behold the English, they have put the sea in chains; that fierce unruly element no longer dares carry any vessels with their permission.

How to Get a Great Name.

"You cannot, my dear nephew, conceive how important it is for a king and a state to go often out of the common road; it is only by the marvelous that one can strike an awe into others, or get a great name. It is good policy to be always attempting something, and to be perfectly persuaded that we have a right to everything that suits us. * * Maintain at your court two or three persons of eloquence, and leave it in charge with them to justify you.

"To form alliances for one's advantage is a great maxim of state, and there are no powers that can answer to themselves a neglect of it. Thence, by clear inference, it follows that you should break an alliance as soon as ever it becomes prejudicial to you. * * When Prussia, dear nephew, shall have made her fortune, it will be time enough for her to give herself an air of fidelity to engagements and of constancy; an air which, at the most, becomes none but great states or little sovereigns. * *

"Let your choice (in choosing Ambassadors) fall especially on those who have the talent of expressing themselves in vague, indefinite terms, or in squinting and perplexed phrases. You would not be amiss to have at your devotion some political physicians and locksmiths; they may sometimes be of great use to you."

Writing of military matters in the sixth "Morning," the royal essayist says, "As soon as I have conquered any country, I treat it as if I had conquered it. I went through Franconia and the Cote de Neuberg; in the contributions which I levied I often took, in place of money, cloth, or shoes, leather, flour, everything, down to peas and beans. Everything is good, my dear nephew, when you have a use to make of it."

The seventh is the longest of the "Mornings," but the topic, "Finance," is not of especial present interest. The editors say it contains strong internal evidence of its genuineness, and of that of the other "Mornings." The first "Morning" is on the "Origin of Our Family," the Hohenzollerns.

Treitschke, in his life of Frederick, speaks of the partition of Poland as "a necessary act," and tries to remove possible sympathy from the victims by a reference to "that insolent disregard of the rights of others and the nationality of others which distinguishes the Poles above all the nations of Europe." He also undertakes to justify the seizure of Silesia by its results, and by the prevailing Protestantism of that province.

Governor Helps Vaccinate Legislature

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 19.—Gov. Hatfield, who is a physician, today, assisted by other physicians, vaccinated members of the lower house of the State Legislature. The vaccination followed an announcement that Delegate Pilchard, who had been ill for several days, was suffering from smallpox.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

PLAYGOERS' GUIDE

"Ziegfeld Follies." Olympic. Big, bright and occasionally naughty musical and dancing show, with an overflow of scantily clad girls as its dominating feature. Bert Williams, colored comedian, chief funmaker.

LeRoy-Talma-Bosco Co. English magicians. Shubert. Fairly clever entertainment of tricks and illusions, but not justifying its advance announcements of great novelty features.

"Shepherd of the Hills." American. Return engagement of picturesque drama of Ozark mountain life.

"Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford." Park. George M. Cohan's clever dramatization of George Randolph Chester's short stories. The Players effectively cast.

"The Yankee Consul." Shenandoah. Excellent presentation of Robyn and Blossom's successful musical comedy.

Vaudeville. Columbia. Bill headed by Emmett Corrigan and company in "The Red Hate."

Vaudeville. Grand. Bill headed by Jimmy Hodges, Jean Tynes and company in "A Night on a New York Roof Garden."

Vaudeville. Hippodrome. Bill headed by Fink's Mules, Cabaret Trio and Henry B. Toomer and company in "Sidelights."

"American Beauties." Imperial. Burlesque and vaudeville.

"Cherry Blossoms." Standard. Burlesque and vaudeville.

"Hoop-La Girls." Gayety. Burlesque and vaudeville.

Traveler Tells of $350 Robbery.

John Helldobler of Altoona, Pa., en route to Greenfield, Ill., told the police he was robbed of $350 and a railroad ticket by two men with whom he had several drinks in the neighborhood of Union Station last night.

SETTLES SOUR, UPSET STOMACHS IN JUST FIVE MINUTES—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN.

When your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large fifty-cent cases contain enough "Pape's Diapepsin" to keep the entire family free from stomach disorders and indigestion for many months. It belongs in your home.—ADV.

PRESIDENT TO USE WIRELESS TO OPEN FAIR TOMORROW

Will Press Button in White House as Signal to Exposition Officials in San Francisco.

ALL BUILDINGS COMPLETE

Amusement District Known as "Zone"; Displays and Property Worth $300,000,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—An electric spark jumping across the continent will open the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at noon tomorrow, Pacific Coast time. In the White House at Washington the President will press a button and the aerials of the great Government radio station at Arlington will snarl and splutter. The vibrations will be received an infinitesimal fraction of a second later by a commercial station on the shores of San Francisco Bay, where they will be relayed by wire to a receiving instrument on the exposition grounds.

As soon as the signal is received the wheels will begin to turn and the fountains to play, the gates will swing open and a procession of citizens, with the Mayor at their head, will march onto the grounds.

Will Telephone President.

At the same time President Charles C. Moore of the Exposition Company will inform President Wilson by word of mouth over a telephone line already set up and waiting, that the wireless flash has been received, and the exposition is open. In return, President Wilson will send his greetings and good wishes. Thus the two latest modes of long distance communication will be employed to vivify the fair. Ceremonies of dedication and acceptance as brief as it is possible to make them will follow.

After the outbreak of the European war there sprang up a rumor that the exposition would not open. As a matter of fact, the exposition stands today 100 per cent complete, free of debt and with 41 foreign nations participating, of which 20 have built pavilions of their own. England, Germany, Austria and Russia among the belligerents are not officially represented, although various of their commercial organizations have seen to it that they should not be wholly left out of mind. France, Italy and Japan are officially represented, as are 41 states and territories under the flag of the United States. Canada and Australia, under the British flag, both have buildings.

Building Completed Six Months.

That part of the exposition built out of its own funds and wholly under the control of its own directors was finished six months ago.

The grounds lie on the water front, adjoining the United States military reservation known as the Presidio, facing San Francisco Bay with the Golden Gate visible to the west.

The many domes are done in transparent greens and dull ashes of roses. The broad stretches of mural expanse are grained and stained to the texture and color of Italian travertine. Where the statuary has not been wrought from the same material, it has been finished a soft buff, or burnt orange.

Thus the exposition as a whole has the soft tone of a pastel, done in the impressionistic manner. Other world's fairs have been uniformly white, which in the strong light of the California climate would have been painfully dazzling.

Tower 435 Feet High.

Dominating the whole scheme is the Tower of Jewels, 435 feet high, set in the central Court of the Universe, whose Corinthian columns are taller than those of St. Peter's at Rome. Each column is surmounted by the figure of a star, whose headdress is covered with "jewels," and from the tower itself hang 80,000 sparklets in all colors, which flash in the sun and scintillate at night when the searchlights illuminate the court.

The site and plan of the exposition have made it the most compact ever built. It occupies 635 acres, of which 50 have been devoted to horticultural display. Liberal use of palms, shrubbery, vines and trees has been made to relieve and diversify the long facades of the exhibit palaces. At the far ends of the grounds are the athletic field and race track, at the near lies the Zone, in which are grouped the amusement concessions.

Conceived to celebrate the opening of the Panama Canal, the idea of the exposition had its inception in 1904. The great fire of 1906, in which San Francisco virtually was destroyed, only delayed plans for its embodiment. The authorization of the State Legislature, together with an appropriation of $5,000,000, was obtained and in April, 1910, $4,089,000 was raised by private subscription in two hours. President Taft signed the exposition act Oct. 4, 1911.

Investment of $80,000,000.

In work done by the exposition company the nations, states and territories participating and the concessionaires admitted, an investment of $80,000,000 is represented. Exhibits on display probably will bring the total of capital temporarily tied up within the grounds to $300,000,000 or more.

Only one exposition building is permanent. The city and the exposition jointly built as part of the city's new civic center, still in process of construction, a $2,000,000 auditorium, in which are to be held the 400 congresses and conventions which will give the exposition such an important educational aspect. After the exposition closes the auditorium will pass into the keeping of the city.

All championship meets of the Amateur Athletic Union are to be held on the exposition grounds.

Frank James' Body to Be Cremated Here

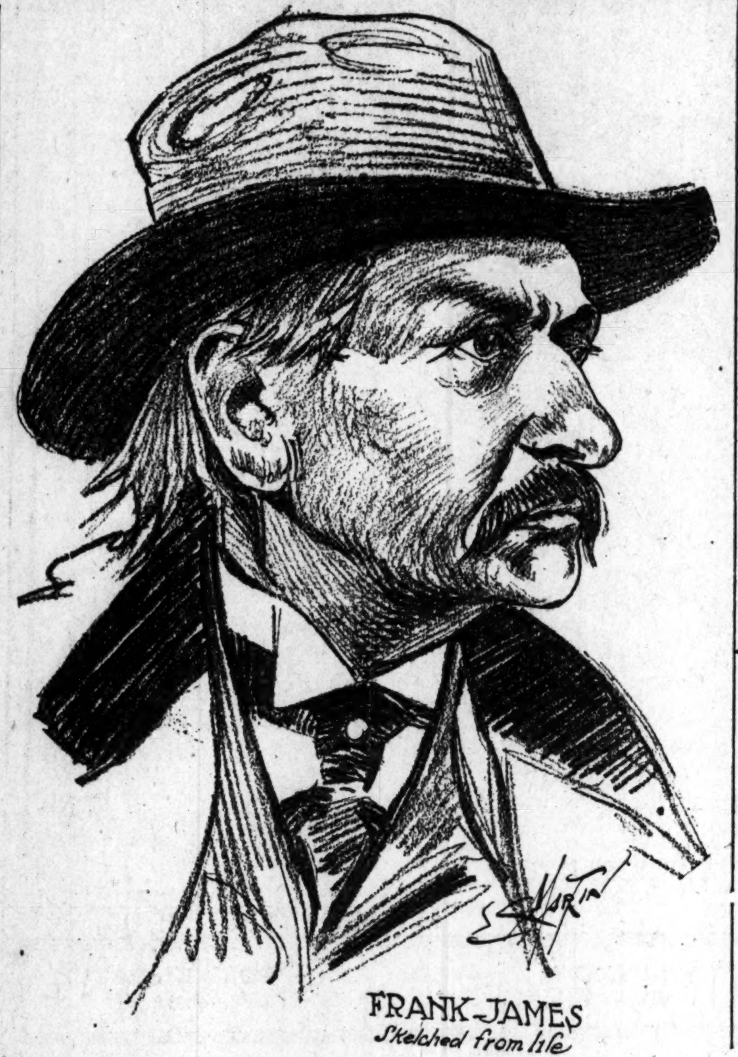
Ashes Will Be Put in Safety Deposit Box

He Wanted to Keep Morbid Crowds From Visiting Grave

Religious Funeral Services Will Be Held at Farm Home Tomorrow.

KEPT REFORM PLEDGE

Former Outlaw Never Broke Word Given to Governor When He Surrendered.



FRANK-JAMES
Sketched from life

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 19.—In accordance with his own request, the body of Frank James, the former bandit, member of the notorious Jesse James gang, who died yesterday at the age of 74, will be cremated in St. Louis and his ashes will be kept in a safety deposit vault in Kansas City.

Also, at his own request, there will be religious services at his funeral. Former Federal Judge John F. Philips will deliver the funeral address. Judge Philips defended Frank James when he was tried for murder and acquitted in Gallatin, Mo., in 1882. Frank James was not a member of any church, but he had a firm belief in the existence of a God.

The funeral will be at the James farm, east of Kearney, Mo., where Frank James died, at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The pallbearers will be old-time friends of James. The body will be brought to Kansas City on a train which leaves Kearney at 6 o'clock Saturday night. It will be in charge of Jesse James Jr., son of the bandit, Jesse James, and of Charles M. Polk, constable in the Court of Justice Simrall. They will accompany the body to St. Louis and be present when it is cremated Sunday and will bring the ashes back to Kansas City and place the urn in a safety deposit vault.

Made Arrangements for Funeral.

The request of Frank James that his body be cremated and his ashes placed in a safety deposit vault was a peremptory one, made often in the latter years of his life, to his wife, his son Robert and his nephew, Jesse James Jr., a lawyer in this city. He made the arrangements himself several years ago with Judge Philips to deliver the funeral address. Judge Philips delivered the address at the funeral of Gen. Joe O. Shelby, under whom Frank James served in the Confederate ranks during a part of the war. Judge Philips said today that he would carry out the request.

It is not known why Frank James wished his ashes to repose in a safety deposit vault instead of being buried beside the body of his brother, Jesse James, and his mother, in the graveyard in Kearney. He seldom gave explanations of his actions. It is supposed that he wished to avoid a repetition of the constant procession of morbid ones that used to go and still go to view the grave of Jesse James. Jesse James was buried in the dooryard of the old James farm near Kearney and his body rested there until 13 years ago, when it was removed to the cemetery in Kearney. Thousands of persons went there every year to see the grave.

For 33 years James had "lived straight" in accordance with the promise which he made to Gov. Crittenden of Missouri in 1882.

Much has been written about the exploits of the James boys and many daring crimes were attributed to them by legend and hearsay, but none of this information ever came from Frank James. He died with the secret of his real history in the 17 years during which he was a member of the James-Younger outlaw gang. He once refused a publisher's offer of $10,000 if he would write a book telling the story of his life. James at that time said he had promised Gov. Crittenden he would never write such a book.

Owned Two Farms.

James' estate consists of the farm upon which he lived and died and another farm of 160 acres in Oklahoma. Relatives said today he had nothing more, but that he was free of debt. He frequently refused to buy things on credit, asserting that debt is one of the biggest causes of human trouble. The estate will be divided between James' one son, Robert, and the widow, whom he married in Omaha in 1875, when there was a price of $50,000 on his head.

Cole Younger, the last surviving member of the James band, who is a farmer near Lee's Summit, Mo., sent word to Jesse James that he would be unable to attend the funeral, as he is confined to his bed with a severe cold.

Frank James Lived in St. Louis Many Years After Surrender.

Frank James lived in St. Louis many years after the termination of his career as a bandit. About 12 years ago he retired to his farm in Clay County. While in St. Louis James was a doorkeeper at the Standard Theater in winter and a starter at the race tracks in summer. During his residence in St. Louis he was quiet, unassuming and uncommunicative, and no one ever induced him to say as much as a word about his former life. When that subject was broached, his invariable reply would be: "That was another James," thus indicating that he regarded his past as dead.

Frank James' surrender to Gov. Crittenden was brought about through Frank R. O'Neil, then a reporter for the Missouri Republican and later connected with the Post-Dispatch.

O'Neil learned where James was in hiding and went there and interviewed him. He pointed out to James that so long as he attempted to elude the law he would be a hunted man and his ultimate capture was certain. James agreed to surrender when he was convinced that he would not endanger his life in doing so.

Years later O'Neil, when connected with the Post-Dispatch, went to Mexico on a similar mission and induced John K. Murrell, under indictment in the Folk boodle investigation, to return to St. Louis and become a State's witness.

One of the last members of a notorious robber band whose unparalleled career of crime during the unsettled period that followed the Civil War kept the people of a dozen states in terror, Frank James had been living the life of a quiet farmer for more than 30 years. The son of a minister, respected throughout the community, Frank James joined Quantrell's guerillas, together with his brother, Jesse, and took part in the sacking of Lawrence, Kan., and other bloody episodes of the warfare along the Missouri-Kansas border in which the guerillas played the leading part. When the Civil War was ended some of the guerillas, including Frank James and his brother, Jesse, became bandits.

Many notorious crimes of the decade following the war have been laid by legend at the door of the James-Younger gang, of which the surviving members were Frank James and Cole Younger, the later of whom is now living at Lee's Summit, Mo.

Robbed Many Banks.

Among the deeds attributed to the gang were:

The raid on the Commercial Bank at Liberty, Mo., in 1866. One bank defender was killed and $70,000 was stolen.

Looting of the Russellville (Ky.) Bank in 1868 for $17,000.

Bank robbery at Gallatin, Mo., in 1868, in which the cashier, Capt. John W. Sheets, was murdered.

Robbery of a bank at Columbia, Ky., in which R. A. C. Martin, the cashier, was killed. This was in 1872.

Raid on a bank at Corydon, Io., in which $40,000 was stolen, in 1873.

The wrecking and robbing of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific train, near Council Bluffs, Io., in 1873. The engineer was killed, the fireman wounded and several passengers injured.

Box office in the Fair Grounds at Kansas City, Mo., was robbed of $9000 in broad daylight in 1873.

Detectives surrounded the James home near Kearney, Mo., Jan. 25, 1875, and threw a lighted bomb into the house, thinking to kill the James brothers. It exploded, tearing the arm off their mother and killing their brother, Archie.

In 1882, after Jesse James had been shot and killed in his home in St Joseph, Mo., by Charles Ford, also a bandit, for a reward of $30,000, Frank James surrendered in Jefferson City, Mo.

After his surrender James was taken to Independence, Mo., where he was held in jail three weeks, and later to Gallatin.

The trial was hard fought and lasted several weeks. James finally was acquitted and went to Oklahoma to live with his mother. He never was in the penitentiary and never was convicted of any of the charges against him.

GOV. MAJOR MUST MAKE ONE SPEECH DAILY TO BE HAPPY

He Says So Himself in Talk to Students at the Smith Academy.

Gov. Major let all of us into a little secret this morning: It is this:

He really never feels comfortable unless he makes a speech every day! He said so himself.

It was fortuitous, perhaps, that Smith Academy faculty members invited the Governor to address the students there today. At all events it served to keep him in trim and comfort.

The Governor, as far as comfort of this kind goes, has been well provided since his arrival in town last Monday. He has made a speech somewhere every day since, and sometimes two or three.

Smith Academy students heard one of the Governor's most flowery orations, which included such phrases as "the beautiful sunrise," "exalted emotions," "service to fellow man," "the blessing of the Master" and "the barefoot, ragged boy."

He told of his life as a boy in Pike County, "fifteen miles from the railroad and three miles from a school." He told of reading all about Gen. Clark, the explorer; Lincoln, Grant, Jefferson and other exalted persons, and wondering then "if he'd get a chance to even look at the capitol in Washington." And then:

"The wheel of fortune turned on March 4, 1913, and the barefoot, ragged boy, who formerly worked on a farm up in Pike County, rode down at the head of his Colonels on Pennsylvania avenue, assisting in the inauguration of a great President."

Every boy in Smith Academy, he said, had a thousand times better chances than he had had.

At this juncture the Governor told of never feeling comfortable unless he made a speech every day.

The Governor advised all to take an ideal in life, and said if they wanted to be statesmen to follow the precepts of George Washington; if a sculptor, Michael Angelo, and a dozen other similar examples. "But no matter what success you have in life," he said, "if you have not love for your fellow man, you are no greater than the man who seeks alms in the highway, for the time comes when every man must lay aside this earthly covering and stand before the judgment seat."

It is the blessings which we bring in life that count, he said. And then, speaking of high ideals, he told of "the pleasure of looking into the students' smiling faces, and hoped they would be of benefit to humanity in future years.

"My dear young friends," he said, "if in some future year you can come to me and say: 'Gov. Major, your address at Smith Academy years ago influenced me in a certain manner so that I have done some good, or have accomplished something great,' then I will have been repaid ten thousand times for having come and spoken to you this morning.

"It will give me great pleasure," he concluded, "to take you to the penitentiary at Jefferson City, where you can see the men who have failed in life." He also invited the students, if they visit him at the capital, to see the Supreme Court in session, the executive mansion, the legislative halls and the other sights there.

SHOE WORKERS OPPOSE PRISON LABOR CONTRACT

Official of National Union Wires to Governor That Plan Is Objectionable.

National officers of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union are taking a hand in the fight against renewal of the Jefferson City prison labor contracts.

Collis Lovely of Boston, general vice-president of the organization, sent a telegram to Gov. Major today protesting in the name of the Missouri members against such renewal and asking for an expression from the Governor.

The telegram, a copy of which was sent to the Post-Dispatch by Lovely, is as follows:

"Boston, Feb. 19.

"Gov. Major: Information just received indicates that your State administration forces are behind a bill to continue prison contracts for six years. Five thousand members of our union in Missouri desire the law abolishing contract system be made operative immediately. Your views on this matter by wire will be greatly appreciated.

"COLLIS LOVELY,
"General Vice-President,
"Boot and Shoe Workers' Union."

Gov. Major was in St. Louis this forenoon, but could not be found after his speech at Smith Academy, when a reporter sought an expression from him in reference to the telegram.

DESIRE TO EDUCATE SON LEADS SLAYER TO GIVE SELF UP

"Bootblack Magnate" to Be Tried After Six Years So Boy Can Have Right Name.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Deserting a prosperous business in Steubenville, O., where for the last five years he has been the "bootblack magnate" of the town, Frank Madelina, formerly part proprietor of a saloon at 199 Hester street, gave himself up to the District Attorney today to answer an indictment for murder in the first degree found against him April 22, 1909.

Madelina appeared with his wife and 10-year-old son, Pasquale, saying he preferred to take his chances with a jury rather than have the son grow up under a name not his own.

Admitted He Killed Man.

To a reporter he admitted that on Dec. 13, 1908, he killed Joseph Pappa in the saloon and fled immediately afterwards, but asserted he had done it in self-defense, and that he had fled because he feared Black Hand vengeance.

Pappa and four other men entered the saloon on the night of Dec. 13, 1908. Witnesses testified at the inquest that there had been a quarrel, during which Pappa put out his hand as though to strike Madelina, after which Madelina drew a gun and fired three shots.

A few days ago Madelina confided his secret to Ralph B. Kohn, a Steubenville lawyer. He suspected there was some charge against him here, but says he did not know he had been indicted for murder.

Kohn came to New York to investigate and on Tuesday night telegraphed his client. Madelina came on immediately. "The thing that finally decided me was this boy of mine." I couldn't bear the idea of the boy living under a name other than his own. Then I have ambitions for him. He is going to be a doctor and I wanted to get him back to New York City so that I could send him to New York schools to prepare for entering Columbia University. Now I am here and I expect that when I am tried I will be acquitted.

Hot Biscuits—Home-Made—in a Jiffy!

Anybody who can light a stove can make 24 or 36 big, fine home-made biscuits in three minutes with BISCITBAKE. It's so easy you'll just sit down and laugh to think that you have been fussing with the old way of mixing. You add a little water to BISCITBAKE—then bake—that's all there is to it. And out of your oven come the lightest, tenderest, fluffiest biscuits you ever ate—every bite inviting another.

BISCITBAKE

Simply Add Water and Bake

BISCITBAKE is an appetizing, hunger-satisfying, palate-pleasing blend of everything necessary to make delicious biscuits. All the flour and milk and salt and shortening and leavening are already there. Only the water and baking are missing. You can't make a mistake. Merely follow directions and the best home-made biscuits ever made are yours like "Jack Robinson." Make them in the morning, while the bacon is frying, or any time on three minutes' notice. Make them at night and serve with syrup or honey. Women who never baked before can now make biscuits like old hands. Free biscuit cutter in each package.

15c Per Package—36 Biscuits

Just try once and see. There's enough in a 15-cent package for two or three dozen biscuits. You can make all at once or a few at a time. BISCITBAKE is also fine for Meat Pies, Chicken Pies, Dumplings, etc. Have a package included with your next grocery order—SURE.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Very Much Offended.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Every time it is my misfortune to take up a copy of your yellow journal, my disgust for yellow journalism increases. Who, for instance, wrote that stuff about "Germany's Indefensible Plea?" Do you think that the United States would ever go to war with Germany, in spite of all yellow journalism in this country? Do you think so? You know a great deal better! Is the whole of the German nation to suffer on account of a handful of dollars there may be in it for some of the money grabbers in the United States? Is Germany to put up with the British policy to starve its women and children? The fact is and every informed person knows it, the case of the allies is more than three-fourths lost and there cannot be a doubt about the outcome of this war. Russia and France are cursing the day they followed the intriguing Briton; and as to England—their goose is cooked forever. Only wait a little longer, and you know it, but like an ostrich you put your noodle into the mud of English lies. What has become of all your predictions as to Germany's total ruin in six weeks, when the war broke out? Germany owns today one-third of France, a great deal of Russia and will own the whole of Britain.

So, my good friend, you go ahead and start a war with Germany with a few more of yellow journalists and after the war is over there will be no more Post-Dispatch, thank heaven.

WAKE UP AND SPEAK THE TRUTH.

Rabbi Harrison's Plea.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have read the great and noble plea made by Rabbi Leon Harrison for the unemployed in our City of St. Louis. I am sure that many men could be put to work but there is an "if" and that "if" can only be removed by the very men who are in need of work who mostly are all union men, and will demand union wages on any kind of a job. There are many small and big property owners who have jobs to be done on their houses, but when they figure the cost of materials and union wages (both sky high) and as times are bad, and their own income small, it is impossible for the people to have the job done. But I think if the unions of all trades would suspend their strict laws of union wages for a certain time, and let every man work for whatever he thinks is a living wage until conditions are better, then I think more than half of those men, now not employed, will be at work in less than a week. Better a half loaf than none.

A. LAPPENEAU.

Just What Harrop Says.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have been reading letters in which the United Railways has been severely criticised. I visit the city often and ride on the street cars. I have also patronized street cars in other cities, both in the United States and Canada, and I want to tell the people of St. Louis that they have the best street car service, in my estimation, of any city I have visited.

I am also favorably impressed with the excellent service the United Railways Co. is giving on the St. Charles line from Wellston to St. Charles. All reasonable demands made upon the company have been granted and at all times a sufficient number of cars have been run to accommodate the public on Sundays, the largest day of the week, and when there are special attractions in St. Louis, like the Veiled Prophet parade and other similar events. The car men on the St. Charles line cannot be praised too highly for their courteous and obliging manners. Mr. Hesserich, the manager of the St. Charles line, is held in the highest esteem by the people of St. Charles, as he is always courteous to the patrons of the road and has never failed to listen to the demands of the people in addition to being a genial, jolly, good fellow. I will welcome the day, and the entire people of St. Charles voice my sentiments, when the United Railways get ready to build a street car system in St. Charles.

J. N. OLSON,
Mayor of St. Charles.

Beautifying Union Station Neighborhood.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The parkway proposition is doomed to defeat. The colored vote will go solid against it as will also the German vote. These two elements combined with a liberal percentage of other voters insures its defeat. It will be lost in all portions of the city except the West End. Why not compromise on the question? All of us are anxious to beautify the neighborhood surrounding the Union Station and I am sure there would be practically no opposition to a movement to transform the blocks facing the station on the north, west and east into small parks and sunken gardens. This would be sufficient to create a good first impression upon visitors besides being immeasurably cheaper.

E. BRADLEY.

A GOVERNMENT QUESTION.

It is gratifying to note the friendly spirit in which both the German and the British replies to the United States are couched, and the evident desire of both Governments to settle all issues amicably and to avoid injury to this country.

Germany's note combines both appeal and warning. The only touch of criticism lies in the protest against an alleged failure of the United States to insist upon trade with Germany in noncontraband goods, and in the hint that this failure is significantly emphasized by the continuation of a profitable trade with Germany's enemies in contraband goods. Of course Germany admits that this is legal but clearly intimates that the United States might show friendliness to Germany by checking it.

The strongest impression conveyed by the note is Germany's desperate intention to resort to any means to relieve the British pressure on her food supply.

There can be no objection on our part to Germany's intent to destroy British commerce, to stop contraband trade with her enemies and to shut off British food supplies which by reason of the circumstances may become contraband.

Our objection lies to her method. We object seriously to a method which endangers American lives, American ships, American goods, unless an actual blockade is established. Whether this can be done by a declaration of a war zone with the use of only mines and submarines is to be determined.

The chief advantage of the British position is that Great Britain follows the method recognized as correct under international usage and law. The right of detention and search is universally acknowledged, and we ourselves went so far in the Civil War as to condemn a British cargo consigned to a neutral port, on the ground that it might be intended for the Confederate army. Our own Supreme Court declared that the burden of proof that the goods, which were not in themselves contraband, would not eventually reach the Confederate army rested with the ship's owner.

As to what action we shall take to protect American commerce with neutrals and noncontraband trade with belligerents against British interference and to protect American lives, ships and goods against the desperate methods of Germany is a question which, in the delicate crisis now existing, might well be left to the Washington Government. We believe it wise to reserve judgment and comment until the course of our Government is made clear.

DANCING IN THE BIRD CAGE.

"Why not use the big shelter house on the hill near the bird cage in Forest Park for municipal dances?" writes a reader. "A temporary wood floor could be laid or dancing done right on the granitoid. Chinese lanterns could be strung up, tables and chairs placed around the building and refreshments served. This would be a fine place on a hot night."

Yes, but why not dance right in the big bird cage? And invite the other big birds to the party. The dancing crane would love it. So would the whooping heron and the waltzing stork, after they learned the new dances. It would revive the gayeties of the animal fair—

"I went to the animal fair:
The birds and the beasts were there"—

And it would simply delight the monkeys in the adjoining cage.

A COUNT OF THE FEEBLE-MINDED.

The bill directing the State Board of Corrections and Charities to inquire into the causes of feeble-mindedness and to make an enumeration of the victims of the affliction in Missouri has reached the stage of engrossment at Jefferson City.

It carries an appropriation of only $3000, but will supply important aid in the solution of a pressing problem. The bill should be passed.

THE JITNEY HOG.

When civilization passed from the street car era to the jitney epoch we hoped it had sloughed off some old evils without acquiring new ones. Alas! look at the jitney hog which Pevely Sadders, now engaged in the new service, has discovered.

This fresh species of genus porcinus yclept jitney hog is related to the old street car variety and also to the Berkshire and Poland China strains, but is differentiated by particular bad manners which are identified with the new form of transportation. He is a bristly boar, or boor, of the most "obnoxionable" (we are going to keep that label to paste on him occasionally) personality conceivable, with the most discomforting tonnage and displacement.

Whether he is in reality more swinish than the old common or garden street car hog, in any event he seems so because of his egregious newness. Certainly he is able to hog more seating capacity in a jitney than ever was possible in a street car.

The conductor was partly able to regulate the old street offender, but there is no conductor on a jitney. Some new remedial agent must be sought for the jitney hog—or shall we have recourse to ancient village days and revive that useful official, the hog constable?

PROBLEMS IN CANAL DEFENSE.

Topographically there is not much resemblance between the Suez and Panama canals. The one is a sea-level in which damage that may cause obstruction is most to be feared. The other is a lock canal in which an explosion of dynamite at one of the six sets of gates or at the Gatun Dam might cause a damage to constructive work and waste of impounded waters requiring months to repair. The difficult mountainous country and jungles on each side of the Panama Canal would make an attack on it by land even more arduous than an attack on the Suez Canal across the desert.

But while the terms of the two problems differ, the raid on the Egyptian waterway ought to have instruction for us. The protection of the Panama waterway in the event of war is one of our great national problems. We can profit by the strategy of defense employed along the big ditch De Lesseps was successful in digging.

THE APRIL ELECTION.

The April election will be one of the most important in the history of St. Louis. The result will determine the membership of the first Board of Aldermen under the new charter which provides for a single legislative chamber.

The character and capacity of the men who will form the first single chamber and do the first legislative work under the new system will exert tremendous influence on the operation of the new charter and the future of St. Louis.

It is vitally important that the new board be composed of men of high character and adequate ability, which will enable them to deal with new municipal problems honestly and wisely. A government is never better than the standard of the men who administer it. We will have gained little in adopting a new charter and changing our municipal methods if we put into office men whose spirit and purpose are not in accord with the spirit and purpose of the people in making the change.

If we elect to the Board of Adermen incompetents, spoilsmen and obstructionists we shall, to a large extent, continue to suffer the evils for the destruction of which the new charter was framed and adopted. The new machinery of government will do us little good unless we have honest and capable officers to run it.

As the first step towards the choice of the Board of Aldermen the primary election is vitally important. If good candidates are not named in the primaries good candidates cannot be selected in the election.

Fortunately, the charter, while providing for the selection of candidates from each ward, gives the people of the entire city the power to nominate and elect the ward candidates. We are no longer bound by ward selections and elections. The city as a whole can reject or elect the ward candidates.

Every voter should cast his ballot intelligently in the primaries to the end that the best candidates be placed on the party tickets. In the election the best candidates should be supported by the voters, regardless of party affiliations.

The greatest good that could come to St. Louis from the new charter would be the nonpartisan election of Aldermen by voters of all parties. This would assure municipal progress.

A GREAT NEWS ACHIEVEMENT.

Cables may be cut, but Germany still has the services of the powerful Associated Press in disseminating anything she desires to put before the world. The achievement of that organization in making the full text of the German reply available in this country before it had been received by the State Department will stand as one of the more memorable and helpful feats of the war.

With this interesting historical document complete, the British reply outlining London's position in full, the reproduction of the American note of Feb. 10 and the chronology of events leading up to the controversy, Thursday's Post-Dispatch supplied all essential information for an intelligent study of a most important phase of our foreign relations involving the freedom of the seas.

The subject has possibilities which, even in the absence of critical developments during the next few weeks, are likely to cause discussion long after the war has closed.

ANONYMOUS PROTOPLASMS.

Some people are fairly choking with hunger for publicity, and others shrivel up like a leaf with mortification at the mere mention of their polite names in print. Strange to say, the latter are often very good people, with nothing to be ashamed of. To the philosopher it occurs, What's the use of an honorable name if it can't be mentioned? Indeed, how can it be literally honorable unless people know what it is?

Today we have taken the liberty of mentioning one or two awesomely respectable names that are rarely heard above a well-modulated whisper. We are mentioning them in a perfectly innocent and praiseworthy connection, but there will be protest, and we feel apologetic.

It has just occurred to us that the real and exclusive respectability of the future will be anonymous. People who wish to keep out of the papers will have no names or addresses or other means of identification. The blue book will be blank and the very best society will be just nice, genteel, purely impersonal protoplasms whom the plain people and the reading public will not be allowed to know even by sight.

SUFFRAGE IN THE SPOTLIGHT.

In New York all the requirements for the submission of a woman's suffrage amendment have been taken by its passage for a second time through the Legislature.

This alone would bring the question very much in the spotlight this year. It happens however, that votes will be taken in other states of such intelligence and large population as strongly to centralize national attention on the issue.

In Massachusetts, where constitutional amendments must have the assent of two Legislatures, as in New York, the proposition will likewise be submitted this year. It has also had a triumphant passage through the New Jersey Legislature.

More significant than anything else is the advance of the movement in the South, traditionally opposed to feminine activities in politics. The West Virginia Legislature submitted the amendment by overwhelming votes in both branches. It carried in Tennessee with only three opposing votes in the Senate and 14 in the House. It has passed the Arkansas Senate. Progress is reported in Texas and even in South Carolina.

Never before has the question been submitted to the judgment of so great a number of people as will be called to pass on it in 1915.

THE MISSISSIPPI.

THIS is the Mississippi,
Which Senator Burton despises;
Concerning which Taft was an iceberg,
And nothing is doing in Congress.

If Nature had not here provided
An outlet like this to the ocean,
We'd have a big movement to build one,
Exactly as rivers in Texas
And other dry states are projected
In bills for our rivers and harbors.

HOWEVER that may be, the future
Is glowing with promise for action,
And this time, they tell us, we'll get down
To business and make a beginning.
The war has awakened the valley
To great opportunities for us,
And if we're to scoop up the markets
Neglected by Britons and Germans,
We'll have to quit making orations
And build a few wharf boats and barges.

AS Gov. Major asserted,
The Government can't be expected
To do something when, on our own part,
We do nothing save to make speeches.
If speeches were all we were asking,
No doubt even Senator Burton,
Who doesn't believe in the river,
Would say something handsome about it.
We'll get what we want out of Congress
When we have provided the units
Of traffic in docks and in steamers,
And shown Uncle Sam that we mean it.

THIS is the Mississippi,
Which Goethals could probably deepen
And make a great highway of traffic
In very few years if we'd let him.

They tell us unless we improve it
And get our goods into the Tropics
That rather than being a blessing,
As all of us here have imagined,
The Canal will have served after little
No more than to help them to gobble
Our whole foreign business in Gotham!

Now, wouldn't that make you get busy
Whose business is here on the river?

Unfortunately for the present session of the Missouri Legislature, about the only grave problems before it are those which nobody seems to understand very well.

Nevertheless, Germany will look a little harder at merchant ships she is going to sink, now that our Uncle Sam is also going around with a chip on his shoulder.

Judging by the outcome of the deadlock on the Illinois speakership, the Wets have the greater staying qualities, anyway.

If Gov. Major wants to be even ahead of his State at Frisco, he might take the Art League Quartet with him.

There will be a sufficient flow of oratory at the River Convention, you may be sure.

One prosaic thing about submarine warfare is that there are no ancient submariners.

Maybe the Russians are only going back to vodka.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Having no information bureau we do not undertake to answer by mail or telephone.

BEAUTY CULTURE.

MARIE.—Shiny nose: Substitute almond meal for soap in washing, then powder gently, with starch.

EDITH.—Oily hair: Alcohol, 3 oz.; witch hazel, 2 oz.; resorcin, 14 gr. Apply daily, rubbing well into the scalp.

CHARLES.—Hair tonic: Sulphate of quinine, 20 grains; alcoholic tincture of cantharides, 2 drams; extract of jaborandi, 2 drams; Jamaica rum, 2 drams; glycerin, 1 ounce; bay rum, 6 ounces; elderflower water, sufficient to make one pint. Persevere in rubbing. (Or just rub in crude petroleum.)

HEALTH HINTS.

LENA.—See Answers Ja. 28, at this office.

OBLIGED.—As there is no sense in a physician's giving a patient a large quantity of choloroform, then allowing no sleep for three hours, your query is useless.

WOULD LOVE TO KNOW.—There should be thorough examination, by competent physican, of the sleepy, slow, rheumatic, jerking, unreliable person you mention.

P. D. Q.—Osteopathy is based on the belief that disease is caused by some part of the human mechanism being out of proper adjustment. It seeks to correct by manipulation.

LAW POINTS.

JUROR.—Criminal Court, $1 a day.

A. B.—Judgment doesn't take homestead in your case.

F. P. C.—Phone License Collector, city hall phone.

DICK.—Any licensed auto may go into the jitney service.

C. M. E.—You may sue for wages. Mortgage is paid first.

MURPHY.—Manufacturer may sell or not sell to you, as he pleases.

F. A. S.—See Prosecuting Attorney, Municipal Building, about nonsupport.

M. C. K.—See the City Attorney about party who is annoying you on the telephone.

MRS. MARY ANN.—Husband may write his will without wife's presence. He should know how to write it.

M. H. D.—A policeman has no right to force his way into a home to arrest a man for having violated a city ordinance.

WILLIS.—Making whisky for your personal use—not for selling or bartering—you would be liable to a fine of from $1000 to $6000.

READER.—You may sue your boss for damages, but he might prove that the accident was no fault of his. Jury would consider all facts.

IGNORANCE.—St. Louis being still in Missouri, State law governs fences—parties interested share expense equally unless otherwise agreed.

W. E. C. S.—Lien of judgment good for 3 years unless renewed; the judgment, however, is good for 10 years unless renewed.

OLD READER.—Purchaser may be liable to creditors of the business he bought depending upon facts and precaution he has taken in complying with bulk sales law.

B. M. G.—Yes, holder of second deed of trust may foreclose at any time, agreements therein being broken by delinquency, etc., regardless whether default has been made under the prior incumbrance or not.

L. W.—The note secured by deed of trust may be extended for any number of years as parties agree. The deed of trust is good as long as the note securing same is, and requires no changes or notations. Extension can be indorsed on the principal note.

H. W. D.—You may expect the business to be closed on death of any partner. A will may carry the points desired, but isn't safe, owing to possibility of the same not being in proper legal form at time; future changes may become necessary from some cause or other and neglect in this line may upset entire working of the will. Testator is not required to appoint wife executrix of his will.

PROPERTY OWNER.—It is not necessary that husband sign the notes secured by the deed of trust, nor should he obligate himself by so doing to pay the same, the debt being that of wife Wife having made the mortgage prior to marriage, upon renewal the new interest notes should be signed in her marriage name. The conditions you state would not prevent foreclosure. In event a new loan is negotiated, husband will be required to sign that, but not the notes, unless he desires doing so.

MISCELLANEOUS.

G. M.—Davenport, 255 m.

X.—Phone Public Library.

GRACIAS.—Phone railroads.

AGENT.—Try Public Library.

E. H.—See addresses this office.

N. A. D.—Bartholdt born in Germany.

JIM.—Try Department of Parks, New York.

TRICKS.—See Answers Fe. 6, this office.

DIMPLES.—See books of games in Public Library.

C. K.—Either is correct. (Luxemburg, Broadway car south.)

MISCHO.—Director of an institute governs or manages it.

W. N. S.—Gen. Joseph Wheeler served in the Philippines also.

F. E. D.—For Wyoming homestead land write Land Office, Cheyenne.

P. P.—For Everly, phone Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad.

J. C. S.—Lemen, right-handed. We know of no "S'matter, Pop," book.

BROOKS.—Wisconsin State Reformatory, Green Bay; Minnesota, St. Cloud.

L. R. C.—In case of lost pawn ticket, present affidavit made before a notary.

EVERY-DAY READER.—See tattoo removed at this office (repeatedly published).

BEAUTIFUL.—We have no record of destructive earthquakes or storms in Los Angeles or Denver.

M. P. B.—See this office for transfering solution, repeatedly published. (Phone Election Commissioners, city hall phone.)

ADELE.—Needy relatives are always with us. Husband must determine whether he helps them. In this, however, he should be just to his wife.

WILLIE.—St. Petersburg was changed to Petrograd because the Russians wished the name of their capital to no longer carry a German termination. Burg means castle, fortress; grad, city or fortress.

DIAZ.—A mark in gold is equivalent to 23.8 cents in U. S. money. Therefore, 400 marks equal $95.20. $95.20 is called the par of exchange. The quotation you got of 85½ means that at present by paying $85.50 in New York you can purchase 400 marks in Berlin. Similarly, 100 lbs. of sterling is equivalent to $486.65 and one pound of sterling to $4.8665. The present quotation of 4.83 means that by paying $4.83 in New York you can purchase one pound in London. Four marks, not one mark, is the basis of figuring so as to bring it near the dollar.

SCHMOOKLER.—The standard gallon of the United States contains 231 cubic inches, and holds a fraction over eight and one-third pounds of distilled water. The Government, in gauging cisterns or tubs makes use of the cylindrical inch, and the rule is as follows: "Take the dimensions in inches and tenths of inches. Add together the square of the top diameter, the square of the bottom diameter, and four times the square of the midway diameter (ascertained by adding the top and bottom diameters together and dividing by two), and divide the sum by six, which gives the square of the true mean diameter; multiply this by the height of the cistern, and the product will be the capacity in cylindrical inches. As there are 294 cylindrical inches in a gallon, divide this last product by 294, and the quotient is the number of gallons contained in the cistern

The Little Doc

He wouldn't thrash a sick man, but later pulls him through a spell of typhoid and then gives him a good licking in true bantamweight fashion.

By Frank Filson.

NEARLY all the boys liked the little doc when he came to Sapphire. He wasn't much of a man to look at, but his big head was chock full of learning, and he was as affable and friendly as anyone. The only man who didn't take to the doc was Reddy, the bully of the camp.

Reddy was sullen enough and minded his own business in general, but when he had two or three drinks in him he would start out to find trouble. He generally found it, and, being the kind who picks upon a smaller man by preference, he usually gave better than he got.

The doc was a young fellow, and pretty Miss Lida, old man Pearce's daughter, who had been East to school, seemed to like him well enough. It made most of the boys rather sore to see a pretty, clever girl like that take up with such a little runt. However, that was her business and nobody thought any the less of the little doc for succeeding where so many of the rest had failed. Besides, there was an epidemic of typhoid that fall, and everybody was pretty much scared. Nobody knew who was going to be the next victim, and the doc was working with might and main to stop the spread of the disease.

However, he found time to sit for a half hour on Miss Lida's stoop occasionally and fan himself with a palm leaf. The boys who used to go there and weren't invited so much now used to grit their teeth and go around a block so as to avoid seeing him. But still, it wasn't a case for a personal grudge.

He Knocks Down Little Doc.

AT least, except with Reddy, who, being naturally a boor, and never having succeeded in making any impression on Miss Lida's heart, set out to be ugly. He used to scowl at the little doc when he met him. But on a certain night Reddy, having had more than was good for him, felt in the mood for trouble.

Jim Moffat and Phil Duggan, who were seeing him back, at the request of the town marshal, tried to pull him past the stoop, but Reddy shook them away and stood facing the little doc, who was fanning himself at Miss Lida's side.

"If you're a man you'll come down from behind a woman's skirts and talk face to face!" screamed Reddy.

The little doc came down. Miss Lida let out a cry, but there wasn't anything to be done, for Reddy was a big man and he could have smashed Phil and Jim with a blow of his fist, to say nothing of the little doc.

The doc came up to Reddy and looked keenly into his eyes.

"Ha, I see!" he said to himself, as though summing up the condition of a patient. And then, while Reddy was still showering him with insults, he caught hold of his hand and felt his pulse, quite in a professional way.

"You'd best go home to bed, Reddy," said the little doc.

Reddy stared at the doc in speechless anger for a few moments. Then he shot out his big fist and caught the doc on the mouth, knocking him down and cutting his lip open.

"Have you spunk enough to fight, you little shrimp?" he roared.

The little doc, very pale, stood before Reddy, not attempting to defend himself.

"Ho!" roared Reddy. "Nice sort of man you're going to get, Miss Lida. Why, I'd fight the little whipper-snapper with one hand tied behind me."

Miss Lida Sits in a Daze.

THEN, being somewhat pleased with his work, Reddy permitted Duggan and Moffat to lead him home, still breathing out threats of what he was going to do to the doc next time he caught him on Miss Lida's porch.

What Miss Lida said to him is unknown, for she sat in a sort of daze while the little doc was being knocked down. However, it was noticed that the little doc didn't call on her for a day or two, and next time he dropped in Jim Moffat was there, having apparently been restored to favor. And though Miss Lida was friendly enough with the little doc, anyone could have seen that things weren't quite the same.

For however small a man may be, it is expected that he will do something when he gets a hit across the mouth, instead of picking himself up and smiling, as the doc had done. And Miss Lida was certainly placed in an uncomfortable position, for no girl likes going with a coward.

Three days after the episode Reddy's friend, Hinkman, came running into the doc's office.

Reddy's got the fever, doc." he said, "You won't remember what he did to you, doc? He's scared out of his wits, doc, and thinks he's going to die."

Reddy's Life Is Saved.

"ALL right," answered the doc. He got up and went round to the shack, in which Reddy lay upon his bed, tossing and muttering. It was the last case in Sapphire, but it was the worst. The doc had pulled the rest through without a single disaster, but this seemed hopeless from the first.

During the next three weeks the doc put in nearly all his time with Reddy. He told Hinkman to call him any hour of the night when Reddy seemed worse. He persuaded Miss Lida to lend her aid and between them at last they got Reddy out of the valley of shadows.

It was an awful time, said Hinkman. Reddy dimly recognized the doc and thought he was trying to poison him. Sometimes he fought so hard that it was all they could do to keep him from jumping out of the window. The little doc showed a good deal of strength, Hinkman reported, in such encounters.

Finally Reddy, out of danger, and weighing about one-third as much as he had done, lay on the bed, conscious, and looking up the doc with a sort of dumb dog gratitude expression.

"Doc," he had the grace to say, "I'm sorry."

"That's all right, Reddy," the little doc answered, smiling.

The days passed, and evidently the doc had succeeded in squaring himself with Miss Lida, for they sat together on the stoop every afternoon now. And there was not a man in camp but vowed the doc was a white man, and that he would give his life rather than let anyone say the opposite, or lay a finger on the doc again.

All Scores Settled.

WELL, Reddy went North to convalesce, and at last the day came when he stood before the doc, who was still sitting on Miss Lida's porch—they being now engaged—and spoke up much less sheepishly, but still sort of ashamed.

"Doc, I've come back and I want to thank you," he began.

"That's all right, Reddy, answered the doc. "Are you ready now?"

"Ready? For what?" asked Reddy.

"Why, for your thrashing," answered the doc, as if surprised, and he went down. "Put 'em up, Reddy," he said. "You see, I couldn't strike a sick man, and I knew by your look and your pulse that you were getting ready for a siege with typhoid. But now I'm going to lick you."

Which he certainly did. When it was over Reddy's face couldn't have been recognized by his own mother. But then we found out that the doc had been the featherweight champion of Princeton.

"Now come along to the surgery, and I'll sew up your wounds. No charge," said the little doc.

Reddy was the sort that couldn't rest until he got even. He threw the shoe after the wedding and struck the doc behind the ear. That settled all scores.

Need Attention in February and March or Face May Stay Covered.

Now is the time to take special care of the complexion if you wish it to look well the rest of the year. The February and March winds have a strong tendency to bring out freckles that may stay all Summer unless removed. Now is the time to use othine—double strength.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Get an ounce of othine—double strength, and even a few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the smaller freckles even vanishing entirely.—ADVERTISEMENT.

The Trouble With Our Eyes

ARE our eyes "going to the dogs," together with our hair and teeth? This seems a natural question in view of the spectacled school children seen everywhere. We must often remember that the race is living under what is termed artificial conditions.

Man was originally planned to be an our-of-door animal and was born equipped for seeing things at long range—his work being hunting for food and keeping a sharp lookout for wild beasts and enemies. For ages and ages man lived like this, and, comparing that life with our life of today, is it strange that he does not adapt himself more readily?

Then, too, primitive man used his eyes only in the natural light of day—and slept when night came.

What civilization has done is to adapt the eye to the work civilization demanded of man.

We use artificial light a large part of the 24 hours, and as the eye has no form of protection, it has suffered in consequence. We shall learn some day how to produce artificial light which is practically identical with sunlight.

School life itself is the chief factor in eyestrain, meaning as it does a constant attention for near-view. Defective lighting of school rooms, improperly placed seats and windows and wretchedly typed books all swell the causes which confront us. Dull surfaced paper is better than glazed and it has even been prophesied that the school books of the future will be of black paper with white letters.

There are two common kinds of eye strain. It is a strain for a person who is far-sighted to do close work, and it is a strain for one who is near-sighted to use the eyes for distances. Both kinds of eye strain produce the same symptoms—headache—and both require that the eyes be examined and glasses be provided.

Figures compiled by the Austro-Hungarian and German Consulates in New York show that 550,000 reservists of their countries who registered themselves for service were unable to obtain transportation.

Mr. Dog Calls on Billy Pig

Sandman Story of How, by the Aid of Billy Goat, the Tramp Is Sent on His Way Never to Come Back Again.

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

BILLY PIG'S mother started off early next morning after his return, for town, to buy him some clothes, and Billy Goat and Billy Pig were left to keep house.

Billy Pig sat in a chair by the window, wrapped in a blanket and a cloth tied around his head, because he had a dreadful cold from being out in all kinds of weather with the man who made him do tricks.

"Now, Billy Pig, your mother said you were to have all you wanted to eat," said Billy Goat, "and when you want anything just ask for it. I am very busy with this jar of cookies, which I do not think are good for sick people."

"I don't care for cookies," said Billy Pig. "All I want is to rest and not have to jump and stand on my head. Now I think of it, that tramp, Mr. Dog, was not any friend of mine, either. He took everything he could, and got me into all sorts of trouble. If it hadn't been for him I should have had a nice vacation and come home safe before this."

"Somebody is coming down the road," said Billy Goat, looking out of the window. "See if you know who it is, Billy Pig."

Billy Pig gave one look and gasped out, "It is that trame, Mr. Dog."

"Ah, ha!" said Billy Goat. "Just as I thought. Those tramps never miss a chance to get something for nothing. Now, you leave him to me, Billy Pig, and he will never bother you again."

BILLY GOAT drew the blanket over Billy Pig so all that could be seen was the cloth around his head and when Mr. Dog k no85$6cked on the door Billy Goat opened it.

"I want to see Billy Pig," said Mr. Dog with his best bow. "He asked me to call and have dinner with him when I came this way.

"Oh, he did, did he?" replied Billy Goat in his gruffest voice, "Well, he doesn't live here any more," he said, telling a story, of course, but knowing that if Mr. Dog was not treated severely he would stay for dinner.

"Well, could you give me something to eat?" asked Mr. Dog. "I have traveled a long way and I am tired and hungry, and if you have an old coat or a hat or some old shoes I should be glad to have them."

When Mr. Dog found out he was not to play the part of a guest he did not hesitate to be a tramp and get all he could.

"Come right in and I will see what I can do for you," said Billy Goat.

"Somebody sick?" asked Mr. Dog, when he saw Billy Pig wrapped up, though of course he did not know who it was.

"No, not sick exactly," said Billy Goat. "He wanted his dinner and a few old clothes and, of course, he had to chop wood and mend the fence, and build a stone wall and do a few other small jobs to pay for his food and things.

"He wasn't used to work, and it used him up. If he isn't better about noon time I am going to call the police and have them take him away. We can't have anyone about here who does not work."

MR. DOG looked uncomfortable, and he said: "Well, if Billy Pig does not live here I guess I had better be going. I live a long way off.

"Good morning," he said, taking a look once more at the groaning bundle by the window.

"There! That is the last you will see of him," said Billy Goat. "When you mention work to those tramps they don't want a thing but to get away."

"I have had my lesson," said Billy Pig. "I wish mother would hurry with my clothes. I feel like doing some work. I have been away a long time and I know she needs some wood and lots of things done about the house and yard."

Madam Pig returned about dinner time with a red cap and a green coat and a pair of checked trousers for Billy Pig, which he dressed in very quickly and stood before the mirror to admire himself.

"Don't forget your promise to work and help your mother," said Billy Goat. "You are so dressed up I am afraid you will not want to work."

"Yes, I will," replied Billy Pig. "I will never again be the careless fellow I was. I am going to shingle that shed tomorrow."

"I will help you," said Billy Goat, thinking of all he had said to Mr. Dog about working.

And sure enough, the next morning Billy Pig and Billy Goat were hammering away on the roof of the shed hard at work.

Sweet and Twenty.

O MISTRESS mine, where are you roaming?
Oh, stay and hear; your true love's coming,
That can sing both high and low:
Trip no further pretty sweeting,
Journeys end in lovers meeting,
Every wise man's son doth know.

* * *

WHAT is love? 'Tis not hereafter;
Present mirth with present laughter;
What's to come is still unsure;
In delay there lies no plenty
Then come kiss me, sweet and twenty!
Youth's a stuff will not endure.

CHAPTERS FROM A WOMAN'S LIFE

By Dale Drummond

Chapter CXXXIV.

I HAD not forgotten my promise to Mrs. Carmen to find her a suitable companion, if possible. So I spent an hour or two that afternoon at different agencies.

"I am afraid you will be obliged to have the sort of woman you describe made to order," the manager of one agency told me pleasantly when I voiced my discouragement. "We seldom find so many virtues combined in one person."

"But I should be able to find such a one in this great city," I replied—"an honest, educated woman who could and would appreciate a beautiful home and the intimacy with such a lovely character as Mrs. Carmen."

"That's just it! If you wanted a more ordinary person, for a more ordinary position, I could easily supply you, but—sh!—sh!—here comes one who looks hopeful," she whispered as the door opened and a rather frail but very good looking woman of about 28 years came in. She was very neatly dressed, and her clothes, while plain and appropriate to one seeking work, had a certain style that attracted.

"I wish to register for a position," she said to the manager in a sweet, cultivated voice.

"Yes? What can you do? What kind of a position are you looking for?" in the usual brusque manner of these women.

"I Talk With Mrs. Turner."

"WHY," haltingly, "a position as companion, or to teach music or languages, or care for an invalid; anything that a woman who has had advantages but no experience can do."

"You are married?"

"Yes, but my husband has left me."

"Would you care to talk to this young woman, Mrs. Coolidge?"

"Yes."

"Very well. If you will come in here you will not be disturbed," showing us into a small room fitted up as a sort of private office.

"I do not wish to pry into your affairs," I told Mrs. Turner—that was her name, Ethel Turner—but the circumstances are peculiar, the position an unusual one, and so of course I must know something of the person I recommend to Mrs. Carmen."

"Certainly, I can appreciate that. But before I can tell you more of myself, would you please tell me what would be required of me? For if I am not competent to fill the position there is no use taking your time," she told me bravely, but the trembling lips showed her anxiety.

I told her of Mrs. Carmen, of her accident, her utter helplessness, and dependence on her companion as far as waiting on herself was concerned; of her sweet patience, her unselfishness. Then I explained her desire to keep pace with her husband in all that interested him; of her interest in politics because he was in office; her love for and delight in music.

"I should not fear of failing in that," Mrs. Turner interrupted. "My musical education has been very thorough. It has always been a passion with me."

"Good," I rejoined. "Now for the rest."

I then told her what Mrs. Carmen paid, which she thought most liberal—more, much more, than she had expected at first, she assured me, naively showing her surprise when I mentioned the amount.

"Very well. Now, if you wish, I will listen to as much as you like to tell me of yourself," I finished.

"I Hear a Very Sad Story."

THEN followed one of the saddest stories I have ever heard. My own trouble seemed to vanish as I listened. No matter what had happened, how wicked we had been, there never had been a moment when I was not sure of Jack's love and loyalty. And as I listened to the story of how this other man had been led away by a woman young enough to be his daughter, how he had forgotten all his vows and publicly shown his preference for the chorus girl, humbling his educated and refined wife, until she was forced—if she would retain a shred of self-respect—to take cognizance of his faithlessness, and, having done so, refuse to live with him. He had gladly let her go.

Long before we had finished talking I had made up my mind to look no farther. I made an appointment for her to see Mrs. Carmen that evening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Turner was delighted. It had been so much easier for her than she had pictured it, she told me, not knowing that fate had been kind in keeping me to gossip with the manager a few moments. I left her looking a very different creature from the trembling one who had applied for a position only an hour before.

When I told Mrs. Carmen of her, repeating her sad story, she was very much interested, and before I had finished, interrupted:

"I am positive she will do, Susan, and I have you to thank for finding her. Another obligation, my dear."

She always spoke as though I were the one who was helping her, never mentioning what she had done for me.

Some New Recipes

Prune and Apple Pudding—Boil and put in a buttered pudding dish. Add 1 pound of sliced apples, 4 tablespoonfuls of sugar, ½ teaspoonful of nutmeg and cloves, 1 teaspoon of cinnamon, the grated rind of a lemon. Cover with a rich biscuit crust and bake. Serve with whipped cream.

Salmon en Casserole—Put 3 cups of milk on to cook in double boiler, when hot thicken with one tablespoonful of flour, worked smooth in ½ cup of milk; then add 1-3 cup of butter, 1 teaspoon of minced onion and a pinch of cayenne; drain all the oil from one can of salmon, remove skin and bones and flake fine; then in the baking dish put a layer of salmon, then a layer of bread crumbs and some of the dressing over that; continue until dish is full, having the top layer crumbs. Bake a golden brown.

Hot Potato Salad—Boil 5 or 6 large potatoes and cut them in thin slices while hot. Fry thin slices of bacon and cut them into small pieces until there is half a cupful. Pour off the fat from the frying pan, leaving 2 tablespoonfuls and into this stir 1 tablespoonful of flour mixed with ¼ of a tablespoonful of mustard, ¼ of a tablespoonful of salt. Stir constantly to a smooth paste and very gradually mix in ½ a cup of vinegar. Let the dressing come to a boil, add the potatoes, bacon and 1 chopped onion and serve hot. This is a nice supper dish and is a welcome variation of the inevitable potato.

How Much Are Your Family Food Bills Per Week?

The trouble about this high cost of living problem is that we hear only one side of the story—it's all against the maker or seller of eatables. What about your end of it, Mrs. Food Buyer? Let's take a glance at your weekly food bills.

Meat! Meat! Meat! More meat! Why this extravagance? Listen to what the great dietitian, Dr. Hutchison, says: "From an economic point of view, meat is a dear food, whether as a yielder of energy or a source of building material." That doesn't mean that we can abolish meat from our table entirely, but we can cut down on it and seek other nutritious but cheaper foods.

What about Faust Macaroni? The same authority says that "Macaroni is absorbed almost in its entirety"—that is, it practically all goes to the making of blood, muscle and tissue. Faust Macaroni is made from Durum wheat, is highly glutinous and can be prepared in many appetizing ways, and costs 10c a large package.

FUTURE OF BURKE HANGS ON RESULT OF TONIGHT'S BOUT

St. Louis Middleweight Will Have to Begin Over Again if Beaten by Ferns.

COLISEUM SIGNS BURNS

Near-Championship Bantamweight Match Clinched for March 25, Here.

The future of Tommy Burke, the rising young local middleweight, will be tangled up intimately with his showing tonight against Wildcat Ferns, the Kansas City fighter, whom he is scheduled to oppose in an eight-round show at the Commercial A. C., Grand avenue and Pine streets.

Burke is opposing a lighter man and at the weights, 157 pounds ringside, will have a distinct margin in poundage. Ferns has done 145 pounds for bouts in this vicinity.

Nevertheless the local man is opposing an experienced fighter and ring general with a punch. Burke has fought only local opponents or men of inferior quality. Ferns is the class of all the men he has faced.

Victory therefore means that Burke will continue confidently on his way toward the top of the ladder, whither he has turned his eyes since becoming professional. Defeat means that he will have to begin all over again to build up a reputation. Burke is one of the hardest working fighters that ever had an ambition to rise. For over a year he has devoted himself to preparation for climbing in the world, living abstemiously and practicing faithfully. He is one boxer who deserves success, whether it comes or not.

Burke Gives Ferns' Guarantee.

Burke was so eager to get on with a good man that he agreed to give Ferns $300 out of his own share of the receipts. Burke is taking 60 per cent of the gate. If this falls below the $300 mark, the club will make up the difference. In that case Burke will have fought for nothing.

[illegible] Nauman and Charley Dalwitz meet in the semi-windup. Eddie Miers and Tommy Gerrity are matched for the preliminary.

Brooklyn Tommy Sullivan announces that Fred Nelson of San Francisco and Charley Pierson of Kansas City will furnish the next feature at the Future City A. C. Tuesday night. The men will box at 154 pounds.

Burns-Brandt Bout Clutched.

Matchmaker Billy Westhus of the Coliseum A. C. announced this morning that he expected to complete his card for the Feb. 25 show before the end of the week. Westhus said that in all probability George Kirkwood, the South Side boxer, who, at the last Coliseum show, knocked out Kid Coffey, would not be put on in the semi-windup, because no good boy can be found for him. Westhus stated that all arrangements for the Brandt-Burns match had been completed.

Westhus said he had several boys under consideration for the semi-windup and preliminary matches and would make his final decision in a few days.

THURSDAY'S FIGHTS.

Denver—Eddie Johnson of Pueblo won 15-round decison over Harry Riede of Aspen. Joe Flynn got 15-round decision over Frankie Murphy.

New York—Jim Coffey stopped Jack Twin Sullivan in six rounds.

Benny Leonard bested Patsy Cline, 10 rounds, New York.

Philadelphia—Preston Brown and Young Fulton, six-round draw.

Allentown, Pa.—Tommy Coleman bested Jackie Clarke, 10 rounds.

Lawrence, Mass.—Al Shubert got 12-round decision over Kid Wolfe.

North Adams, Mass.—Kid Rosch shaded Johnny Mumico, 10 rounds.

Gloucester, Mass.—Young Dyson and Joe Phillips, 10-round draw.

Pittsburg—Sailor Butler beated Kid Levo, six rounds.

Buck Stypert shaded Young Pendre, six rounds, Pittsburg.

Johnstown, Pa.—Geo Stewart of Wheeling and the fighter known in Johnstown (his home) as Lem Kegg, and elsewhere as Roger O'Malley fought a 10-round draw.

Cincinnati—George Klett knocked out Kid Worth, six rounds.

Baker Quit Dissatisfied, Is Hunch Held by Fielder Jones

No Other Reason for His Retiring

Manager of the Terriers Figures Athletics' Star Wasn't Getting His Financial Deserts When He Left the Club to Go Back to His Farm.

By W. J. O'Connor.

"BASEBALL isn't a sport; it's a sin," said Fielder Jones, the local Fed tactician, yesterday, apropros of the present financial strife. "The idea of a man of Frank Baker's ability quitting baseball is a fair example of the sad plight of the game," Jones continued.

"I am not familiar with the inside facts in the Baker case, but I do know this: A man of Baker's capabilities must be a peculiarly constituted cuss to refuse the salary which his talent demands in these days of inflated prices.

"Perhaps Baker is not getting what he is worth. He has a three-year contract that he signed a year ago, before salaries took wings. If he were being paid in accordance with the present exorbitant salary scale I can't reason out why the lure of a farm would make him turn down a Senator's salary.

"I can't believe he's independently rich, unless he inherited a fortune. Connie Mack hasn't been paying top salaries and it is my hunch that Baker is disgusted with an ironclad contract that calls for a salary not in proportion to his merits.

"This salary proposition and the long-term contracts have hurt baseball. When I was manager of the White Sox we hired a man for one year. A two-year contract was the exception. Now a three-year contract is the rule. And the player with a long-term cinch is not going to give the club as much as the man who is fighting for his job from season to season.

Can't Win Without Enthusiasm.

"Team spirit is everything. It's like the morale of an army. If the soldiers lose faith in their cause and their leaders they stand a fine chance of being whipped. The same condition obtains in baseball.

"I got in touch with the Boston Braves on their last Western trip last season. They were then close to the top after apparently having been ridden out in the tireless drive that started early in July. But after I felt the pulse of Stallings' team I became convinced that they would win the pennant and the world's series.

"They had the winning spirit. They were cocky, self-possessed, and were pushing people off the street, so strong was their belief that they were champions.

"Boston last season was the only team I saw in baseball that loved to win and play and hustle. Stallings had a peculiar collection of effervescent youngsters with Johnny Evers as a tried and true spark-plug to keep them rolling along. They were obsessed with the idea: to win—and they did. Whether it will be as easy this year is a question. However, if Stallings can keep his men imbued with the same spirit he will cash.

Stars Not Always Needed.

"The best ballplayers don't always make the best club. Give me a couple of wise, willing pitchers who will work; pitchers who will sew the runner on first base and exercise their brains in the pinch, and surround them with a little speed and hustle, and I'll win a lot of ball games.

"I'm pretty well pleased with my team for next season. I regard Eddie Plank as the best pitching bet in the league. Plank's peculiar motion—you know he faces first base when he pitches—and his eagerness to win, will make him a headliner. You can't solve Plank's delivery in a season; I couldn't in three, and during my stay in the American League I feared him more than any other hurler—and for that reason I expect him to win.

"I have in Davenport the best fastball man in the circuit, while Crandall and Groom are seasoned and valuable men. Willett should be useful. I expect to develop Kirby into a winner. Chapman and Hartley are young catchers who will surprise everybody, so I'm not worried. We'll win our share of games from the start."

Jones leaves Monday for Key West, Fla., where he will begin preliminary work with the battery men. He will take Plank, Groom, Crandoll, Davenport, Willett, Kirby, Herbert, Chapman and Hartley down with the first squad. No mention is made of Mike Simon and the belief grows that the veteran Pirate has been traded or sold. Jones refuses to explain Simon's absence from the roster of names.

Beck Ranks Third, Figures Show

Cardinals' Third-Sacker Surpassed by Only Two Men in Number of Chances Handled—Lobert Is Last in League.

HANS LOBERT, who is rated by many the premier third-sacker in the National League, and who will the coming campaign cavort at the far corner for Johnny McGraw's Giants, had less chances per game during the 1914 campaign than any athlete in the Tener circuit. Lobert in 133 games averaged 2.9 chances per battle.

Charley Deal, who will this season play for the local Federals, was right above Lobert with 3.1 in 74 battles.

Zinn Beck, the Cardinals far corner guardian, made a good record, ranking third to Red Smith of the Braves and Getz of the Superbas, with 3.5. Smith and Getz each averaged 3.9 chances per battle.

Following are the figures:

NAME.	G.	PO.	A.	E.	T.C.	Pct.
Smith	150	220	332	37	589	3.9
Getz	55	69	134	11	214	3.9
Beck	122	141	264	28	433	3.5
Niehoff	134	154	272	35	461	3.4
Stock	113	95	261	23	379	3.4
Zimmerman	118	141	197	39	377	3.2
Mowrey	78	83	156	10	249	3.2
Dolan	27	23	49	14	86	3.2

John Brodie Williams, the Hawaiian twirler, who was with the Tigers last season has been released to the Salt Lake City club of the Pacific Coast League by Manager Hugh Jennings. While with the Tigers, Williams did little more than get sick.

The Wards have offered Fordham University the use of the Brooklyn Fed park for the big football games next fall.

Billy Sullivan, the old catcher recently unconditionally released by the White Sox rates the following the greatest pitchers in their particular styles of delivery. Kid Nichols, greatest speed; Ed. Walsh, best spitball; Jim Scott, best curve and Doc. White, the best slowball.

Manager Jack Hendricks of the Indianapolis (American Association) club is having little trouble signing his players. Infielders Metz and Crandall are the only ones who have not signed for the coming campaign.

Wachtell, the Athletics' new pitcher, is a bird all right, Wachtell being German for quail.

Two Philadelphia amateurs—Jack Barrett and John Long—will be given tryouts by Manager Charley Herzog of the Reds this spring. Barrett is an outfielder and Long a left-handed first baseman.

James Gilmore president of the Federal League is having about as much trouble transferring the Kansas City club as Ban Johnson had selling the Yankees recently.

There is little chance for Jess Tannehill and Joe Lake in the future as Cantillon carries the oldest collection of players in the business.

Marty McHale, who pitched some good ball for the Yankees last summer, denies that he has been dickering with the Feds and that he is now ready to talk business with Manager Donovan.

Work on the new park to be occupied by the world's champion Braves will be started March 10. The new home of Stallings' aggregation will be in Allston, a suburb of Boston.

Scout Billy Doyle announces that he will reopen his baseball school in Portsmouth, O., April 1. Last year he had 40 "students" and claims that more than that number have applied for tuition this year.

Dave Bancroft, the youngster who comes to the Phillies from the Coast League, recently poled five hits in as many times at bat in a game between El Central and Imperial in the Imperial Valley Winter League in California.

Another Brownie Released.

Pitcher Grover Balchley, who came to the Brown last season from the Burlington club of the Central Association, has been turned back to that club by Manager Rickey. Balchley, last season, made a great record as a strikeout artist, but in the few games he worked for the Browns he showed very little.

This news comes to the St. Louis public via the out-of-town route.

J. Franklin Baker's latest sensational knockout. Try it on your piano; then try it on the dog. If the dog lives, kill him. If he dies bury him.

I WANT to go back, I want to go back,
I want to go back to the farm,
Far away from harm.
Playing ball has lost its charm.
I didn't boost 'er
The way I uster
In the last world's series fray.
I think your great big city's very pretty;
Never-the-less
I never nicked 'em,
I fell a victim
To Dick Rudolph's pitching arm.
That's why I think it's grand
Back there in Maryland,
Down on the farm.

How About Providence?

JACK JOHNSON it is reported has succeeded in running Carranza's blockade and landed in Tampico, Mex., yesterday. It's a long, long way to Juarez, but Johnson expects to arrive there Sunday, Providence and Carranza permitting. Carranza says he's willing.

Grover Loudermilk, who made an old man out of Roger Bresnahan long before his time, passed through our city yesterday, en route for Houston, Tex., where he will report to Manager Branch Rickey of the Browns. We hope Mr. Rickey will bear his cross with Christian fortitude.

• • •

For a matter of seven years or so Grover has been the most promising young pitcher that over came up. As a harbinger of Spring he was in a class by himself. He was always the first to report and beat the blue bird and the swallow to it by from eight to 10 days.

• • •

Another Miracle Coming.

GROVER'S weakness is a lack of control. If he ever gains control of the ball batting will be numbered with the lost arts so far as Grover is concerned. When we consider what Rickey did in the case of Gus Williams vs. Fly Balls we have hopes. At that Mr. Rickey will have to extend himself.

• • •

"Count" Leschinsky was runner up in an impromptu bout with "Battling" Binnion of New York at a downtown hotel, last evening. The Count took the "count" in the first round.

• • •

St. Louis has been signally honored. In one day our fair city has been honored by the visits of three no less distinguished personages than Grover Loudermilk, the Wild Man of Borneo. "Wild Bill" Donovan, manager of the rejuvenated and hop-notized Yankees and Harry F. Sinclair, the Demon Oil King and owner of the only floating franchise in existence, of Tulsa, Ok.

• • •

The object of Mr. Donovan's visit is to try and convert "Lefty" High from a Tiger into a Yankee. "Lefty" has intimated that everything being equal, particularly the financial feature of the proposition, he would prefer being a Tiger.

• • •

Lefty Comes High.

AS "Wild Bill" has stated that he does not intend to increase the Tiger's last season's stipend, we presume he intends to use his pursuasive powers in pointing out to "Lefty" that the life of a Yankee, even at the same money, is infinitely more pleasant than that of a Tiger in a 2x4 town like Detroit.

• • •

We wouldn't be a bit surprised if Bill would have to raise the ante.

• • •

By way of offsetting that floating franchise in the Federal League, Charley Ebbets of the Brooklyn (National League) club has floated $100,000 worth of preferred stock in the enterprise, and invited the fans to get in while the getting was good. Ebbets says he decide to do this after taking a peep into the dim future, and seeing that it was only a question of time until all ball clubs would be owned by the public.

TIPS AND CUES.

Jerome Keogh, the Rochester player in the Interstate Billiard League, who plays Frank Benson here tonight, defeated Johnny Kling in Kansas City last night, 50 to 33, in 77 innings.

Hess won from Baker, 100—81, in the State championship pocket billiard tournament at Carter's.

Pappenheimer swamped Booker, 25—14, in the class B three-cushion tourney at Aratas. Lasker trimmed Baum, 50—29, at pocket billiards.

ONLY 25 LOCAL TEAMS IN A. B. C. MEET AT PEORIA

High Cost of Living Has Made Larger Entry From Local Pin Topplers Impossible.

Although it was at first thought that at least 30 five-man teams from St. Louis would be entered in the American Bowling Congress tournament in Peoria, Ill., starting March 10, it is now intimated that no more than 20 or 25 will make the trip, although the distance between here and Peoria is less than from St. Louis to Chicago, where the tournament was held last season. St. Louis sent 35 teams a year ago.

The "hard times" have hit the bowling world as well as the other sports. According to one of St. Louis' leading pin topplers, local knights of the alleys cannot afford to make the trip or either are afraid to take off two or three days.

But St. Louis' leading fives will make the trip. The entry list to the A. B. C. close today, and within a few days the entire list will be made public. It is expected that the record of 596 five-man teams, which was established at Chicago last year, will be broken.

New Record Entry.

According to letters received by local bowlers from Secretary Abe Langtry and the Peoria people, more than 500 teams had entered at the first of the week and, as many hold off until the last minute, it is expected that the 600 mark will be reached when the final count is made.

The Hyde Parks, Alpen Braus, Cabannes, Washington Specials, Washington-De Sotos, Union Sodas, Frank Forsters, Plummers, Burkes and Al Bells, rated among the best five-man teams of the city, will roll in the A. B. C. tournament.

That St. Louis will make no bid for the 1916 tournament is the opinion of the leading rollers on the St. Louis alleys. St. Louis had the tournament in 1912, when it was held at the Coliseum, and local followers have not been keen for staging the event since that time.

St. Louis Wants Recognition.

When the annual meeting of the A. B. C. directors is held during the second week of the tournament, St. Louis delegates and alternates will urge that St. Louis be given one of the vice-presidents or another member on the board of directors. H. C. Menne and Charles Barker will be nominated for the position by the St. Louis delegates.

An elimination individual tournament may be held at the Washington alleys in the near future, according to Maurice D. Clary, manager. Clary thinks he could draw at least 200 entries and is thinking seriously of putting through the plan.

With the Washington Specials having gained victories in the first two of their four-cornered series with the Alpen Braus, negotiations for another match to be rolled on the Washington alleys now are under way. Several two-man matches also are expected to be rolled in the near future on the local drives.

Landis Decision Holding up Hug's Deal With Cincy

So Declares Lloyd Rickart, Who Says Everything Depends on Chicago Decision.

That Judge Landis, who is two weeks tardy with his famous "trust" decision, is blocking the Cardinals' deal with Cincinnati, involving Ivey Wingo and Rube Benton, is the opinion held by Lloyd Rickart, president of the local outlaw club.

"If a favorable decision for the Feds is granted by Judge Landis, Wingo, with Walter Johnson, Marsans, Chase and Indian Johnson, and all others whose cases now are pending, will revert back to the Federal League," explains Rickart. "Our contracts will be declared legal and binding and we will have first claim on these double-jumpers. For that reason it is wise that Huggins hesitates about closing the deal for Wingo."

Rickart says the Feds are confident of victory and are further certain that Walter Johnson will never again play with Washington. Rickart is unable to explain the whereabouts of that $6000 check which Johnson received from Tinker and then returned to Weeghman. The latter refused to accept the check.

BENSON AND KEOGH TO PLAY AT REX TONIGHT

Frank Benson, the St. Louis player in the Interstate League, plays Jerome Keogh, former pocket-billiard champion and at present one of the top men in the race, at the Rex tonight. Benson, this season, has been losing to the tail-enders, while he has been knocking down the leaders and maybe he will add another victory to his string at Keogh's expense.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Proving It's "Bull" Fight, After All.

THE announcement today that the Carranza officials would probably give Jack Johnson safe conduct from Tampico to Juarez is another argument tending to prove that the coming bout March 6 on Mexicn soil is a "bull" fight, not a prize fight, as per posters.

The exclusion of Johnson or his extradition, as recently discussed by the show promoters in print, appears to have been just another publicity stunt, in the light of today's news.

The toreador stuff is all right, down in Juarez. They're used to it there, where is comes off every Sunday. But it's hard on the unprotected citizens of the United States.

• • •

His Waist Line Will Tell.

JACK JOHNSON, it seems, has landed O K and will be in Juarez Sunday, with the assistance and NOT in spite of Carranza's men. Johnson will then proceed to get down to the customary business of letting the public watch him training for the world's championship fight, at 25c per watch.

What the public is now most interested in is a glimpse of Johnson stripped for fighting. The curve revealed along the load line of the notorious black dreadnought will tell the story of what Johnson is trying to do, and what Willard may expect.

Looking physically fit, Johnson will boost the public's confidence in the show. If he is still fat, it's good night! For there's something doing, then.

If he arrives in Juarez Sunday he will have exactly two weeks in which to complete his training. No miracle could condition a man in that period, unless he had been working up to it for weeks.

Willard may be a dub; but surely he could outlast a 37-year-old man, hopelessly out of condition. Monday morning's reports of Johnson's appearance will carry the most important news of the match since the announcement of its arrangement.

• • •

Important, if True.

OLD MAN DOPE was greatly relieved this morning to learn that Kirby Samuels, the colored rubber, had decided not to jump the Cardinals for the Feds. N. B.—A good rubber always sees that his team is there in the stretch.

• • •

The Bravest Guy of All.

SOME persons have maintained that Jack Curley is the bravest man in the world to put on the Johnson-Willard match after preceding it with the Flynn-Johnson and the Hackenschmidt-Gotch affairs. We claim an error here.

• • •

Curley is not the bravest, merely the nerviest man. The real brave guy is the gink who announces that the International League is going to buck the Federal League with a bank roll of $80,000.

That's like buying a stack of whites and trying to break the bank of Monte Carlo.

Coming after Lannin's expressed opinion that the Feds have lost a million in one year, it appears that the International would last about 10 seconds after the start of the first round, before taps were sounded over the grave of the poor thing.

• • •

His Middle Name Is Ananias.

THEY won't have to wait for his death to write "Here Lies" in connection with the man who gave out the story that the American Association would be made a third major league.

• • •

It's Just a Stroll.

A NEWS item declares George Sutton is out to make a runaway race of the Champion Billiard Players' League tourney. We might add that it has yet to develop into a race.

• • •

U. S. to Have the Field Alone.

INTERNATIONAL sports will be absolutely dead this year, according to indications. So far the following important events have been called off:

The Henley regatta.

The Davis tennis competition.

The British national golf championship.

All important racing fixtures in Europe.

The international yacht race.

About the only international events to be expected even remotely will be between United States and Canada, except in a few cases of isolated individuals.

The most likely feature of the last named variety seems a battle for the world's lightweight title, with Freddie Welsh of Great Britain risking his laurels.

Freddie believes in doing most of his fighting as far away from the European firing line as possible.

• • •

Time to Become Worried.

THE suave expression indicative of supreme confidence and disdain of rivals, assumed by the Organized Baseball forces, must be maintained now with serious difficulty. However short the Federal League may fall of major league pretensions, and whatever handicaps they face in the way of money losses and weak circuit, they still are able to sink the 42-centimeter shell into the vitals of the octopus with astonishing frequency and accuracy.

• • •

Results speak for themselves. The wounds resulting in the wrecking of the International League, the downfall of the Farrell regime in the Yankees, the crippling of the five Somers baseball industries and the paralyzing of all minor league activity were enough to prove the point.

Now comes the Brooklyn National League club and throws itself on the mercy of the Brooklyn public by offering $100,000 worth of preferred stock for sale to anybody in blocks of $100 each —or larger.

The conditions of this deal, which makes the stock redeemable in three years, are equivalent to a $100,000 loan at 8 per cent per annum. In other words, the Brooklyn club seems cramped for wherewithal to do business.

The scheme is the first attempt of an established major league club to float stock in this manner, and is taken to indicate weakness.

Up to the Money Barrels.

THE failure of the "war fund" to appear and the helplessness of the O. B. forces to assist the minor leagues in distress, are indications that most of the octopus' strength is "front."

The Feds have lost heavily, too. But after all it isn't the heaviness of the losses that counts; it's the relative ability of the sufferers to stand the losses and survive.

The winner is hard to pick. Certainly Organized Baseball is no longer over-confident. If the Fed circuit were a little more reasonably arranged the independents would be given a genuine chance to force themselves down the throats of the opposition.

ONLY UNATTACHED MEN ENTER C. A. C. CONTESTS

Officials of the Columbian A. C. announce that entries for the open handicap indoor track and field meet to be held at the Armory, March 13, are rapidly coming in.

To date only unattached athletes have sent in their blanks, but the authorities of the South Side Club have been assured that both McKinley High School and Principia Academy will have large teams entered. As to the other high schools, little is known.

Coach Keogan has stated that a large squad will perform under the colors of St. Louis University, while Bill Edmunds announces that a number of Washington University athletes will compete. The Piker runners, however, will enter unattached.

Biel, Bantle and Vassar will probably wear the Cherry Diamond of the Missouri A. A., while the Columbian A. A. and the Southern A. C. will enter in force.

Lodwig Makes a New Record.

Ray Lodwig of Granite City set a new two-mile roller skating record at the Cinderella in his match race with Albert Cookson of the city when he covered the distance in 6m. 8 2-5s. The former record was 6m. 12s.

Billikens Gain an Easy Victory Over McKendree

Lebanon Team Defeated, 45-26, in Last Home Battle for Keogan's Five.

The St. Louis University basket ball quint, in its final stand of the season at Muegge's last night, easily defeated McKendree College of Lebanon, Ill., 45 to 26. The Billikens outclassed the visitors all the way. Team play, which was missing in the Washington games, was once more in evidence.

Hansel was the individual star, scoring 23 points, netting nine field goals and five free throws. Ellsworth also performed well.

Coach Keogan will take his squad on the last invading jaunt of the season next Monday. Five games will be played on the trip. Monday afternoon the Billikens tackle Illinois College at Jacksonville, Ill., Tuesday afternoon, the Bradley School team of Peoria will oppose the locals. Knox College will be tackled at Galesburg on the next day. Thursday the Keoganites go to Aleo, Ill., where they line up against the William and Vashti team. Following this game the blue and white squad will stop over at Alton to play Shurtleff College next Saturday.

Shurtleff and Illinois College have both been defeated by large scores by the Billikens. The other teams also are of secondary colleges, and with the exception of the Knox game, Coach Keogan anticipates an easy struggle.

The regular scheduled double header and an exhibition contest was played by the Thursday division of the Sunday School Basket Ball League last night. In the opening game the Pilgrims defeated the Hamiltons, 41 to 2, while the St. Phillips quint defeated the King's Highway Presbyterian team, 17 to 15, in a hard-fought game. The Cote Brilliante five submerged an all-star picked team, 45 to 9.

The Central-Soldan game will be the opener in tomorrow night's Interscholastic League double header at Louisiana Hall. As both teams are out of the running, the only interest attached to the game will be in the West Enders' final attempt to bag a victory. Soldan has yet to win a game this season. The final will be the big game of the night between Yeatman and McKinley.

The St. Louis University Undergraduates went to Alton yesterday and defeated Western Military Academy, 21 to 18.

SOCCER TITLE SERIES WILL PROBABLY BE CALLED OFF

The proposed interleague soccer series for the city championship between the St. Leos of the Federal Park League and the Innisfails of the Robison Field organization will probably be called off. Duke Sheahan, the St. Leo goalkeeper, who is representing the Fed Park team, said yesterday that it seemed impossible to reach a suitable agreement with Jimmy McCaffery, captain of the Innisfails.

JACK JOHNSON TO PRACTICE SUNDAY IN JUAREZ ARENA

Plans to Tender Champion Reception Being Completed for Sunday.

EL PASO, Feb. 19.—Jack Johnson, world's fight champion, who meets Jess Willard here March 6 for the title, is in Mexico. He was reported here as having arrived at Tampico, yesterday. The Carranza authorities here expect that he will be given safe conduct to Jaurez, instead of being held up and threatened with extradition, as expected.

The Juarez reception committee has arranged for a public work-out Sunday afternoon, Feb. 20. Ten soldiers from Gen. Francisco Villa's personal bodyguard have been assigned to duty at Johnson's training quarters—an eight-room residence in the aristocratic section of Ciudad Juarez.

Johnson has as boxing partners, Jem Roche a Dublin, Ireland, giant whom Dick Croker, late Tammany boss, backed against Tommy Burns for the championship; Frank Haggerty, a comer in heavyweight circles in England and two local men. Tom Flanagan, of Toronto, Can., is directing the work.

Willard's training quarters look like a fight day at Jim Coffroth's; 25 tiers of seats circle the ring. Daily a capacity house watches him work. Jack Hempel, Tex O'Rourke and Walter Monahan are helping Willard. Al Norton, Jim Savage and Al Kaufman are expected hourly. Willard's training methods are systemized to the smallest detail.

Willard is sparing none of his mates. He is equipped with 13-oz. gloves, his sparring partners with 5-oz. fighting gloves. The boxing bouts are not pink tea treatments. A glance at anybody in camp will substantiate this. The "mouse" eye is very fashionable at Knoblauch ranch.

Many of Willard's well-wishers are inclined to pin much of their faith for a victory over Jack Johnson in the belief that the formidable black has deteriorated. Willard puts little stock in these rumors.

Day after day the big Kansan goes through his training stunts with great earnestness, putting every ounce of his tremendous strength into everything he does. He rarely says anything about himself.

To a party of Oklahoma friends who visited him at the ranch, Jess had this to say:

"I sincerely hope that Johnson steps from his corner to fight me for the championship of the world, March 6, in the best condition he has ever been in during his entire career. I am going to ask that he submit to a thorough physical examination, by disinterested physicians, so the world will know I whipped him at his best. I believe I am the best man he ever met. I will win by a knockout. Nothing but a clean, cold knockout of Johnson will satisfy me. I don't want a victory on points, nor on a foul—I want to drop him cold—and I will, too."

Touchard Plays Lovibond for Indoor Tennis Title

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—G. F. Touchard and A. M. Lovibond will meet here tomorrow for the indoor tennis championship at the Seventh Regiment Armory. Both Touchard and Lovibond gained victories in their semi-final matches yesterday.

Touchard had little trouble disposing of T. R. Pell, former champion, 6—3 and 6—3. Lovibond eliminated S. P. Prentice, the former Harvard captain, 6—4, 4—6 and 6—2.

In the feature match of the doubles semi-final, Carl Behr and T. R. Pell won from J. M. Steinacher and Lincoln Reimer, 6—1, 3—6 and 6—0. The sensational playing of Behr was the big feature. The match to decide the doubles championship will be played next Monday.

ST. PAUL FIVE SETS NEW RECORD IN I. B. A. TOURNEY

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 19.—The Doris team of St. Paul set a high mark in tournament rolling for five-man teams in the International Bowling Association last night when a total of 3014 was compiled. This is better than the record of the American Bowling Congress, which was made in 1913 by the Flor de Knispel quint of St. Paul with 3006.

This is the second time during the tourney that the I. B. A. record has been broken. Last Saturday the Peorias of Peoria, Ill., made a new mark by rolling 2981.

BRESNAHAN HAS BOOKED 28 EXHIBITION GAMES

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Twenty-eight exhibition games, 16 to be played while the club is in training in Florida, have been arranged for the Chicago National League club, according to a revised list announced today. The list follows:

March 8—Philadelphia Nationals, at St. Petersburg.

March 9, 10, 11—Philadelphia Americans, at Tampa.

March 12, 13, 15—Cuban Reds, at Tampa.

March 17, 18, 19—Philadelphia Nationals, at Jacksonville.

March 20, 21, 22—Cuban Reds, at Tampa.

March 26—Louisville American Association club, at Lakeland.

March 27—Louisville, at Tampa.

The club, which will train at Tampa, will play its first exhibition game on the trip northward with the New York Americans, at Savannah, Ga., on April 1. Games also will be played with a number of Southern League teams.

12 COLLEGES ENTER RELAY TEAMS IN EASTERN MEET

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—For the indoor intercollegiate meet to be held in Madison Square Garden, March 6, Cornell and Pennsylvania are the only colleges to enter teams in every event. Columbia and Princeton divide the next position on the list with entries in all but one of the nine events. Neither was able to muster a team for the pole vault.

Harvard, Dartmouth and Massachusetts Institute of Technology are credited with six team entries, while Yale has five, Michigan will send three teams; Brown, Georgetown, New York University and Syracuse, two each; Amherst and Fordham, one each. Twelve colleges have named teams for the relay races, and the medley race at various distances is next in order of support with 11 teams.

DIAMOND GLINTS.

There's much ado about right and left handers and their capabilities with the ash and the driver. But how about the two-handed drinker? We know of a certain N. L. southpaw who in his hey-day was the greatest ambidextrous drinker this side of Cincinnati. He could tilt a growler with either fin until the lobes of his brain pushed the eyelids down over his lamps. And he could drink in a right or left-handed alley. Some guy!

Kirby Samuels, a member of the great leisure class, denies that he has jumped to the Brookfeds. Kirby reported to Herman Seekamp at the Cardinal park yesterday and swore allegiance to the Cardinal colors for life. Another piercing shock for the Feds!

Schuyler Britton high-tailed it for Cleveland yesterday and it is reported that he will confer there with Miller Huggins, who is coming on from Cincinnati, and close the deal of Benton vs. Wingo. This swap has been hanging fire for some time.

The real harbinger of spring is Grover Laudermilk, a long streak of pitching talent. Grover has been reporting to either St. Louis ball club for years. He put in appearance at the Browns' headquarters yesterday and left last night for Houston.

A. A. Schedule Meeting Sunday.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—President Chivington of the American Association announced yesterday that the annual schedule meeting had been called for next Sunday.

STOCK TRADING IS IN HANDS OF PROFESSIONALS

Business Is Light Owing to Foreign Export Tangle; Prices Are Steady.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"It may be said that Wall street, like the rest of the community, stopped today to discuss the German 'war zone' experiment and to watch for news from the English Channel. No news bearing on the question chiefly in the market's mind arrived, and the Stock Exchange therefore passed an extremely idle day.

"That question, naturally, was what the German submarines would do to neutral ships. One might possibly have expected that, in view of the fact that the close of business this afternoon introduced something like a three-day holiday, the dominant influence would be apprehensive as to the actual carrying out between now and Tuesday, of the Admiralty's veiled threat at neutral vessels crossing the zone where passengers and crew, at the discretion of the German authorities, may be sunk without notice in a merchant ship. But if the Stock Exchange was hesitant it was also philosophical, and perhaps incredulous. Where prices changed at all today in the usually active stocks, the change was an advance. But the movements were unimportant.

"It is impossible to say whether the stock market's equanimity arose from belief that the German Admiralty's whole experiment will turn out abortive or from conviction that commanders of German submarines will do what the Berlin oracles have asserted they cannot do—find out what the vessel is before they destroy her, and the people on board. The vessels announced today as torpedoed without notice were enemy ships; the incidents were not numerous, and the attacks were not wholly effective. Suspension or ordinary cross-channel service by the British Admiralty, attracted attention chiefly because it seemed to reflect belief of that Government in the hazards of the situation.

"This is the feeling which, applied to the country's foreign trade in general, the German Admiralty has undoubtedly hoped to stimulate. Considerable interest was displayed in Washington dispatches, plainly foreshadowing refusal by our Government to adopt the fantastic 'convoy-by-warships' suggestion of the German notes. The argument, also set forth from Washington that the sowing of mines as practiced in this episode, is expressly forbidden by The Hague convention, attracted no attention whatever. Wall street is rarely attentive to considerations which have repeated themselves as this has done, since last July.

Exchange Market Firm.

"Sterling exchange was much less spectacular in its movement and rates were a trifle under yesterday afternoon's late prices. In general, however, the market might have been described as firm. Exchange on Italy, however, moved still more unfavorably to that country; it is now almost as badly out of joint with normal conditions as is the rate on Berlin. Quite possibly this is one of the indices as to Italy's forthcoming action in the European war; at all events, the movement of rates reflects the feeling of financiers and merchants.

"The erratic fluctuations of wheat continued; they suggested chiefly the results of trying to speculate with an abnormally small supply in stocks at the primary markets. A report of the winter crop's condition by an important grain trade organ gave a singularly checkered view of the growing wheat. Meantime Bradstreet's reported the week's wheat exports as the second largest weekly shipment in the country's history; the high record being that of the first week in January. Cotton exports this week appear to have been the second largest of the season, coming next to those of a fortnight ago."

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Early dealings in today's stock market pointed to a continuance of the caution recently shown by professional traders. Business was light and changes in leading stocks were unimportant, though mainly upward. Baltimore & Ohio, as well as some of the equipment shares, touched their minimum prices, American Car and Foundry declining 1⅛ to 42. American securities were extremely dull in London, but advances exceeded losses, Canadian Pacific rising over a point.

The volume of trading during the morning was the smallest of the week, but prices continued to improve, important stocks gaining substantial fractions, while American Smelting and Lehigh Valley rose 1 and 1½, respectively. Mexican Petroleum was again heavy but dull, in marked contrast to its movements of the previous day. Tennessee Copper developed sudden weakness, declining 1⅝, an official statement dealing with the company's probable dividend policy accounted for the recent heaviness of Loose-Wiles issues. Exchange on London was more steady, with light offerings. Bonds were easy.

A heavier tone prevailed in the afternoon, the change coming with the announcement that the British Admiralty had ordered a suspension of travel between England and the Continent. Reading and other speculative issues yielded most of their advance.

Oil Company Pays Dividend.

OIL CITY, Pa., Feb. 19.—Directors of the South Penn Oil Co. yesterday declared a dividend of $3 a share, payable March 31 to stock of record March 14. The last dividend was paid in June, 1914, those in September and December having been passed.

Bill Donovan, Pilot for Yankees, Here to Sign Outfielder High

Bill Donovan, last year the successful manager of the Providence (International League) club and this year's skipper for the Yanks, is in St. Louis today on the tedious mission of signing Lefty High, an outfielder secured from Detroit, to a 1915 contract. High objected to his transfer to New York and demands a substantial increase in salary. Donovan hopes to show him the evil of his ways.

STRIKE TALK CAUSES SELLING IN COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Private cables from Liverpool reporting apprehensions of a strike among Manchester weavers and the easier ruling of the English market seemed to promote some scattered selling in the cotton market here early today.

After opening easy at a decline of 1 to 4 points, prices rallied to about last night's closing figures on overnight buying orders, but soon eased off again in sympathy with an easier turn in New Orleans and under some New Orleans selling, as well as scattering local liquidation.

Trading remained very quiet during the middle of the afternoon and prices ruled within a point or two of last night's closing figures. The close was irregular.

Spot cotton, quiet; middling uplands, 8.55c. No sales.

ST. LOUIS WEEKLY MONEY MARKET REVIEW.

Events of the past week have only given confirmatory evidence of the abundance of loanable funds at this point. While the volume of operations has not been very heavy, the fact remains that practically all of the important St. Louis banks have been buyers of any attractive names at 4½ per cent, and even below, for their own or outside account.

The maximum, even on small loans, was 5 per cent, and the minimum 4½ per cent. Demand funds were offered at 5 and 4¾ per cent during the week. At the 4½ per cent figure, which as a matter of fact seems to be an open rate at the present writing, both from nonresident and St. Louis loaners, collections in some portions of the continuous territory developed quite an improvement. On the whole, the situation was quite satisfactory.

FOREIGN NEWS CAUSES DIP IN CHICAGO WHEAT

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Wheat prices leaped upward today, impelled by a strong and excited market at Liverpool, where the highest figures on this year's crop were being paid with no abatement in the demand. There was a general rush of speculative buying here and offerings were very scanty until a rise of 3¼c had been attained.

Attention centered wholly on British efforts to circumvent the German attempt at a submarine blockade. After opening 1⅛c to 3¼c above last night, and fluctuating rapidly, the market here steadied at about 1½c under the top level reached.

Corn ascended with wheat. Buying was on a large scale, with shorts especially active in hurrying to cover. Country offerings to arrive were small and there were reports of a big falling off in shipments from Argentina. The opening, which ranged from ⅛@¼c to ⅝@⅞c higher, was followed by additional gains and then a moderate reaction.

In oats, the upward tendency of prices was met by free selling on the part of several leading concerns. Commission houses were the chief sources of demand.

Higher prices for grain helped make provisions firm. Advances were restricted, however, owing to uncertainty as to the course of the hog market.

Gossip that the advance here had checked export buying tended later to bring about a decided setback in wheat. Bears were also inclined to regard the suspension of all travel between England and the Continent as ominous of interruptions to wheat traffic from America. The close was weak, at ⅛c to 1c down.

Inability to confirm statements regarding immense export sales yesterday led afterward to a further downturn in corn. The close was weak at ⅝@¾c to ⅞@1c under last night.

LIVESTOCK.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Feb. 19.—Comparative receipts table:

	Today.	Week Ago.	Year Ago.
Cattle	200	800	750
Hogs	3,000	13,500	10,000
Sheep	....	800	700
Horses and mules	1,200	750	150

CATTLE—Receipts were around 200 head, almost nominal. Native supply was scanty and carried nothing of any consequence. Supply hardly sufficed for a market and trade was dull and feeble. The Southern cattle offering embraced four cars. These were all Southeastern mixed classes. Trade in this division was slow and generally steady to about 15c lower.

HOGS—The market was slightly higher owing to the very small supply on sale. The top was $6.75 and the bulk went at $6.55@6.65. Hogs that graded as reasonably good went at $6.65 and better, fair grades $6.40@6.60, rough throwout packers around $6, best lights $6.20@6.40, best pigs and fair lights $5.50@6.15, and common kinds $4.50@5.25.

SHEEP—There was no change. Best lambs $8.25@8.55, sheep $6.25@6.50 and bucks $5.

HORSES AND MULES—Few buyers were on hand today and the market was on a slow basis. War horses were practically the only sellers. Mules sold on their usual week-end order and the market was on a slow basis.

Wool Market Quiet.

BOSTON, Feb. 19.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"Business in wool has been of smaller proportions during the week, owing to the fact that there has not been the heavy speculative buying among dealers. The manufacturers have been buyers to a fair extent, however, and prices are fully firm and perhaps a bit higher.

"Advices from Yorkshire tell of a market of limited supplies and very firm prices. The embargo situation is without material change."

Wheat had a strong opening on the Merchants' Exchange today, then lost most of the advance. The May option sold at $1.58, jumped to $1.58⅝@1.58¾, then dropped to $1.56⅞. July sold at $1.31 compared with $1.22 at the close yesterday. Later it dropped to $1.30.

Prices lost their earlier gains in the late market, on reports that traffic between England and the Continent of Europe had been suspended. May wheat closed a fraction higher, while July ended ½c down compared with yesterday's close.

Corn futures were firm. May sold at 78⅝c, compared with yesterday's close at 77⅝c. Later it dropped to 77⅝@77⅞c, with a rally to 78½c. July corn sold at 80⅝c, compared with a close yesterday at 79½c. May oats opened ⅝c higher, at 59c.

Trade was restrained by the uncertain foreign shipping position, and favorable reports from the domestic winter wheat belt. Spot wheat was 2½d to 3d higher in Liverpool.

Minneapolis wheat cars were 202, against 241 last year. Duluth 51, against 16 last year. Winnipeg 363, against 86 last year.

Local wheat receipts were 81,600 bu, against 49,200 bu last year. Corn 76,800 bu, against 108,000 bu. Oats 66,300 bu, against 66,200 bu.

Total primary wheat receipts were 768,000 bu, against 590,000 bu last year. Shipments 630,000 bu, against 259,000 bu last year. Corn receipts 824,000 bu, against 921,000 bu. Shipments 682,000 bu, against 595,000 bu. Oats receipts 873,000 bu, against 542,000 bu. Shipments 871,000 bu, against 523,000 bu.

Chicago wired: We have a wire from Duluth now stating that 150,000 bu wheat has been worked from there today all rail to seaboard.

The Modern Miller said:

"A special investigation of the winter wheat crop was made by the Modern Miller this week to determine how the crop wintered. In the principal producing states the crop has wintered well, but there is considerable apprehension as to winter killing of late-sown wheat in soft wheat districts. Kansas reports good normal prospects, except in Western counties, where the stand is thin and root growth weak. In Illinois early-sown wheat is in fine condition, but there is apprehension as to the late-sown."

C. H. Canby, president of the Board of Trade, Chicago, says: "This office is conducting an investigation in regard to the large reported sales of corn yesterday for export at the Seaboard or elsewhere. We have so far been entirely unable to trace these rumors to any reliable source, and the inference is that there has been gross and intentional exaggeration of the facts."

Washington wired: Ambassador Page at London cabled the State Department that the British Admiralty had suspended all travel between England and the Continent of Europe for the present.

Winnipeg wired: "Cannot positively confirm any export business here, but there has been steady buying of wheat today. The demand for cash is excellent, with offerings light."

Clearances: Wheat, 716,000 bu; flour, 36,000 bu; wheat and flour, 888,000 bu; corn, 295,000 bu; oats, 442,000 bu.

Chicago wheat cars inspected today were 153; corn 352; oats 180.

LOST and FOUND

Solid agate, 10c line, minimum 20c.

THAT LOST ARTICLE MAY NOT BE FOUND TODAY

Or tomorrow or next week. In fact, a month or more may elapse before it turns up. A little persistency may be necessary. Often the article may be unfound; often fear of prosecution or hope of more satisfactory reward may delay the restoration. Then the belated awakening of the finder's conscience explains many delays. But persistency and Post-Dispatch wants will usually recover a lost article if an honest person finds it. The service of the Post-Dispatch Lost and Found Bureau is also enlisted in behalf of advertisers. (98)

The Jarr Family

By ROY L. McCARDELL.

Mr. Jarr Beholds a Fearful Battle Between Two Checker Heavyweights.

THE game of checkers, one of the most brutal and exciting of our indoor rural sports,, has long been the source of much controversy and discussion among investigators of sociological habits and customs in Darkest America.

Little did Mr. Jarr deem what he was to bring about in his peaceful home when he suggested and "pulled off" the grim contest between Uncle Henry, champion checker player of Hay Corners, and Jared Smunk, heavyweight invincible of the United States Government Printing Office from 1874 to 1890.

As Uncle Henry said: "That old feller is so soople he must be double-jinted." But Uncle Henry feared him not. Mr. Jarr, in the interest of fair play and intense personal curiosity, took a position near by as referee, first sending the children to bed and insisting that Mrs. Jarr absent herself from the scene of the coming conflict. For women and children, thank goodness, should never be permitted to witness the brutal game of checkers!

Uncle Henry and Mr. Jared Smunk were given Mrs. Jarr's sewing table, while Mr. Jarr ensconced himself near by with a pack of cards, feigning to interest himself in a game of solitaire on the extension drop leaf of Mrs. Jarr's sewing machine. But at the sight of the deck of cards Uncle Henry shuddered.

"Put 'em away! Burn 'em up!" he shouted. "Them playin' cards is the devil's prayer book, and they means destruction to all the moral elements! I'm a plain American citizen, but gambling with cards is a thing I never countenances or tolerates. Liquor ain't no more demoralizing than them tools of depravity. I'm from a moral and prohibition community. Bitters for my health I take, and then only when bought from a drug store, but the sight of a deck of playing cards rouses all my moral instincts! Put 'em away."

Seeing how shocked and affronted his visitors were and how the very sight of a deck of cards roused their indignation, Mr. aJrr put the offending objects away.

"Burn 'em, Ed," said Uncle Henry, "burn 'em, and put their temptation out of your sight forever. What do you want? The white or the black men?" This last sentence was addressed to Mr. Smunk.

"It don't matter so long as I got a good cushion on the chair to stand on my head," replied the retired Government printer and office money lander.

"You can't play no upside game with me," snarled Uncle Henry. "That's cheating. It's an undue advantage. Yer brain's too clus to the game."

"It's fer 5 cents a corner, hey?" asked Mr. Smunk. "I'm agin gambling, but if Mr. Jarr wants to bet on the game let him do it."

"You move fust," said Uncle Henry.

"I'll bet a quarter on you, Uncle Henry," remarked Mr. Jarr. "Blood is thicker than water."

"So is mud," muttered Uncle Henry, and then followed a game of the most surprising cheating, wrangling and quarreling, but it ended in defeat for Uncle Henry and the loss of a quarter by Mr. Jarr and 5 cents by his avuncular relative by marriage.

The next game Mr. Jarr bet his quarter on Mr. Smunk, but after a session of so much wrangling, stamping and vituperation that the neighbors upstairs rapped on the steam pipes for quiet, Mr. Smunk lost and Mr. Jarr passed over another quarter.

The Big Deterrent.

ONE thing that keeps the world from going ahead faster, is the fact that a man can always make more money fooling people than he can educating them.

All He Was Sure Of.

A RAID had been made on a negro gambling house, and a dozen inmates arrested. In police court the next morning, each of the accused was heard in turn. The last in the row was a large, scared-looking negro.

"Well," asked the Judge, "what do you know about this case?"

"Who? Me?" asked the negro.

"Yes, you."

"Well, I just tell yo'. All I knows about dis case is dat I wasn't dar!"—Green Bag.

A Warologue

Wig-Wagging for Business.

By Alma Woodward.

Scene: The Gloria Waist Co.

(An American flag flies over the door. A boy walks, sentinel-wise, back and forth.)

MR. A. (entering): You're patriotic, Louis. You got your flag out on this holiday.

Louis: Every good citizen ought to do a little thing like that, Bennie.

Mr. A. (slyly): If you were a good enough citizen you would be closed up altogether, Louis.

Louis: Not when I got buyers coming.

Mr. A.: Oh, buyers! From where?

Louis (counting on his fingers): From Donet & Co., Quebec; from Hawkins & Co., Montreal; from Schmitt & Bristeckel, St. Louis.

Mr. A. (looking wise): No wonder you stay open, Louis.

(Suddenly the boy outside dashes into the store, grabs up some material and dashes out again.)

Louis (apologizing): He's a very nervous boy. His name is Harry.

(A man enters. Mr. A. looks him over, then wanders to the door to look out. To his amazement, he sees the French tri-color flying. In a few minutes the customer leaves.)

Mr. A. (bewildered): What's the matter with you, Louis? You take down the American flag and you——

Louis (cautiously): Ssh! That was Mr. Lorel from Donet's, Quebec. A French firm clear through. You know, Bennie, business ain't so good—you gotta use tact, y'know.

(The door flies open. Harry gallops rheumatically through the air, seizes another flag and beats it. Soon the British emblem is floating on the breeze.)

Louis (sprucing up): Ah! Mr. Fetherston of Hawkins & Co., Montreal, must be coming. One of our best customers, Bennie.

(Mr. Fetherston takes one look at the banner, half-salutes, swells out his chest and enters. He gives an order for $1200 worth of goods. He leaves.)

Mr. A. (admiringly): You gotta hand it to you, Louis. You certainly got the business instinc'.

Louis (getting perky): Yeh, and I got a German one, too. For Mr. Bristeckel of Schmitt & Bristeckel.

(Suddenly Harry performs another lightning leap. In and out in a jiffy!)

Louis (wildly): Harry! Harry! You got the wrong flag! That's the French one! You'll ruin me! Mr. Bristeckel is the only one what ain't been here yet.

(While Louis is tearing his hair, the door opens. The suave Mr. Lorel, from Quebec, stands on the threshold. He has forgotten something. He has come back to add $800 worth to his order. When he exits Louis collapses.)

Mr. A. (kindly): Louis, it ain't worth it. If they all should keep forgetting and coming back, can you imagine what would happen to you? You would be like the chameleon who killed hisself trying to make good on a Scotch plaid dress!

Louis (weakly): I know, Benny, but business isn't good. Harry, come here. You're a good boy. You're smart. Here's a dime. Go blow yourself. But put up the Gloria Waist Co. flag first, Harry.

One on Uncle John.

THE small daughter of the house was busily setting the table for expected company when her mother called to her:

"Put down three forks at each place, dear."

Having made some observations on her own account when the expected guests had dined with her mother before, she inquired thoughtfully:

"Shall I give Uncle John three knives?"

Couldn't Tell.

THE late Congressman W. W. Wedemeyer used to tell a story of rain in the Klondike. He was going up the Yukon on a Government junket, and the sky drizzled all the way. At one landing a dejected looking "sourdough" stood on the wharf awaiting the boat.

"I say, partner," asked Wedemeyer, "how long has it been raining?"

"Dunno," was the reply, "I've only been here 17 years."
